Eleven to One, Wet.
Not All Souls, But Some Souls.
Gold in the Skyscrapers.
Four Suicides.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

STATISTICS GATHERED by a woman's organization show that candidates for Congress, both Senate and House, number eleven wets to one dry.

That may have some connection with the fact that the so-called "Welfare Island," a dismal prison in the East River, New York City, has had a serious riot among seventeen hundred men locked up there.

The United States government, investigating, says the rioting was not caused by lack of food or cruel jailers. And you may be interested, as the government is, in the fact that two sets of drug peddlers among the convicts were fighting for control of the profitable drug peddling, and that started the riot.

You can imagine how successful prohibition must be when it cannot even keep drugs away from miserable criminals in their prisons.

ANOTHER PIECE of news will interest those that write the history of the "Christian" Church. The fashionable "All Souls" Episcopal Church in New York was padlocked because its rector insisted on allowing Negroes to come in and hear him preach.

The respectable vestry demanded separate services for blacks and whites, and padlocked the door.

BISHOP MANNING, head of the Episcopal Church in New York, much to his credit, ordered the locks broken, entered with two hundred colored people following him, and preached.

"All Souls" seems to be the wrong name for that church, since it would refuse religious teaching to souls that happen to be locked up in black skins. The name of the church should be changed to "SOME Souls."

THE BRITISH recently invited the world to adopt a "sterling currency" based on the British pound, and presumably on the paper pound, since Britain no longer pays in gold.

Yesterday the pound fell to the lowest price of 1932, being worth only three dollars, thirty-two and three-quarters cents. Bankers think the pound will go even lower.

THAT WILL discourage "the sterling currency" idea. We have our ups and downs, but our dollar at least stays up. In fact it stays very high up, almost too high to reach.

Not that the country, as a country, lacks money. Looking at New York's skyscrapers you might truly repeat the old actor's words:

"There's gold in them thar hills."

NEW YORK banks at this moment contain fourteen thousand million dollars of real money. Five million, seven hundred and ninety-five thousand savings depositors have four thousand, eight hundred millions saved up. Big corporations and big men have about about ten thousand millions more.

The Government Reconstruction Finance Corporation announces that up to September 30 last it had lent to banks, trusts, insurance companies and building and loan associations more than one billion dollars.

There is plenty of money in the government and in the banks. Also there is plenty of water in the ocean and the Great Lakes. The question is how to get it on the land, at the roots of the plants.

SUICIDES, MORE numerous in the United States now than they have ever been, continue their strange course.

Of two men that killed themselves in New York, both had jobs, both were past fifty. One killed himself to join his wife. He found life not worth while without her, and wrote a poem saying she had gone to prepare a place for him.

Such a good example to other husbands should have lived.

One girl, 20, found dead, had not a penny left. Another, 16, would not say why she took poison. But you can guess. It is usually the same old story at 16. Of these four—and there are many others in the day's news—two inhaled gas, two drank poison. The young girl may live.

LONDON IS a little worried about a "hunger army" marching on the city. Riots are feared. London police, tactful and even gentle in dealing with mobs, do not carry revolvers. It is by their own choice that they do without them. If a man knows you cannot kill him he is usually less rough.

NEW YORK State expects to poll more than five million votes this year, a new record, which indicates that something unusual will happen on November 8th.

DID YOU read what Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, said at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London, last Thursday? His words expressed deep pessimism and uncertainty. He thinks events are now "outside the control of any man and any government and any country."

He says also:

"The difficulties are so vast and so unlimited that I approach the subject not only in ignorance but in humility."

When the governor of the Bank of England approaches any subject "in humility," you may be sure that something serious is happening. That speech helps to account for the drop in sterling.

THIS EARTH is about twenty-five thousand miles around, and eight thousand miles through. Those are also the dimensions of the depression. But the world has recovered from worse depressions, will recover from this one, and forget it.

Marriage 'A Mistake'

MRS. ALVERDA M. HEINER, 23 . . . 'A LITTLE GIRL'S MISTAKE'

Mrs. Heiner, 231 Greydon avenue, McKees Rocks, today freed of marriage bonds, ended by Judge S. H. Gardner in her suit charging desertion. She married Louis P. Heiner at 18, says "It was all a mistake made by a little girl." This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

WIFE DIVORCES SALESMAN

Mrs. Alverda M. Heiner, of 231 Greydon avenue, McKees Rocks, who went to Wellsburg in 1927 when she was 18 and was married to Louis E. Heiner, a salesman, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

She testified her husband became intoxicated, stayed out late at night, told her he was dissatisfied and said that if she did not get out he would. Later he deserted her, she said.

Divorce actions filed include Albert G. Good vs. Minnie L. Good, Hazel I. Carnahan vs. Charles H. Carnahan, Hugh A. Ernst vs. Blanche Ernst.

Henry Ford Sued In Deal for Inn

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Henry Ford, Detroit manufacturer, is named as the defendant in a $100,000 action filed in Federal Court here today, by Herbert K. Allard, of Cranston. Counsel for Mr. Allard claims $69,000 is due him in commissions for purchasing the site of Ford's Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Mass., and adjacent land.

Curtis Speech Off, 'Air Too Damp'

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Vice President Charles Curtis arrived here today to make an open air campaign speech in front of the state Capitol Building, then declined to speak. He explained:

"The air is too damp. It would injure my voice."

High School Girls Reported Missing

Two girls, students at South Hills High School, were missing today, their parents reported to the Bureau of Missing Persons.

The girls disappeared yesterday afternoon. One left a note in her home announcing they were going for an auto ride with boy friends.

Radio Singer Killed In Plunge of Auto

MODESTO, Cal., Oct. 25—(INS.)—Miss Marjorie Cowan, San Francisco radio singer, was killed early today when the automobile in which she was riding with two other women and a Navy lieutenant plunged down an embankment.

'Excessive Dancing' Jails Marathon Pair

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Evelyn Ball, 18, of Harrisburg, Pa., and John Gill, 36, of York, Pa., were under arrest today at Ridgewood, L. I., on charges of excessive dancing at a marathon.

CARDINALS SIGN HORNSBY

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby, who was deposed last summer as manager of the Chicago Cubs, will take the "come back trail" with the St. Louis Cardinals next year.

Announcement was made today that the "firebrand" of major baseball had signed a one-year contract as a player with the club which he piloted to a pennant and world championship in 1926.

"The Rajah," it was announced, will go to the Cardinal training camp next spring as a candidate for a regular job as second baseman, the position where he starred in his heyday. Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, said he was confident Hornsby would be able to play major league baseball and that he would be of material help to the St. Louis club in the 1933 pennant campaign.

It was Breadon who, when Hornsby was at the height of his fame, traded him to the New York Giants for Frank Frisch and Pitcher Jimmy Ring, although, as manager, Hornsby had piloted the Cardinals to the world championship in 1926. And now Breadon thinks "the Rajah" deserves a chance to rehabilitate himself in the major league baseball world.

Salary terms of the contract were not announced. It was made known, however, that under its terms Hornsby will receive his unconditional release at the end of the 1933 season.

Hornsby signed the contract with the understanding he was not considered a possible future manager of the Cardinals. He said he would subordinate himself to Manager Charles E. Street, and that he expected to be released if Street decided he was unable to help the club as a player.

TOADSTOOLS KILL TWO IN FAMILY

Mother, Son Dead, Husband Stricken In Homestead

Toadstools eaten with mushrooms by an unemployed Homestead family, said to have been in want of food, today had caused the death of a mother and her son and the probable fatal illness of her husband.

The dead are Mrs. Helen Karminsky, 49, of 508 City Farm lane, and her son by a former marriage, John Sonjak, 21. Her husband, Paul Karminsky, 49, is in the Homestead Hospital, not expected to recover.

Another son of Mrs. Karminsky, Frank, 11, ate some of the mushrooms, but suffered no ill effects. Joe, 16, a third son, was not at home.

No one in the Karminsky family has had work for several months, according to relatives and neighbors. Prior to that the husband had been working one to three days a week.

In search of food to supplement the scanty family larder, John Sonjack hunted the fields toward McKeesport for mushrooms Saturday. He gathered some, and, unwittingly, the poisonous toadstools.

A few hours after partaking of the cooked dish Saturday the mother, husband and son became ill. Two physicians were called in quick succession, the latter ordering all three to the hospital.

The mother died early today. Her son succumbed six hours later. The husband was said to have little chance to live by attendants.

Bandit Gang, Kidnapers, Captured

STREATOR, Ill., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Five members of a gang which robbed the First National Bank of Ransom, 10 miles from here, kidnaping the bank president and a girl bookkeeper, were captured in a brick bungalow here today.

Two or three other members of the mob escaped. Although they were sought in Streator, it was believed they had fled in an automobile.

State highway police and deputies under the command of Sheriff E. J. Welter used tear gas bombs to dislodge the men from the bungalow stronghold.

Denies Rum Bribe To Oust Pennington

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Denial was voiced today by Dr. Ambrose Hunsberger, supervisor of alcohol permits here, of the report that liquor racketeers had offered $100,000 for the removal of John D. Pennington as prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Other prohibition officials also denied any knowledge of such rumors.

President Scored by Garner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, whom he described as "leaders of the tearful chorus," have become so involved in their "if and but apologies" that they are "no longer able to present their contentions logically or honestly," Speaker John M. Garner declared here today.

In a statement dealing with the Hoover administration fiscal record and its handling of the unemployment problem, the Democratic vice presidential nominee said the cost of government had risen enormously in the past four years, and that unemployment has increased at twice the rate it has abroad.

As to the dispute over figures on the rising cost of government, Garner said:

"There is an easy way to solve this difficulty and join the issue. The Democratic charges can find no better substantiation than by citing the Hoover administration's own figures. They are displayed for all who care to read them in the Republican campaign text book of 1932.

"Here is the amazing story

SOUTH RETURNS TO DEMOCRATS

By COLE E. MORGAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(Universal.)—The return of those two wayward states, Virginia and North Carolina, to the Democratic fold, after wandering from home four years ago, is vividly reflected in returns, in the nationwide presidential postcard poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Everyone of the nine Virginia Congressional districts has recorded itself in unmistakable terms behind Gov. Roosevelt in this year's election. The same may be said of the eleven dis-

Roosevelt Sentiment Strong, Thomas Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Norman Thomas, after visiting 40 states and making 150 speeches to advance his own Socialistic candidacy for the presidency, returned to New York City today to announce that he had found "a strong Roosevelt sentiment." He said:

"It is a well-developed sentiment, based less on sentiment for the Democratic candidate than on hate for his Republican opponent, a stronger hate, probably, than in any other time in American history."

Boy, 13, Finds Body Of Father in Ravine

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 25.—A 13-year-old boy today found the body of his father, Frank Ferragotti, 37, Vanport brick worker, beneath a 19-foot culvert, where he is believed to have fallen last night.

To recover the body, workers of the McLain Fire Brick Company, where Ferragotti was employed, tied a rope around Clinton Aughenbaugh, of Beaver, lowered him into the ravine and then hoisted the body of Ferragotti to the culvert floor.

Irish to Refuse Welcome to Wales

NEWRY, Northern Ireland, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—By a vote of 9 to 5 the City Council today declined to present an address of welcome to the Prince of Wales when he visits Ulster next month to open the Parliament of Northern Ireland.

Nationalist and Labor members gave as their reason for refusing a statement attributed to Lord Craigavon Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, that he had invited the Prince to open "a Protestant Parliament for Protestant people."

LINK CONVICT TO LINDY 'HOAX'

Gem Robber at Scene Of Ransom Swindle, Clue Indicates

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The Daily News says Val O'Farrell, criminal investigator and writer for that newspaper, has a new clue placing Arthur Barry in the Bronx during the negotiations by Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon for the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Barry, a notorious gem thief and escaped convict, was arrested Saturday night in a New Jersey farmhouse.

O'Farrell, the paper says, was informed by an unidentified taxicab driver that Barry was making frequent trips to the Bronx at the time Dr. Condon was advertising for instructions from the kidnapers. It was in the Bronx that Dr. Condon paid a fruitless $50,000 ransom.

O'Farrell was quoted further as saying that Barry once threatened to steal the children of Jesse L. Livermore in an effort to deter Livermore from aiding the state in prosecuting him on a robbery charge.

Dr. Condon could not be reached for comment.

STANDS BY DENIALS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Arthur Barry's continued denials that he had anything to do with the Lindbergh kidnaping were not fully credited by Newark and state police. They concluded today to hold the notorious jewel thief for at least a week while they check his movements on the March night Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was lifted from his crib at Hopewell and later slain.

Barry, who escaped from Auburn Prison in a jail break in 1929 and who was captured Saturday night in his Sussex County hideaway, offered police an alibi to show he had no part in the kidnaping.

He said he was at home on the night the child was stolen. Otto Reutter, farmer and owner of the house in which Barry had been living since June, 1931, confirmed this statement, police said. Reutter, police said, remembered the time of the kidnaping because, he asserted, he and Barry read the story in a newspaper the next day.

HANDWRITING CHECKED

Meanwhile, Barry's handwriting will be checked against the ransom note left by the kidnapers and he will be questioned further.

Police talked to him at length today without learning anything that might connect him even remotely with the kidnaping.

He wore tortoise-shell glasses and cheap clothes when he was brought to Newark police headquarters from the farmhouse between Newton and Andover, where he was arrested. He had also grown, since his prison escape, a short mustache, which he had dyed, with his hair, a reddish color.

UTILITY QUIZ SUBPENAS RECORDS

Duquesne Company's Figures at Issue; Miss Ainey Ready

HARRISBURG, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for the Senate Public Service Commission investigating committee, today utilized the power of subpena to obtain Duquesne Light Company data which he said had been refused by the commission.

He subpenaed Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman, and B. Frank Morgal, chief of the Bureau of Accounts, together with commission reports which the counsel said would show all capital writeups of the Duquesne company.

DATA REFUSED

Eaton said he had asked for these reports on October 14, and had received from Louis Tevell, secretary of the commission, a letter declining to forward the data. Tevell informed the committee the reports had not been acted upon by the commission and were prepared by the bureau of accounts as unofficial work sheets.

The secretary took the stand that the reports, based on data supplied by the company, would be unfair to the company unless supplemented by additional data.

Eaton in announcing the issuance of the subpenas said he regarded the reports as proper material to be reviewed by the investigation.

MISS AINEY READY

Eaton announced also that Miss Kathleen Ainey, daughter of the late commission chairman, will appear at the next session of the committee Thursday to make a statement in behalf of her father which she believes will be of interest to the committee. With her will appear John T. Connelly, Philadelphia, attorney for the Aineys.

At this hearing Eaton plans to inquire further into the financial activities of the former chairman. He said he had investigated personally the purchase by Ainey of stock in Prudent Credit, Inc., Harrisburg loan company, and had learned that all but one of Ainey's transactions had been made by check.

The cash transaction was made, Eaton said, through Secretary Tevell, who has volunteered to appear before the committee this week to explain the matter. Tevell, the counsel indicated, will testify Thursday also.

MALONEY TOLD TO GET ON JOB

Judge Frank P. Patterson today suggested to Constable A. M. Maloney, of the First Ward, that he resign as a city detective and devote all his time to his constable job. Maloney said:

"I will do so providing I can get work to do as constable."

The feud between Maloney and Alderman T. A. Flanigan, under whom the constable serves cropped out again with recommendations for deputy constable.

Judge Patterson refused to appoint any deputies, taking the matter under advisement. He, however, tentatively selected a compromise slate composed of J. J. Cain, of the Maloney faction; William Duncan and Ross S. Talamo of the Flanigan group and Frank McCloskey, the court's personal choice.

Wife Charges Mate Eloped With Mother

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Ted Pawlowski's wife, Lillian, charged in divorce court that her husband had eloped with her mother. The court today withheld final action.

Betty Gow Back; Lindys Name 2nd Son John

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Betty Gow, who was little Charles Augustus Lindbergh's nurse, returned to this country today on the S. S. Caledonia after a long vacation in her native Scotland.

She looked very fetching in a brown ensemble, topped by a tight fitting pique hat. A sprig of lilies of the valley gave a touch of color to her dress, but she was the same sad-faced girl who left this country several months ago to forget the horrible weeks when tragedy visited the Lindbergh home at Hopewell.

She refused to say anything about her plans and as she fled questioners, her only comment, in a breaking voice, on the verge of hysteria, was:

"I won't say anything."

She sped away in a car bearing New Jersey license plates, but so far as is known, no memer of the Morrow or Lindbergh households met the ship.

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 25.—After more than two months of indecision, the Lindbergh baby has been named John Morrow Lindbergh.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh decided on the plain name John some time this week. They had fought shy of calling the second child, born six months after the murder of the first one, by any name suggesting that dead child and the typical American name finally was chosen because it was simple, masculine-sounding, and the sort of name the boy could make mean whatever he wished, a close friend said. He could be John, Jack, Johnnie, or—as is likely—"Lindy" like his father.

The middle name, Mrs. Lindbergh's family name, was given out of respect for the late Senator Morrow, her father.

Candy Girl Steals Kiss From Il Duce in Factory

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Premier Benito Mussolini has the kiss of a girl he never saw before as a symbol of the goodwill he found in Turin, known heretofore as the hotbed of anti-Fascism.

The kiss was not on the leader's program—a program which began Sunday night and ended late today—but it was accepted nevertheless along with several pockets full of candy.

The incident occurred in a chocolate factory, one of several industrial projects visited by the Premier yesterday. As the guest of honor strode through the plant, a group of the girl workers suddenly left their machines and surrounded him.

A plump brunette stepped forward, grabbed the Premier's left arm and reached up and planted a kiss on his cheek. Then the other girls pushed around him and stuffed his pockets full of chocolates.

A few minutes later, the Premier was addressing the several thousand employes of the plant, and as he spoke he drew forth chocolate after chocolate, eating them, as it were, between paragraphs.

ROOSEVELT, HEADING NORTH, TO TALK ON BEER TONIGHT

CROWDS CHEER GOVERNOR IN SOUTH

Nominee's Train Will Make Brief Stop In Washington

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 25. — Heading north today on the last lap of his second campaign swing which carried him 3,000 miles through the Middle West and into the heart of Dixie, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was determined to continue his attack on President Hoover's "doctrine of despair."

The Democratic presidential nominee was scheduled to arrive in Baltimore at 6 o'clock tonight, where he will deliver the final speech of the present tour. It was hinted he would talk about beer and the federal budget.

CHEERED AT RALEIGH

Raleigh gave Gov. Roosevelt a tremendous welcome. A big crowd stretched out in all directions along the tracks when the special train came to a halt. A band played "Happy Days."

Roosevelt said:

"When we come into control of administration on March 4 we are going to strive to restore prosperity to all the nation."

The terrific strain of his nation-wide campaign was beginning to tell today on Gov. Roosevelt's voice. He was so hoarse that he could barely speak above a whisper.

A 15-minute stop was scheduled at Richmond, Va., at 2 p. m. The Roosevelt special was due in the national capital at 5 p. m., where it will pause for 10 minutes while the Governor fires another shot at the Republican administration in a brief rear platform speech.

Short stops were planned for Southern Pines, Sanford and Henderson, N. C.; Kelton, Hermitage and Fredericksburg, Va.

Before the campaign closes Gov. Roosevelt will expound his views and reiterate his staunch opposition to cancellation of war debts.

During the final two weeks of his campaign in the industrial East, he will continue to pound home the point that prompt modification of the Volstead law to permit a federal tax on beer will go a long ways toward balancing the budget and warding off the danger of another boost in taxes.

Party leaders have told the Governor that his declaration against payment of the bonus until there is a balance in the treasury, and his proposal that beer be legalized and taxed to aid in balancing the budget, has "clinched" the East for the Democratic national ticket.

GREAT RECEPTION

Heartened by the enthusiastic receptions accorded him by cities and towns in the Middlewest and the border states of Kentucky and Tennessee, which culminated in one of the greatest demonstrations in Atlanta that the Southland has ever known, Gov. Roosevelt observed:

"I'm not conceding a single state now to the Republicans—not even Vermont."

In a stinging speech at Atlanta, Roosevelt accused President Hoover of preaching the "doctrine of despair" and with having "squandered" $500,000,000 in a futile effort to stabilize prices of farm products.

Reiterating his declaration that prosperity cannot be restored to the country until the prices of basic farm products are boosted to a high level, Gov. Roosevelt coined a new campaign slogan—"the forgotten market."

He said:

"We must return to the forgotten market of the agricultural population. We have looked beyond the seas for the riches that were lying unnoticed at our very feet. When we come to recognize this simple fact, when we get back to plain common sense, when we stop worshipping false gods and chasing rainbows, happiness and prosperity will come to American workers and farmers and businessmen—to the American people.

'ACTION' NEEDED

"When we stop listening to the apology that things might have been worse and give our whole-hearted support to those who preach the gospel that through action they are going to make things better, then and then only will America resume her march to a better day."

Declaring that he was for "America first," Roosevelt said the restoration of prosperity in this country will do more to bring about world recovery "than all of the promotional schemes of lending money to backward and crippled countries could do in generations."

they tell: In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, the total expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts, excluding public debt retirement and interest, were $2,781,000,000. For the year ending June 30, 1932, the amount classified under the same heading was $3,994,700,000.

"These Hoover figures, dealing only with Hoover years, show an increase in the cost of government of $1,213,700,000.

"To anticipate the alibi President Hoover and his apologists have been making, let me say that these figures include amounts appropriated for the Federal Farm Board, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and expansion of the credit facilities of the Federal Land Banks.

CREDIT AND BLAME

"President Hoover has taken credit for every one of these federal agencies. The money by means of which they were created was actual cash taken from the Treasury of the United States. It is a direct charge against the credit of the United States and as such cannot be dismissed as a mere bookkeeping item. When Mr. Hoover takes the credit, he must count the cost.

"The measure of the increase of the cost of government is, however, not entirely told in these figures. In the interval between June 30, 1930, to June 30, 1932, the public debt of the United States was increased—again I cite the Republican text book—by $3,302,000,000.

"Mr. Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury on more than one occasion has boasted of the fact that the public debt was reduced at the rate of $900,000,000 a year in the period ending with 1930. He has made no capital, as far as I know, of the fact that the national debt was increased at nearly double that rate during the last two years.

"The leaders of the Hoover administration seem to suffer from a convenient form of amnesia with respect to much that has taken place in the past three years. President Hoover is fond of detailing at great length, as he did at Detroit, the 'whole program we proposed and have largely established to meet this emergency.'

"Those who expected Mr. Hoover to refer to something that was done in 1929 or 1930 are disappointed. They must wait, in fact, until 1931 was almost spent. 'You will recollect,' said President Hoover at Detroit in introducing his program, 'my recommendations to the Congress in my message of last December 8.' The recollection of the American people who have been brought to hunger, want, suffering and despair goes back much beyond last December 8."

CHARGES 'ASPHASIA'

"In similar fashion the asphasia of Mr. Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury appears to include all of that period prior to September, 1931. 'The financial panic which began in September, 1931,' he said no later than last week in Baltimore, 'was due directly to the European collapse.'

"If that was the beginning of our difficulties, he is too far removed from the people of the United States ever to be able to understand their troubles.

"It is hard, indeed, to escape the conclusion, judging by some of the defensive speeches made by the Hoover leaders, that they seek to be more familiar with conditions abroad than at home.

"Particular emphasis has been laid on the horrible conditions in Europe which contributed to our downfall. On October 11 the American Federation of Labor announced that 11,000,000 of the 122,000,000 residents of the United States were unemployed. On that same day unemployment in England, France, Germany and Italy, having a total population of 182,000,000, embraced 9,161,000 persons. The percentage of unemployment in the United States was 9 per cent, for the four leading European nations 5 per cent.

'INVOLVED APOLOGIES'

"The truth of the matter is that President Hoover and his associates have become so involved in 'would have,' and 'but' apologies for a task poorly done that they are no longer able to present their own contentions logically or honestly.

"President Hoover whips himself into a self-righteous fury because the Democrats have promised a saving of a billion dollars in governmental expenses and in the very breath in which he denies the possibility says that he himself will save a billion and a half if allowed to remain in office.

"Hoover figures justify every Democratic accusation. No matter how the figures of the past three years are juggled the record of futility and deception cannot be changed."

Two Leaders Talk To Fund Workers

Edgar J. Kaufmann and Dr. Philip Goldstein, the latter of the New York Jewish Welfare Board, were to be principal speakers today at a luncheon rally in the Hotel Henry of campaign workers in the $60,000 emergency fund campaign of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association.

Workers' rallies are held every night in the "W" building, Bellefield avenue, to further interest in the campaign.

SMITH BRANDS HOOVER CHIEF OF DRYS

Slashing Attack Upon G. O. P. Charges Bigotry

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—Alfred E. Smith was on the warpath today in behalf of the cause of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, and the Democratic ticket.

Democratic circles were reverberating from the fighting speech, the first of a series, delivered here before an enthusiastic crowd of many thousands in which former Gov. Smith termed President Hoover the commander of the dry forces of the nation.

Smith branded the Republican party as one of "broken promises, bigotry, deceit and hypocrisy."

He called for the election of Roosevelt and John H. Garner in order to return prosperity to the country.

HITS MRS. WILLEBRANDT

The former Governor assailed Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former United States assistant attorney general. He said she had resigned to become counsel for California fruit growers, who had developed a brick of concentrated grapes. Smith said:

"She convinced the Department of Justice this 12 per cent wine was not intoxicating. That is some stunt when you figure that old Uncle Andy Volstead fixed it at ½ of 1 per cent.

"But she did something else for them that was equally as important. She got the Farm Board to lend them $20,000,000."

In alleging that the Republican prohibition declaration was "empty" and "does not mean anything," Smith added:

"The dry forces had read that section of the platform and they know that these men are not bound by it and that when they go down to Washington, they can do as they please about it.

"Consequently, it is easy for them to receive the approval of the Anti-Saloon League, the Women's Temperance Union, the Ku Klux Klan, the Methodist Conference and the aggregations of bigots that make up what they call the dry forces."

OLD TIME SPEECH

It was an old-fashioned, biting Al Smith campaign address, with the 1928 Democratic standard-bearer drawing the tumultuous cheers of the 17,000 persons packed in the armory and twice as many outside.

Smith referred caustically to "those rosy promises" of the Republican party in 1928 "that there was to be a chicken in every pot that every workingman would have two automobiles and that he would go from the mill to his home with his silk socks on."

Former Gov. Smith claimed credit for writing the plank in the Democratic platform which called for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

Spectator Stricken At Smith Rally Dies

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—William Spray, Jr., 31, Newark, suffered a heart attack during the excitement of the welcome to Alfred E. Smith last night. He died a few minutes later in the emergency hospital set up in the Armory.

More than 50 persons, mostly women, were treated by doctors and nurses. Some were affected by the heat in the crowded Armory shed.

MISS ELEANOR WHITNEY . . . NO MIDDLE-AISLE UNTIL 1945!

Columnist Advised She Won't Marry—Not for 13 Years

Eleanor Whitney, winsome brunette with Ed Wynn's "Laugh Parade," showing this week at the Nixon Theater, isn't going to marry anyone for a long, long time, she said today.

Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist, had her paragraphed to wed Al Duff, press agent, of Boston. But Miss Whitney said it wasn't so. She said:

"I am not going to marry anyone until I am 35 years old."

Miss Whitney is 22

She's for Roosevelt.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—SOS signals were flashed early today by the steamship Elder, four miles south of Green Island off the Alaskan Coast, according to a dispatch received here by the Radio Corporation of America.

Slain Man's Body Found in Bathtub

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The body of an unidentified man, the head battered and lying face down in a bathtub into which steaming hot water poured, was found today in an apartment at 327 East Sixteenth street. Painters discovered the body.

BONUS SCORED BY COLEMAN

One hundred members of Maj. John Baird Atwood Post, veterans of Foreign Wars, were told the ex-soldiers' demand for immediate payment of the bonus was unfair in a campaign address by Republican County Chairman W. H. Coleman at noon today.

Coleman, speaking at the weekly luncheon meeting, said:

"Harding and Coolidge vetoed the bonus. Yes, and so did Hoover, and after listening to Roosevelt the other night, I am of the opinion that he would have, and probably will do the same.

"Is it fair for the ex-soldier to ask his government in time of stress for immediate payment of the bonus? I don't think it is."

Next week, a Democratic speaker will address the veterans at the Nixon restaurant.

Train Victim's Two Companions Hunted

Struck by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad switch engine, David Smith, 40, Negro, of 1422 Watson street, was found fatally injured today in Brady street, where he had been carried by two companions, according to police. The trio had been picking up coal along the railroad tracks when the train hit Smith, it was said. He died in Passavant Hospital. Police are hunting his companions.

HOOVER STUMP PLANS STILL UNCERTAIN

Decision Not Reached On Midwest and Coast Trips

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With the presidential ballot boxes opening two weeks from today, President Hoover this morning held in abeyance final decision as to his plans over the remainder of the campaign.

During the morning he received no visitors other than the five members of his official family who met with him in their regular cabinet session. He devoted himself to speech writing and governmental business, and canceled his scheduled press conference for the twelfth time in succession.

PLANS UNCERTAIN

No announcement of completed campaign plans is expected. Instead, it was said in informed quarters to be likely that the Chief Executive intends to determine where the situation is hottest at the moment and shape his plans accordingly on short notice.

Returning from his swing into the Midwest, climaxed by his Detroit speech Saturday, the President laid tentative plans for a trip to Indianapolis and possibly to Chicago before delivering his next announced addresses in Newark and New York next Monday.

Although authoritative sources confirmed these tentative arrangements, no announcement has been made. The President so prepared for the proposed trip into the Midwest that it could be postponed until later if the preparation of his New York speech requires too much time.

Unofficial reports continued in circulation that Mr. Hoover might make a trans-continental trip during the last week of the campaign, but such a trip has not been decided upon.

Mr. Hoover spent a brief time at work in the Lincoln study of the White House this morning before reaching his desk in the executive offices. Harry S. New, former postmaster general, who has been campaigning for the President in Indiana, was a White House caller, but found Mr. Hoover engaged.

Some of the President's cabinet officers were out of the capital, most of them on speaking tours. The five who attended the cabinet session were Secretaries Stimson, Adams, Attorney General Mitchell and Secretaries Chapin and Doak.

TARIFF BODY STUDIES RATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—By order of President Hoover the United States Tariff Commission today was engaged in an investigation of tariff schedules on 16 major commodities with with a view to protecting a number of American cities from increased unemployment.

Currency depreciation in 30 foreign countries ranging from 5 to 55 per cent, the President wrote Chairman Robert Lincoln O'Brien, has reduced standards of living abroad "and greatly widened the cost of production between the United States and those localities."

The commodities on which Mr. Hoover thinks it may be necessary to increase the tariff are rag and grass rugs, brushes, electric light bulbs, cutlery, pottery, rubber boots and shoes, leather gloves, silverware, jewelry, canned vegetables, dried beans, iron and steel products, metal goods, canned fish, lumber products and chemical products.

In his letter ordering an immediate inquiry, the President inclosed a long list of the cities "where there has been actual increase of unemployment or alternatively where it is inevitable that it will increase from importations" unless they be halted.

Democratic Victory Forecast by Ritchie

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Returning from a speaking tour which carried him to Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Buffalo, Gov. Ritchie said today Democratic victory in the presidential campaign seems assured. He added:

"I suppose that Herbert Hoover is going to carry something, but I didn't learn on the trip what it is."

Scours U. S. for Drunk, One Bobs Up at Door

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—The Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, of Tremont Temple, who returned from a nation-wide tour and said he did not find a single drunk on the streets, and his son, the Rev. Russell M. Brougher of Brooklyn, N. Y., both drys, took opposite sides and debated prohibition last night.

When they finished, the audience filed out onto the street, to see a patrol wagon clash up and take in a man who had been arrested for drunkenness. The resulting jam caused a traffic tieup in front of Tremont Temple.

The father argued the dry side, and answered a set of 10 questions propounded by his son, who became a wet "pro tem."

Dying Woman Describes G. O. P. Leader's Death

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The expected death of Mary Nash may keep authorities here from learning further details of the fatal shooting of Col. William M. Inglis, 58, and the wounding of Miss Nash in their apartment Saturday night.

Physicians said peritonitis had developed in the abdominal wound of the 30-year-old woman and they feared she may die. Blood transfusion was being considered today.

Miss Nash has not altered her story that the Republican state leader shot her and then turned the pistol upon himself. She said they had been drinking.

Miss Nash told officers she and Col. Inglis were married and had been living in the apartment three years.

She said he found his pistol, which she had hidden and suddenly appeared from behind a bureau, aiming the gun at her. She continued:

"I raised by left leg in an involuntary gesture of self-protection—I sort of scrunched up—and then he fired."

Detectives said they were satisfied Col. Inglis had shot the young woman and then himself. This statement came after a postmortem examination showed powder marks inside his skull.

CAROL, HELEN RUMORED NEAR TRUCE ON SON'S BIRTHDAY

FORMER QUEEN HOLDING PARTY FOR MICHAEL

All Rumania Stirred By Reports of Reconciliation

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The persistent rumors of reconciliation between King Carol and Former Queen Helen, of Rumania, today overshadowed the interest of the capital in the eleventh birthday of their son, Prince Michael, the youngest former king in Europe.

Despite all denials, the populace especially the farmers, with whom Princess Helen is very popular, still believe peace between her and Carol is just around the corner. They were more than ever convinced of this by the mystery and excitement of the former Queen's unannounced arrival in the capital yesterday.

Princess Helen, in her own palace, set a party table with 11 candles grouped about a huge birthday cake.

They brought Michael from Sinaia by automobile this afternoon and drove right to his mother's door. She was waiting and, as the boy stepped from the car, she took him in her arms, kissed him fervently on both cheeks and hurried inside.

King Carol, it was understood, would not come to the princess' residence for the birthday party, and a statement from the cabinet said the boy's birthday would not be observed officially until his saint's day November 18. This was said to have been decided on to permit Helen to give a private party.

The lad, who served as king under the regency of Dowager Queen Marie during King Carol's exile in Paris and elsewhere, is not encouraged to talk about the divorce between his parents. What he thinks about the latest development in their quarrel over him, therefore, must be conjecture.

Helen Urged to Leave Unless Lupescu Departs

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Members of the British royal family have advised Princess Helen, of Rumania, to leave Bucharest immediately unless Mme. Magda Lupescu, King Carol's old-time favorite, departs, according to private advices today.

Princess Helen's royal British relatives, it was learned, advised against her trip to Rumania and urged her in any case to return and conduct reconciliation negotiations from London unless Mme. Lupescu leaves the country.

Meanwhile, Mme. Lupescu remains aloof at her villa at Sinaia.

Comedian Must Pay Alimony to Wife

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A Superior Court Judge ruled yesterday Bert Gordon, stage comedian, must pay his wife, Edna Wheaton, former Follies star, $35 weekly alimony pending trial of her suit for separate maintenance.

In her petition, Miss Wheaton said Gordon's salary averaged $250 to $500 weekly and asked $500 monthly for herself. She asserted Gordon refused to speak to her for days and embarrassed her before her friends.

Peiping Enrolling Women as Police

PEIPING, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—The city of Peiping today became the first in all of China to inaugurate a force of policewomen.

The Bureau of Public Safety has announced plans to enroll 100 women in the police corps. A high standard of education is to be required and a period of training will precede assignment to active duty. The policewomen, it was announced, will be equipped with "becoming" uniforms.

Architect Ends Life Over Lost Fortune

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—The futile struggle which Corby B. Comstock, 58, noted architect, waged for months was over today.

He shot and killed himself in his midtown office, for which he was unable to pay the rent for the past two months because of unsuccessful efforts to retrieve a lost fortune. Among his friends Comstock was regarded as prosperous.

Opera Singer Visits Parents In Ohio

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 25.—Arthur Anderson, Metropolitan Grand Opera star who broke into fame last January, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, here. QUEEN MARIE OF RUMANIA . . PLANNING TO VISIT THE U. S.

Rumania's Dowager Marie, King Carol's mother and 57 on Saturday, planning to visit the U. S. again to see people and places she missed when King Ferdinand's fatal illness cut short her 1926 trip. Her Majesty explains, however, that depleted financial resources prevent her from making an expensive trip at this time.

HIT-RUN KILLER OF BOY HUNTED

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A hit-run motorist who killed a little boy on a pushmobile, then hid the broken body in scrub oaks three miles away was sought by police and aroused citizens today.

Joseph Konkel, 11, was playing with his twin brother William Sunday near his Flanders, Long Island, home, when the car zigzagging wildly, bore down on them, William said, adding:

"Then a man and woman shouted to us to look out. That's all I remember."

William was knocked unconscious, but not badly hurt. The body of Joseph was not found until yesterday, when a posse came upon it three miles away. Police learned two women were with the hit-run driver.

New Hymns 'Jazzy,' Says M. E. Bishop

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—A reflection of the reckless gayety and the mad rhythm of life today characterizing modern youth has made itself felt even in religion, according to Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield, retired, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He said:

"Some of the modern hymns are hardly more than religious jazz."

WOMEN CAUSE STOCK 'DEAL' ARREST

Suspect in Alleged Trade Overtures Waits Hearing

Described by county detectives as a Chicago confidence man, George Morancy was held in the county jail today in default of $10,000 bail for his alleged scheme to mulct shareholders of the Penn Central Light and Power Company out of their stocks for bonds it was charged he promised to deliver later.

Morancy was arrested yesterday as he sought to persuade Mrs. G. Alma Counsel, 531 Montview avenue, to give him $2,000 in stock of the company, in her home, detectives said.

J. E. Shute, of Altoona, vice president of the company, was notified after Mrs. O. V. Stewart, of 13 Concord place, Wilkinsburg, was approached with a similar proposition.

Shute hurried here and notified County Detective George W. Murren of the alleged fake stock broker's activities. He said the company had not authorized an exchange of stock certificates for bonds.

Detectives said Morancy refused to tell how he would profit on the transactions. In his possession the officers reported finding letters advising stockholders to turn over their certificates to him. The letters bore the names of J. H. Shearer, president, general manager and superintendent, and M. A. Miller, secretary and treasurer, but Shute said the signatures were forgeries.

Another letter, signed by Miller, authorizing Morancy to negotiate with the stockholders, also was declared a forgery by Shute.

Murren said he believed the plan was to sell the stock on the market without delivering the value in bonds.

Shute said he had received complaints, mostly from women, of a swindle scheme in the eastern part of the state.

Morancy, charged with false pretense and violating the state securities act, will be given a hearing before Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

RESCUER KILLED IN PLUNGE

MONROVIA, Cal., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—On an errand of mercy, Charles White, 40, Arcadia, Cal., fell 150 feet down a mountainside to his death today shortly before a party of which he was a member rescued P. R. Lundy, Jr., bank executive, and Lloyd Nelson, school teacher, from an almost inaccessible mountain ledge where they had been marooned for 24 hours.

Lundy and Nelson were in grave danger of being burned to death from a forest fire which started from a small fire they had lighted to attract attention of rescuers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Armed with a butcher knife, Mrs. Virgil Mitchell captured a youthful burglar and marched him into custody of her husband, working at a nearby garage. The culprit escaped while Mitchell was questioning him.

Soap, Less Rouge Advice for Beauty

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The advice of Dr. Elbert Fretwell, of Columbia University, to teachers is:

"Use more soap and less rouge and lipstick, and you will be easier to look at."

COUNTY HEADS TOLD OF PARK DAMAGES

Crops Stolen, Buildings Cut Up by Swains, Marion Reveals

South Park's polo grounds, race track, grandstands and tennis courts may be lumped in one large athletic field because the first site proposed for the polo field is over abandoned coal mines and the horses might fall through.

That was the story brought to the County Commissioners today by the new park commissioner, A. M. Marion, who urged the development at a cost of some $50,000. Although Marion's recommendations didn't get very far—they were tabled until next week—the ensuing discussion brought out some pertinent facts about the park.

PUBLIC BLAMED

Conditions there are terrible, Marion says. Or maybe it's the public. For instance:

The public has picked all the nuts from the nut trees and the squirrels are leaving the park.

The same public has stolen most of the apples from the orchard, and plumbing fixtures, lighting supplies and bannisters from the shelter houses.

But they caught the apple man and fed the apples to the park beavers, Marion said. The beavers liked 'em.

Swains has developed a penchant for cutting their initials in the shelter houses and even in the totem poles brought to Pittsburgh to show how the Alaskans live.

CLASH OVER ARRESTS

McGovern said:

"Something ought to be done about it."

Mansfield said:

"People responsible for this business should be arrested."

McGovern said:

"No, police are hired to prevent, not to arrest. I was a cop once myself and I know. You never do any good by arresting people. Look at the bootleggers."

Mansfield said and Barr agreed:

"The bootleggers are protected after arrest. Arresting people sets a good example for other people."

NICOLA DENIES VERONA CLAIM

Alderman John J. Verona, political boss of the Third Ward, wants $150,000 for services he never rendered, F. F. Nicola contended in Common Pleas Court today.

Nicola's counsel, Attorney William R. Scott, argued Verona never had laid before the County Commissioners the advantages of purchasing the Oakland site owned by Nicola's Schenley Farms Corporation for a Town Hall.

Verona, suing for the $150,000, contends he was offered this sum to encourage the sale. Final purchase is being opposed by the present Commissioners.

Philadelphia Rioter Guilty; 2 Acquitted

PASTOR POISON JURY LOCKED

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Twelve men, reported divided nine to three for acquittal, today resumed efforts to reach a verdict in the poison murder trial of the Rev. S. A. Berrie.

After seven hours' deliberation, the jury retired last night without reporting to District Judge W. J. Crump, whose instructions were for acquittal or death or life imprisonment.

Exhorting the jurors to remember "the wages of sin is death," County Attorney Phil K. Oldham declared the 52-year-old hymn-writing minister poisoned his wife last March because of intimacies with a girl in her 'teens, whom he married two months later.

But Grover Watkins, the preacher's counsel, warned:

"Don't wake up and find, after you've turned on the juice, that you've made a mistake. We've got every circumstance in the world that Mrs. Berrie died of uremic poisoning. The prosecution has not proved where Rev. Berrie even gave her a glass of water."

Belle Bennett Sinks, Hope for Life Fades

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A serious turn for the worse in the condition of Belle Bennett, motion picture actress, who suffered a nervous breakdown while on a vaudeville tour in the East, was reported last night by her physician, Dr. Leon Tiber, and her husband, Fred Windemere.

Miss Bennett underwent an operation in a Pennsylvania hospital recently and returned to Hollywood by airplane to enter a hospital here for further treatment. Little hope was held for her recovery.

There is considerable cloudiness throughout the central valleys, as a result of the low pressure, and a belt of precipitation extends from Lake Superior southwestward to New Mexico. The amount of precipitation is light generally but heavy in a few localities. Temperature changes were slight east of the Mississippi, while over the plains states there was a marked drop. Temperatures are now below freezing over the Rocky Mountain states and eastward to the middle of the plains states.

JOBLESS ARMY NEARS LONDON 'FOR TROUBLE'

City on Guard as Reds Leading March Cry Out for Violence

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Bracing itself for a situation brimming with potential dynamite, London today prepared for the invasion of the great army of unemployed converging upon the capital from all parts of the country.

Two thousand men and women, comprising the humble and the defiant, the physically strong and the weak and weary, violent radicals and the ordinarily peaceful—all were nearing London as a great mass united in demanding government relief.

Perhaps the most pathetic group of the entire army was a little band of 50 women, of all ages, who have marched all the way from Scotland and are now nearing London hungry, with blistered feet, bedraggled and drenched by several days of the heaviest rain the country has had in 10 years.

On the other extreme were the strong leaders of several contingents who openly affirmed the charge they were "out for trouble." Instead of beseeching aid, they will demand it, and police were most concerned with this section of the army.

Fred Copeman, leader of the Norfolk County section, told his followers in the market place at Braintree, in Essex County:

"I am a Communist and one of the sailors who participated in the Invergordon naval revolt. We are marching to foment unrest and draw attention to the plight of the unemployed, but we are not doped by Russian gold because we are determined that those who have got the money shall keep us."

REDS TO MARCH ON WASHINGTON

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Communistic forces are organizing the approaching "hunger march" on Washington, federal law enforcement officials said today.

The United States Secret Service and the Department of Justice have made a complete survey of the situation and are said to be in possession of a vast amount of information relative to the movements of the radical forces.

Plans already have been made for special protection at the White House, Treasury and other important government buildings as well as to protect the official personnel. The secret service will not participate directly in the law enforcement activities, except in its official duty of protecting the President and his official household.

'War-Ship' Scare Caused by Whale

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The waterfront at San Pedro settled down today to the usual routine after easing the excitement of reports that a "mysterious ship," in fact, "a disguised destroyer," was training the maneuvers of the United States fleet.

It turned out to be much ado about nothing, naval officers said. The ship was a coast whaler which has been cruising in search of whales.

Hotel Closed, Woman Owner Won't Vacate

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Miss Sarah M. James today remained a voluntary prisoner in Detroit's oldest hotel, the Franklin, of which she is part owner. A trust company which had been operating it, closed the hotel as a losing venture.

Miss James, who communicates with the outside world only by messages lowered to the street on a string, contends she could make the hotel pay her.

Submarine Lights Fail to Find Body

RIVER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Submarine searchlights at the bottom of Jabes Pond, in the mountains near here, have failed to locate the body of Paul Ducuennois, 26-year-old state game protector, which has been sought by state police and conservation officials for more than a week.

Ducuennois was believed to have fallen overboard from his canoe October 22.

Park Man Who Hit Girl in East Park

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

HOOVER GAINS MAINTAINED IN EAST

By COLE E. MORGAN

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Hoover continued during the past week to strengthen his position in the East.

This was disclosed in the tabulation of 10,222 new ballots from the six New England states, New York and New Jersey in the nation-wide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

In the eight states as a group he drew 6,388 and Gov. Roosevelt 3,834 of the new ballots. This gave the Republican candidate 62 per cent of the week's additions.

New York, which returned the largest number, gave Hoover slightly better than two to one of the week's vote; New Jersey a bit better than three to two; Massachusetts almost two to one and the other five of the New England area relatively the same advantage.

Considering the poll in these eight states from the outset, Hoover now shows 68 per cent of the vote in Massachusetts, 66 in Vermont and New Hampshire, 63 in Maine and Connecticut, 58 in Rhode Island, 57 in New Jersey and 53 in New York.

These figures do not look encouraging for Roosevelt's prospects in this highly industrialized area.

The expected favorable reaction from the Smith-Roosevelt political reconciliation has not been reflected in the poll returns up to this time. It may be awaiting former Gov. Smith's active entrance into the campaign with his announced New England speaking tour before becoming articulate in the form of poll ballots.

CANTOR CHARGE DENIAL MADE

WASHINGTON, Del., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—An answer to the accounting suit filed last February by Eddie Cantor, stage and screen comedian, and Benjamin S. Holzman, stockholders of the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation, has been filed in Chancery Court on behalf of the corporation by several present and past officials of Goldman-Sachs & Co., it was revealed today.

The answer entered a general denial of virtually all the allegations made in the bill of complaint, and asks dismissal of the suit. The answer states that stockholders' meetings of the corporation in 1930, 1931 and 1932 approved and ratified all the acts of the corporation and its officers, and adds that Cantor and Holzman voted approval of these acts at the 1931 meeting.

The bill filed by Cantor and Holzman alleged that certain individuals in the concern squandered and wasted assets in the sum of several millions of dollars and asked the court to order the defendants to render an accounting.

Increased Traffic Opens P.R.R. Track

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—The Pennsylvania Railroad's No. 2 track on the main line between New Florence and Seward, out of service for several months, has been placed in service due to increased traffic. A switch is being placed near the end of the Derry yard due to increased traffic of westbound trains.

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 25.—Twenty freight brakemen have been recalled to Conway yards by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Increased car movement was responsible.

SEEKS NOBILITY FOR RADIO

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Miss Gloria Braggiotti, social registerite of Boston, began a canvass today of Europe's nobility, seeking singing talent for American radio audiences.

Miss Braggiotti arrived on the Italian liner Vulcania, and began a search which will take her to Florence, Rome, Vienna, Berlin, Paris and London.

She hopes to find among titled families women of outstanding ability who heretofore have appeared at functions no more public than drawing room receptions.

Those chosen will be taken to the United States to appear in programs similar to the "Jack Denny's Radio Debutante" feature broadcast from New York.

Mrs. Hoover Sends Thanks For Flowers

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 25.—Mrs. John Knott Ambrose, chairman of the Beaver County Council of Republican Women, has received from Mrs. Herbert Hoover acknowledgment of flowers presented her when the presidential train halted at Zelienople recently. The message said:

"Many thinks for the lovely orchid corsage which brought me your greetings. Lou Henry Hoover."

Old-Time Fiddlers Compete in Sharon

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 25.—John Buckaley, 72, was adjudged the best old-time fiddler in a local competition. John Shaffer, 76, of Greenville, won a prize for being the oldest fiddler. Lawrence Buckalew, son of John Buckalew, was winner among the younger competitors.

VIGOROUS VOTE DRIVE MADE BY M'WHERTER

Active campaign for a place on the Pennsylvania Superior Court is being made by Attorney George H. McWherter, of Greensburg, a native of Westmoreland County. McWherter is one of the three Democratic candidates.

Attorney McWherter, born in Derry in 1888, was for several years in the railway mail service, meanwhile attending Pitt Law School, from which he graduated in 1916. He was admitted to the Greensburg and Allegheny county courts as well as the Supreme Court, and immediately interested himself in Democratic politics.

AGAINST DRY LAW

His first adventure was as a candidate for Congress in the Westmoreland County district in 1918, when he declared against adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, which he termed a police regulation having no place in the constitution. He later became Democratic county chairman, and in 1931 was a candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court of Westmoreland County, running 8,000 votes ahead of the Democratic ticket.

In addition to his legal practice McWherter is vice president of a bank. Some of his friends say he has incurred the enmity of railroad interests through the number of suits he fought for employes, and many times he has represented labor elements in disputes with employers.

The powerful Copeland organization in Westmoreland County is reported to be behind McWherter this year, which may give some assistance from Philadelphia, where Judge Copeland has some friendly political connections. McWherter in the Democratic factional strife earlier in the year lined up with State Chairman Warren Van Dyke and Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, behind the candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination.

SPEAKS FOR TICKET

Recently he has been speaking for the whole Democratic ticket, campaigning with Lawrence H. Rupp, candidate for the Senate, and Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who has been on the stump for Roosevelt.

McWherter's friends are hoping for a "break," as are the other Democratic Superior Court candidates, through the presence of the name of Judge Robert S. Gawthrop on the ballot. Judge Gawthrop, beaten for the Superior Court nomination in the spring primary, has a Liberal party nomination. He has been making no campaign, and has no hope of election, but some of his friends in the Republican party may cut one or the other of the Republican candidates to give the sitting judge a complimentary vote.

Boy Gone 2 Days, Kidnaping Feared

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Eight-year-old Ebert Halloren, missing from his home for two days, was sought by police today. His mother, Mrs. George W. Halloren, said, "I know Ebert did not run away," and police considered a kidnaping theory.

TRUTH TO FREE DRY VIOLATORS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(CNS)—Freedom for all liquor violators who tell the truth.

That, in effect, was the pledge today of Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, Philadelphia Municipal Court judge. It was voiced in a radio address here as the judge, a bitter opponent of prohibition, bitterly assailed the Eighteenth Amendment as the cause of "vicious corruption, lawlessness and disrespect for all laws."

After denouncing the Eighteenth Amendment, Judge Bonniwell defied his dry critics, who recently demanded his removal from the bench for freeing a man that admitted possessing liquor. Then he outlined his future course. He said:

"I will not send to jail any man charged with the possession of liquor, who comes before me and tells the truth."

Chooses Jail Term To 'Take It Easy'

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 25.—When Earl Sterling, 21, was fined $15 and costs or 15 days in jail, by Alderman John W. Bixler on a disorderly conduct charge, he took the jail term. He said:

"Give me 90 days if you want to. I have better use for my money, and I might as well take it easy in jail."

Sterling admitted he had the money to pay.

4 Pittsburgh Girls In Show Raid Fined

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25—Alleged to have taken part in a nude dancing exhibition in Italian Hall, Vandergrift, October 8, Barbara Fleming, Adelaide Healey, Betty Saylor and Patricia Barnes, all of Pittsburgh, have been sentenced to pay fines of $25 each.

The place was raided by state police, who said 200 men, many of them prominent, were watching the show.

5 NAMED TO AID TAX SURVEY

Five business men have been invited by City Council to serve on the citizens' committee to work with City Council in selecting articles, properties and goods on which taxes may be levied. Under the recent act of Legislature, Council is empowered to tax any article or property not already taxed by the state.

The men invited to serve on the committee are Frank A. Bell, of the Edgewater Steel Company; Charles Dreifuss, Oliver Building; Philip Murray, Attorney W. G. Negley, and Pressley H. Bailey, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. President John S. Herron announced that Edgar J. Kaufmann, A. E. Braun and Hale Hill had declined to serve.

Irish Rioters Return Loot to Shopmen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—For several days now amazed Belfast shopkeepers have been receiving quantities of merchandise looted from their stores during the labor riots early last week.

The return of the stolen goods is ascribed by the merchants to a widely published sermon delivered last Sunday by the Rev. John McCaffrey, a Methodist minister, who declared that "there can be no real peace of mind or sense of forgiveness until theire is restitution."

TEACHERS' PAY UPHELD BY BOARD

Approval of all salary appropriations and positions in the public school budget was voted last night by the finance and administration committee of the Board of Public Education as a total of $96,370 was pared from the budget.

Seven representatives of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, meeting with the committee to effect a reduction in taxes on real estate, withheld comment on the action of the board.

The Real Estate Board has centered its attack against the school budget in the expense for so called special subjects, which realtors say has increased 64 per cent in 10 years while expense of general instruction has increased only 22 per cent.

In a plea to the school board for tax reduction, the realtors said:

"When each and all of you went to school, you were without dental and medical clinics, hygiene departments, swimming pools, music lessons, playgrounds, athletic instructors, brass bands, moving pictures and various other activities superfluous to academic training which now absorb the taxpayer's dollar."

Spokesmen for the school board explained last night that they are committed to a definite policy of no salary reduction this term.

The committee will meet again tonight to begin a study of estimates for 1933 capital outlays, building maintenance, supplies and expenses.

Have Color Magic Up Your Sleeve

Bruyere's "bloused" sleeve, with under part in bright color, gold embroidered.
Sleeve of black net, embroidered in coral and flesh-color beads, in a sheer black frock.
Melon sleeve ending in bands of vivid blue and russet, gold embroidered.
Cuff of bright green braided with black and threaded with gold, on a black frock.
A coral-colored cuff and Van Dyke points embroidered in black and metal in a black frock.

When you remove your coat at an afternoon bridge, release a splash of color and a glint of gold at just the right point on your sleeve. The effect will be magical in fashionably centering the interest of your frock above board, and in flattering your hands.

Our Women's Finer Dress Section is making a lot of this sleeve color magic, with a new collection of sophisticated afternoon dresses. Of black and dark-colored silk crepes, and the new fabrics which are gracefully sheer but firm enough to tailor beautifully.

TOWNSHIP AUDIT ERRORS DENIED

An answer to a Moon Township taxpayers' petition charging errors in the recent audit by the township commissioners, was filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court, denying virtually all allegations and asking dismissal of the suit.

The answer makes general denial to the claims regarding surcharges, asserting there was only one surcharge that was correct. This was for a small amount and was paid before the filing of the answer, the answer said.

The commissioners filing the answer are J. H. McCartney, Konrad Heinlein and Henry Beltsinger, and other officers of the township, through their counsel, Horace Thomas, Jr., and Tharp, Bostwick, Stewart and Reed.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Mrs. Rahma Burket, 103-year-old business woman, died after a short illness. Mrs. Burket, a native of Syria, retired 15 years ago after conducting a business here for 50 years.

LIFE FOR SLAYER OF WOMAN

LOGAN, W. Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Clarence Stephenson, Negro, convicted of murdering Mrs. Mamie Thurman, wife of a Logan city policeman, was sentenced today by Judge Naaman Jackson to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

A 90-day stay was allowed upon motion of Stephenson's counsel to permit an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Mrs. Thurman's body was found in a ditch on the top of Trace Mountain last June. Stephenson and his employer, Harry Robertson, president of the Logan city commission, were arrested, but Robertson was not indicted.

Stephenson, when sentenced, reiterated that he was innocent.

Offers the Most Complete Assortments in the City!

Are you fully aware of the many and interesting things to be found in a well-maintained section for Knitted Underwear—beyond the expected "red flannels;" "summer weights;" and "latest things in rayons?" For instance:

Do you know that we offer 8 to 10 different weights alone; from cottons, light enough to send to India, to woolens, warm enough for coldest weather? Nicely made, whether they're as low as 25c, or as high as $8.50!

Do you know that our vast assortments include famous brands, such as Women's and Children's Globe underwear, exclusive with us in Pittsburgh; underwear made to our order; and underwear jackets and shoulderettes imported from England, Austria and Switzerland? So that if you have favorites—long sleeve, high neck, heavy weight union suits; any of the ten types of rayons; finest balbriggan pajamas; college girl eccentricities; or the rare pastel colors in bed jackets, you can find them here!

Do you know that we have an entire section for children's lingerie, unique in Pittsburgh? From panties to union suits, vests, sleepers, and shorts, everything of the best is carried in one spot; in complete size ranges; for boys or girls; with prices as low as 25c, or up to $2.95!

Do you know that we devote a section to rare things few other stores have? Lace trimmed bridal sets of the softest imaginable glove silks, priced from $6.75 a piece; beautiful Maribou trimmed bed jackets; scarfs; petticoats; hug-me-tights; and gifts, from a new side-string vest at $1; to a silk hand-fringed, hand-embroidered Italian shawl at $95!

Long acknowledged the most complete section in the city, the approaching holiday season will bring our newly beautified department even wider assortments of good lingerie—at low prices difficult to equal!

URGE ECONOMY BE PERMANENT

While asserting "voluntary" pay reductions, refunds and furloughs without pay have been of great temporary benefit to the taxpayers, the Homewood-Brushton Board of Trade has branded this form of economy as a "cowardly evasion" of the issue which must be met, and requested City Council to find some permanent way of cutting expenses.

In a letter to Council, the organization suggests a general wage reduction on a permanent basis, in some proportion to that experienced by employes of private enterprises. It also urges elimination of any bureau or department not essential to operation of the city government.

The letter, signed by D. Dale Blair, secretary, suggests Council investigate every city employe and position to determine whether they are indispensable.

The letter said the organization is apprehensive over new taxes Council is empowered to impose. As Council can tax only goods sold in the city, the board fears trade will be driven to outside communities.

Young Taft Urges Abolition of Term 'Cops'

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—To call policemen "cops," says Charles P. Taft, II, of Cincinnati, decreases public respect for the law and increases the officers' temper.

He told the International City Managers' Association: "If there must be some shortened, more familiar term, we should invent some such term as 'Bobby,' with the connotations of affection and respect, as used by the English public. Perhaps it would be wiser still if we discarded the term 'policeman' entirely, and substituted the more accurate and more appealing designation of 'civic guard,' as used in the Irish Free State."

Westinghouse 'Vets' To See Show Nov. 5

More than 4,000 members of the Veterans' Association and their families are expected at the organization's annual entertainment November 5 in Syria Mosque. The association is composed of employes of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of 20 or more years of service. Ten acts of vaudeville are scheduled.

SPANG PAINTING EXHIBIT SET

The paintings and art objects bequeathed to the Carnegie Institute by Miss Rosalie Spang will be on exhibition at the Institute from January 5 to January 22, it was announced at the Institute today. The exhibition will be a joint one of the Department of Fine Arts and the Carnegie Museum.

Miss Spang was the daughter of Charles Frederick Spang, a Pittsburgh industrialist, and one of the founders of Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc. Previous to her death, April 13, Miss Spang had resided for many years in Nice, France. Shortly after her death, it was announced she had willed 19 paintings, a marble bust of herself, and a number of art objects to the Institute.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Maytair —With— Patricia Pitt

A first night in the grand, uproarious old manner, was that last evening in the Nixon where Ed Wynn appeared with his Laugh Parade. Just the intonation of the comedian's voice, or the wave of one of his hands, almost as funny as his voice, transformed the smartly groomed first nighters into a cheering squad.

And one word, "So-o-oh," Ed Wynn's own special word, created so much laughter that it took several minutes before the comedian could make himself heard.

One enthusiastic box party included the young Harry W. Rafferys, Jane Marshall and her fiance, Aiken W. Fisher, and Mrs. Charles D. Marshall and others.

Gowned In Black

Mrs. Rafferty, the former Mary Margaret Marshall, wore an interesting gown of black crepe with a high-waisted bodice of white crepe having a cape, cut deep in the back, and banded with silver fox. Her evening wrap was of black velvet, one of the new longer evening wraps, having a cape of the velvet outlined in white fox.

Jane Marshall wore a forget-me-not blue crepe frock with a little jacket of sapphire blue velvet.

Collie Jennings was one of the most attractive young folks there. She's tall and slender and has her short blonde tresses shadow waved on top and curled horizontally about her face and the nape of her neck.

Green Crepe

Her dress was of black velvet, having an interesting square decolletage, and a full skirt, shirred over the hips. Her mother, Mrs. Richard G. Jennings, chose a frock of black crepe.

Genevieve Bell was there and Emily Frew in green crepe. Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in black velvet with brief sleeves which looked as though they were made of rhinestones. Evelyn Evans in beaded black chiffon, Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill in white crepe, Betty Kennedy in white satin, her mother, Mrs. John J. Kennedy, Mrs. George C. Burgwin, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby in purple blue lace with a scarf of petalled scarlet.

The James O. Flowers were there, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, Mrs. George Wittmer III, in black velvet with rhinestones bordering the decolletage, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary, Mrs. John B. Luckie, the Albert Horne Burchfields, the William Morris Fureys, Mrs. George Liggett Craig, Mrs. Tracy W. Guthrie, the Howard S. Evanses, the junior Theodore W. Friends, Laura Evans, Mrs. Allen T. C. Gordon, the Grant McKinneys, the Bennett Olivers and the Dorwin Donnellys.

Entertainments for brides-to-be add an occasional bit of festivity to the social aspect of our days.

Will Be Guest

Mrs. Edward H. Hegmann, the former Mary Louise Haddock, a recent bride herself, will entertain at a bridge in her home in Washington, Pa., Saturday for a bride-to-be, Marjory Taylor, who'll marry Donald Fletcher, November 26.

Betrothed In East

An interesting engagement was made known in New York yesterday, that of Mary Douglas Potter, daughter of Mrs. William Morris Carpenter, of New York, and of the late Winfield Scott Potter, of Pittsburgh, to Henry M. Jevne, Jr., son of the Henry M. Jevnes, of Stamford, Conn.

Mary was graduated from the Spence School and from Vassar and studied at the University of Florence, Italy, and is doing graduate work at Columbia University. Her fiance, a descendant of the old German family of Henneberger, is a graduate of Exeter, of Harvard University, and is student of philosophy at Columbia. No date has been made known yet for the marriage.

* * *

Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman, of Bellefield avenue, has returned from a motor trip through Germany, Italy and Austria. After a short stay here, she will leave for Los Angeles.

A group of debs is going to usher at the opening of the Children's Theater Saturday morning at the Nixon, the Claire Major Theater, sponsored here by the Women's International League.

The group includes Betty Shaw, Dorothy Blaxter, Elizabeth Craig, Nancy Doyle, Collie Jennins and Dorothy Brooks.

Margaret Barnett Boyd To Marry on Saturday

An interesting wedding of the week-end will be that of Miss Margaret Barnett Boyd, daughter of Mrs. Charles Newton Boyd, of Butler, who taught kindergarten at Winchester School recently.

She will marry George Edwin Howard, Jr., of Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwin Howard, of Butler, on Saturday, in her home with only members of the two families attending.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Aikins Mark Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kerr Aikins, of Beechwood boulevard, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a family at home yesterday.

Kathryn Cochran Becomes Bride Of Pastor

At 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Concord Presbyterian Church, Carrick, Miss Kathryn Frank Cochran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig Cochran, of Amanda street, Carrick, became the bride of the Rev. Lee Erwin Schaeffer, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Schaeffer, of Apollo, Pa., and pastor of the Chartiers "Hill" Presbyterian Church, Canonsburg, officiating in the presence of the families and a few close friends as the Rev. G. Mason Cochran, of Brilliant, O., brother of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. Walter Watson, pastor of the Concord church.

The bride wore a gown of rough crepe and lace, and her tulle veil cascaded from a cap of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and she carried gardenias and lilies of the valley. Miss Nancy Frank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Calvin Frank, of Scottdale, as her cousin's maid of honor, wore orchid crepe and carried yellow roses. Clyde Schaeffer was his brother's best man.

There was a reception at the church, followed by a family dinner in the Cochran home. After a motor trip, the Rev. and Mrs. Schaeffer will be at home in the Hill Church manse.

Dormont New Century Club Benefit Tomorrow

Mrs. Ritter

Mrs. Harry Ritter is chairman of welfare of the Dormont New Century Club, which is sponsoring a benefit bridge party in the clubhouse tomorrow afternoon. The proceeds will be used for local needy families.

Scout Institute To Open Here Tomorrow

All sorts of scout problems will come up for discussion at the field institute to be held in the Congress of Clubs tomorrow and Thursday under auspices of the Allegheny County Girl Scouts. Mrs. C. L. Pierce, county scout commissioner, will, of course, preside at the sessions which begin at 10 o'clock with a talk on "Why Girl Scouting?" by Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, of Washington, a member of the regional committee.

Mrs. H. H. Flather, another Washington regional committee member, will talk on "Needed Sponsors," and Miss Margaret Murray, of New York City, field institute secretary of the national staff, will conduct discussion groups and will close the morning session with a talk on "Local Sponsors." Miss Jeanne Christy, regional staff member, and Miss Adelaide Werner, regional director, are other speakers. There will be group meetings, a talk by Laura Holland MacDonald, county director, and discussion of committee work in the afternoon.

Encouragement in leadership, determination of money-raising affairs, interpretation of scouting, record keeping, the significance of scouting and scouting as a part of a community social program are among the topics to be taken up at the two Thursday sessions.

In attendance at the institute will be groups from 18 boroughs and towns as well as representatives from the Allegheny County Council and the county district committees.

Mt. Lebanon Unit To Give Dance For Needy

Gay decorations and a floor show will mark the second in a series of autumn dances being sponsored by the Mt. Lebanon Relief Association on Monday night in the Mt. Lebanon Park auditorium. The affair, which will be a combination of poverty party and masquerade, has been arranged by Mrs. Ralph C. Burt, chairman of the association, and her new recreation chairman, Miss Lillian Smyth.

Since the first of the year, the organization has distributed more than 1,445 baskets of food to needy families and many others are receiving help in other forms—milk, ice, coal, shoes clothing, medical supplies and employment. The association also was responsible for sending 13 underprivileged children to the Volunteers of America fresh air camp this summer.

Dormont Mothers' Club To Hear S. H. Showell

S. H. Showell, a member of the Birth Control League of Allegheny County, will address the child study department of the Dormont Mothers' Club next Tuesday evening when it meets in Mrs. William Maisch's home, Beacon Hill avenue. Miss Jean Claskey, soprano, will sing. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. C. E. Glass and Mrs. C. S. Evans.

The Charm of Caracul

OUR fur workrooms have just completed a group of Flat Moire Black Caracul Coats that are Grabowsky interpretations of the new fur mode as shown at the Paris Openings.

Careful matching from thousands of skins has created distingue coats of uniform pattern with the inimitable personality and charm of custom-made garments.

The majority of the coats are plain. Others have collars of Silver Fox or Natural Blue Fox. All have the dressmaker appearance only possible when the finest skins with the lightness and suppleness of cloth are used.

PLAIN COATS—SPECIALLY PRICED AT $495

Sketched is a Black Baby Caracul Coat with Silver Fox Collar. An outstanding value at $575

The skins that went into the making of these coats were bought before the recent sharp rise in the skin market. It may be many years before we will again be in a position to quote such low prices on luxury furs.

TAILORED HOUSE PAJAMAS MAKE STRIKING HOSTESS COSTUMES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The pajama is the die-hard of this year's fashions. Scheduled to be entirely off the list of fashions, it reappeared at Southern resorts in quantities; women who had claimed that they were through with pajamas for good found that there was really no substitute for the practical variety which is worn on the beach and around the house—and quickly returned to their old favorites.

* * *

THE RESULT is that a certain number of pajamas have unexpectedly made their appearance in the new collections of winter clothes which the better Paris dressmakers have just presented to the press. And it is to be noted with interests that every one of these new pajamas is of the practical wearable variety. Apparently the death knell was originally meant for only those fragile affairs of satin and chiffon and lace which originally had no place of their own anyway.

* * *

MOLYNEUX, always an enthusiast for the tailored type of clothes, includes two tailored house pajamas in his new collection. One is sketched today—a striking costume made of leopard patterned silk. The fabric itself furthers the illusion of fur; it is ribouldingue, the weave with an extremely deep crepe in its texture.

Benefit So Successful Another Is Planned By Congress Unit

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Although their party at the Pitt Theater last night was a benefit for the clubhouse mortgage fund, Congress of Clubs members forgot the mortgage and everything else that might smack of trouble and concentrated on the good time and the hearty laughter that "The Vinegar Tree" and the Edwin Vail Players afforded them. It was a highly successful benefit that Mrs. John H. Bricker and her aides of the interest group carried through, so successful, in fact, that another party is already being planned.

Everybody was there in her best bib and tucker and the pretty young candy-selling aides in their lovely little evening frocks added to the picture. Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, Congress president, looking smart in a gown of black satin with rhinestone bodice trim and belt, was seated with her board in one of the boxes. Mr. and Mrs. George Seifert and their guests occupied another box and in another Mrs. L. W. Mesta had among her guests her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Day. Mrs. K. K. Wood entertained with a party in honor of her niece, Miss Jean Young, and after the play took her party to the William Penn for dancing and supper.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS MARCHING ALONG

Wrigley Users Step in Line.

By MISS MINT

Left right, left right—hep, hep, hep! The Wrigley Battalion steps right along. Dollars to left and dollars to right—help in this old Depression fight. The Wrigley Dollars just travel on, up and down, and all around. They're very nice—all fresh and crisp. I've plenty of them in reserve, so don't fall behind and leave the line.

MR. RICHARD VICTOR, 1025 Chelton Ave., was enjoying Wrigley's goodness when I approached him in his office on top the Oliver Building. Mr. Victor has the Health Institute of which Pittsburgh can justly boast. His aim is health—he uses Wrigley's—"A wonderful and refreshing gum, and I find it a great thing in my work—teaching in the Gym, where I use my voice so much," stated Mr. Victor. What better recommendation for that battle against poor health?

Here are a few others who also collected their Wrigley Bounty, Saturday:

CAROLYN GLOECKLER, 3780 East St.; E. TAKASH, 1514 Rutherford St.; WM. C. TODD, 2729 Carey Way; ANNE P. THOMPSON, 314 So. St. Clair St.; F. SPIELMAN, 447 Station St., Bridgeville; LYDA B. McCUTCHEON, Kirkwood Hotel; JAS. E. BIRMINGHAM, 234 Union Ave.; MRS. L. BOLANDER, 106 Amanda Ave.; BERT O. MEADOWCROFT, 515 Fairmont Ave., Trafford City.

Okay, everyone, fall in rank, have Wrigley's gum—marching, or "at ease." Stride along till I call "Halt," then show your identification—a package of Wrigley's—and receive your Wrigley Dollar all—merit for preparedness.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Things I Never Knew Till Now.

That Mrs. Wm. Bryant, of Bozeman, Mont., stopped her wedding to have the word "obey" defined and then had it stricken out.

That Manuel Hoyos, 6 years old, is doing a two-year term at Hermosillo, Sonora, for thefting bullets worth 25c.

That Ivan J. Ruben, an Evanston, Ill., cop, was chased four blocks by a police dog, to discover the hound was toothless.

That all boys and girls, up to 16 years of age, must be in bed by 9 p. m. in a tiny Michigan town, by virtue of a local ordinance which is rigidly enforced. (Oh, Irving Berlin!)

That Virgil Bennett, of Halls Summit, Kansas, 18, accidentally shot by his brother, Darrell, lives with a bullet in his heart.

That a railroad in Olean, N. Y., runs only on rainy days. A law forbids its operation at any other time for fear of forest fires.

That Jennings Lee, a bell hop of El Paso, found $1,000 and returned it to the loser. He got a reward of 15 cents.

That Humphrey Wyatt, of Kansas City (held up and robbed recently) received a package containing his watch that had been stolen. Attached was a note informing him that it kept incorrect time.

That in a recent primary election at Hickory, N. C., only 44 people of the 7,000 in that town voted.

That H. E. Newton, an Omaha dentist, pulled his own teeth, and then performed the necessary bridge work.

That human hair is half as strong as the steel used in structural work. (Oh, I read it in a book, you dope!)

That a prospector of Tonopah, Nev., searched 19 years for gold in the Nevada desert. Two days after discovering it, he died, and the claims have since been peddled for $75,000.

That James Garrity, of Pittsfield, Mass., recently erected a monument in memory to his cat, who lived to the age of 24.

That Capt. G. G. Shaw, of the U. S. Coast Guard, went on a rescue expedition off Norfolk, Va., and while engaged in the work about 200 yards off shore, watched his house burn down.

That Judge Windberg, of El Paso, Texas, imposed a fine of one dollar on himself for illegal parking.

That John Lathota, of Cleveland, has an elecric motor that fits into a thimble, and which can haul 17 pounds.

That a school teacher contracted to each in an Idaho town. The town burned down, school and all. The attorney-general is trying to find out if she can sue a town that really doesn't exist.

That all species of birds sleep with their heads under their left wings. (That guy gets every place!)

That a human couldn't live in feathers like a hen. A hen's summer temperature often reaches 106 degrees Fahrenheit.

That 15 miles per hour is the maximum speed of an l'phant.

That bowling is the only sport you may professionally and still maintain an amateur standing in other fields.

That turtles and frogs are deaf to human speech.

That if all the salt were taken from the human body you wouldn't live 36 hours.

That Utah Mormons never use the term Miss or Mrs. It's always Sister. (Say, I'm getting to like this myself!)

That a feeble-minded person cannot write in a straight line across a page. (Try it and be convinced.

That the definition of a kiss is: "An anatomical juxtaposition of two arbicular muscles in a state of contraction!"

That in London a singer, who was heckled, stopped the tormenting by saying: "If you don't stop, I'll sing again!"

That Siberia, where the thermometer reaches from 90 below to 90 above, is only 50 miles from our nearest shore.

That fire sirens in Times square are sometimes heard on the Pacific Coast, penetrating the crystal studios on 42nd st.

And that Kelcey Allen, the critic, said to John Mason Brown, the critic: "I see that Burns Mantle gave three stars to the Theater Guild's play 'The Good Earth.'" To which John Mason Brown countered: "That's more than the Guild gave it!"

Notes on New Pictures

"American Madness," with Walter Huston Constance Cummings, Pat O'Brien and Kay Johnson, comes to the Sheridan Square tomorrow. It is a picture of the depression.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, in their comedy, "Hold 'Em Jail," are booked for the Enright tomorrow. They show the customers what two inventive lads can do in a football game.

A satire on college football, "Rackety Rax" starring Victor McLaglen, begins a week's engagement in the Fulton Thursday. Vic plays a racketeer who goes into the business of college football.

Opening in the Penn Friday, Douglas Fairbanks will be seen in "Mr. Robinson Crusoe." Fairbanks bets some friends he can subsist for a month on a uninhabited island and the fun begins.

The Stanley, beginning Friday, will show "Madison Square Garden," with Jack Oakie, Marian Nixon, Thomas Meighan, Zasu Pitts, Warren Hymer and William Collier, Sr.

A fast-moving romance, "One Way Passage," co-starring William Powell and Kay Francis, comes into the Warner Friday for a week's showing.

The team of Ruth Chatterton and George Brent is seen again in "The Crash," feature film opening Saturday in the Davis. Lois Wilson and Hardie Albright are also in the cast.

Fan

Joe E. Brown, First National film star, is a football fan. He's coming Friday to attend the Pitt-Notre Dame contest Saturday. The local office of Warner Brothers will give a luncheon in his honor in the Hotel William Penn at 1 o'clock Friday.

Ingenue Given Part In 'Lucky Devils'

Augmenting the cast for Bill Boyd's coming production, "Lucky Devils," Anita Loos, ingenue of "The Phantom of Crestwood," has been assigned an important role. She joins Tom Keene, Bruce Cabot, Eric Linden, Creighton Chaney, Rosco Ates, William Gargan, Arline Judge, Dorothy Wilson and Rochelle Hudson.

Service To Be Led By Dr. Macartney

The Rev. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will lead the midweek worship service tomorrow in the assembly room of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. The service opens at 12:15 p. m. and lasts 35 minutes.

STAGE REVIEWS -:- Nixon, Pitt Offerings Seen by Critics -:- PICTURE NOTES

Ed Wynn is Everywhere in 'The Laugh Parade' And So-o-oh!

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The most hilarious of laugh-getters started in to rock the Nixon Theater to pieces last night, and the big show-house will be a ruin before the week is out unless repairmen keep patching the stucco and bracing the joints. For "The Laugh Parade" is quite the funniest show of years—due first of all to the fact that Ed Wynn is omnipresent and ubiquitous. Which words in the native idiom mean that he is It, that he does everything, till he almost leads you to believe that he must be at least quadruplets.

Mr. Seibel

He starts in by giving as fine a Punch and Judy performance as ever was seen; he closes by playing the piano and conducting the orchestra; in between he runs the gamut from acrobatics to riding a camel, and whatever anybody else does Ed Wynn is there to make it funnier by his commentaries and facial contortions.

To hear him tell the story of the Dook who had three pets—a parrot, a horse and a cow, is a lesson in the art of story-telling. To see him demonstrate his inventions, such as the "Uh-Uh" golf invention or the self-tipping hat, is a lesson in effective comedy. He is so irresistibly funny that he can convulse an audience merely by squeaking out his "So-o-oh."

If our great financial geniuses and barons of industry put as much brains into their task as this man puts into entertainment, the depression would have been over before it started.

FUNNIEST ON EARTH

Let us admit that Ed Wynn is the funniest man on earth—and say no more about it.

But he has also brought one of the brightest and cleanest shows ever seen anywhere. I saw it in New York over a year ago, and it looks as fresh and unfrayed as if every costume had been made new for this Monday night. Everything smelled of soapsuds, not of moth-balls. And that applies to the dialogue as well. There is not a joke you are ashamed to laugh at—there is no display of undraped torsos and impudent posturings.

So much has been packed into this show that there is no room for any dullness or indecency.

If you want music, there is that song, "Oh That Kiss," as pretty a tune as you could ask. If that is not enough, there's "You're My Everything." If you still crave more, there's "Love Me Forever." And they are sung by people with voices, like Bartlett Simmons and Elsa Ersi. They are assisted by dancers who have agility, grace and beauty—such a trio as Levenoria Sabalis, Joyce Whitney and Claire Augerot would be hard to match, while the Gatanos are Apache dancers you'd rake the faubourgs for in vain.

IDEAS A SPECIALTY

The program tells who furnished the shoes and boots, and probably who supplied the block of property ice carried on, but the most significant credit is to Ed Wynn for the Ideas. There are more ideas in this show than in half a dozen usual entertainments of the sort. Everything is utilized to squeeze out the last cackle of mirth. Take Wilbur Hall, for example, a stunt musician of real genius, who can give a concert with a pair of drumsticks or a bicycle pump. By sheer injection of ideas, Wilbur's acts are raised to the altitude of comic superlativity. And that finale of the first act, in which the Goddess of Liberty moves forward with a mug of beer and blows off the foam, let loose an avalanche of joy.

There are so many good things in "The Laugh Parade" that it is easiest to dispose of them by saying that there isn't a dull spot or a stupid line. Beautiful faces and figures in the chorus, dances drilled to perfection, scenery and lighting that are as balm to weary eyes, a misanthrope with dyspepsia would have trouble in finding fault! So what's the use of trying? I laughed when I first saw it a year ago—and I laughed again at the things I laughed at then, no less than at the new Einstein joke which was put across last night for the first time. Ed wanted to bet that the joke would "go big," but he found no takers, and he made enough anyhow, for every seat in the house was filled by a smiling customer.

New Title Selected For RKO Film

"Just a Woman" has been selected as the definite title for the RKO Radio production, formerly known as "Man and Wife." Irene Dunn and Charles Bickford are portraying the featured roles in the film which is based on a story by Eugene Walter, noted playwright. Others in the cast include Gwili Andre and J. Carroll Naish.

Boxing Show Tonight Benefit For Home

A benefit boxing show for the Jewish Home for Babies and Children will be held tonight in Motor Square Garden, under the auspices of the A. A. U., and sponsored by the Brotherhood of the home. Society debs will act as aids at the affair, which will feature, in addition to 12 bouts, special entertainment. Joseph Myers is chairman of the committee in charge.

State Rebekah Lodge Warden to Be Guest

Garnet E. Drake, newly elected warden of Pennsylvania Rebekah Assembly, will be guest at a reception of the Mary Glen Lodge in Odd Fellows' Temple, Hazelwood, Thursday night. Mrs. Jennie Budd, of Sharon, president, and other officers will attend.

Chaney First Choice for Lead

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25. After looking at a screen test made by Creighton Chaney, Paramount is hot to get this young actor to play the lead in the much publicized "King of the Jungle."

Several details remained to be straightened out, but the chances are two to one that RKO will change its plans for Chaney and allow him to accept the role.

Literally dozens of persons have been tested for this picture. Once Bob Hall, the football player, almost had the part; then it was Norman Ross, the swimmer, and only two days ago Georges Carpentier was mentioned as a likely candidate.

Georges Carpentier

If the choice really falls on Chaney, it will be his biggest assignment since he decided to give up business and follow in his father's footsteps. Put under long-term contract by RKO, he played a part in "The Bird of Paradise" and recently completed a serial.

Whatever happens on the Paramount deal must happen quickly. Held up for weeks by the search for a leading man, the picture has finally gone into production without one.

TOWN GOSSIP

When Lupe Velez goes on her personal-appearance tour, she will leave her adopted daughter at home. Little Joan, who is blue-eyed and has a piquant face like Lupe's, will be in charge of her grandmother. And they say she already rules the whole family.

Being photographed so often, the stars are naturally interested in the camera art. Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur have even built a dark room, where they develop and print pictures taken with their "candid camera."

Helen Hayes

Joan Crawford is getting plenty of compliments on the personally designed gown and bracelet which she made in New York. The package was waiting when she came back from Palm Springs the other day.

Hollywood is steeling itself for the return of Russell Gleason and Billie Bakewell from their European tour. Eddie Buzzell wants to hire the Hollywood Bowl so all of Billie's friends can hear about the trip at once. In addition to that role in Mary Pickford's picture, Kari Dane is working with Bill Haines in "Let's Go." It's the first time he's made a picture here in ages.

Academy Burlesque 'Rarin' to Go'

Comedy, dished out by Billy Hagan and Harry Bentley, is the highspot of "Rarin' To Go," burlesque current in the Academy. Other principals of the show are Tangara, Mae Baxter and Connie Fanslau, dancers.

Cyrano

Walter Hampden will bring his most successful production, "Cyrano De Bergerac," to the Nixon for a week, opening Monday, November 7.

Sari Opens Her Fan

Sari Maritza uses this feathery fan to advantage in carrying on her flirtation with Herbert Marshall in the mask ball scenes of "Evening For Sale," her next picture.

-:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Center avenue will become a "first night" center tonight, when the Don Marquis drama, "Out of the Sea," will be given its first Pittsburgh presentation by the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players. The second will be given Wednesday evening. Mr. Marquis is expected to attend the opening performance. Louis Isaacs, director of the I. K. S. Players, has been drilling them for a month in preparation for this, one of their most ambitious efforts. Curtain at 8:15 sharp.

* * *

There will be no performance of the Ed Wynn musical show, "The Laugh Parade," in the Nixon tonight, when the stage will be the scene of the regular weekly radio broadcast by the comedian. The routine of "The Laugh Parade" will be resumed with tomorrow's matinee, and it will continue the remainder of the week, with an extra matinee Friday.

* * *

"Blessed Event," comedy about a columnist that was a hit in New York last season with Roger Pryor in the leading role, will give Henry Richards a chance to show what he can do as a gossip-spreading journalist when that play is given by the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt next week. On the screen the same part was played by Lee Tracy. For realism, there will be six genuine simon-pure Pittsburgh reporters in the cast.

* * *

Fannie Weisberg assures this department that the Yiddish company resident in the Lando Theater, Center avenue, is a wow, and she believes the artistry of the Hollenders, who head the company, and some of its members, deserves critical notice. The nice part of it is the lady speaks wholly as a disinterested patron, so it gives us pleasure to state that she considers Anna Hollender a comedienne of the first rank; Flo Feinstein, a singer with a wonderful voice; Fishel Singer, another David Warfield who could do wonders with "The Music Master," and I. Hollender a very good actor, indeed. And how do you like that, Mr. Manager Boris Bernardi? The current attraction is "Peshke, the Circus Girl."

* * *

"Journey's End," dramatic war play by R. C. Sherriff, will be presented in the Fellowship Hall of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church Thursday and Friday evenings by the Dracomtra Players, prominent Little Theater group of the South Hills. In the cast will be William Bergheimer, Fulton Tufts, H. B. Bainbridge, Woodrow Miller, Henry Johns, David Jones, William Fecke, Frank Yellig, George Giltenboth, Milton Frankel and Richard Collins. H. Ward Ewalt directed and G. Edward O'Donnell executed the intricate set, representing a dugout.

* * *

"Forward March," the premiere of which was to have been held here last week and was canceled when the music situation became serious, may get here next week, according to Manager Harry Brown, of the Nixon, who expects definite word on the matter today. It is showing now in Philadelphia as the first production of Lew Brown and Ray Henderson.

Newman Travelogue In Hall Tonight

E. M. Newman will present the third in a series of travel talks this evening in Carnegie Music Hall. Tonight's subject is "Singapore to Hongkong." The talks are illustrated with still and motion pictures.

'Vinegar Tree' in Pitt Fast Comedy With Farcical Trend

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Paul Osborn's farcical sophisticated comedy, with a quee title, "The Vinegar Tree," was given a merry presentatio last night by the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt. Very satis factory, it proved to be, too, giving much enjoyment to a large smartly dressed audience, the event being under the auspice of the Congress of Women's Clubs. Because the reason fo the title, which refers to the nature of the female who is th chief character in it, isn't made quite obvious by the action o the play, there was a little interpolation, something about somebody or other "sitting under the vinegar tree," which made it all quite clear, of course.

A STATE OF MIND

However, "The Vinegar Tree" isn't a physical thing at all, but a state of mind, and what a state of mind the dear befuddled lady whose antics suggested it, is in, to be sure, in this funny frolic. Imagining that a chance visitor is an old sweetheart come to revive a fancied love affair of their youth is the particular state of mind of the more than slightly dizzy woman that provides the central theme. Intermingled with it are the efforts to pin down and tether romance on the part of her tearful daughter, who seems to think that a knowledge of the "facts of life" are a necessary preliminary to real lasting attachment.

HER BIG OPPORTUNITY

Ella Ethridge, in the role of a gushing woman married for 25 years to a man whose years have made him irritable, had her big opportunity in this play, and she did herself proud—maybe even doubly proud. She laid on an affected juvenile mannerism so realistically that there was small wonder that the man she was married to was merely short-tempered. Yet one realized that her silliness was so complete that it probably evoked sympathy in him, as it did in the audience. When one is so dumb a person just has to feel sorry. Miss Ethridge swept through the action with a sort of regal nitwittedness that was compulsory of laughter.

JUMPY ROMANCE

Shirley Booth, as a lachrymose, fact-probing daughter, had an intenuous charm that kept the tears properly balanced with a spirit of youthful rebellion, as she decided first that she loved and then didn't love the boy of her dreams, and she also had a large share in keeping the laughs going.

One might say, who didn't? Certainly all six principal members of the cast did their full share. These included Alden Chase, as the visitor who set the gushing lady's heart to fluttering again; Henry Richards, as the boy friend, who loved, "but not with passion;" Sara Flint, as the aging husband, but not aging so fast, however, as no to be sensible, and Kathryn Meskyl, sister of the gusher, whose score of three husbands caused he brother-in-law to refer to her a "that bigamist." Baker Moore played a butler.

John Barrymore t Play 'Topaze'

John Barrymore's next pictur will be "Topaze," a satiric comed based on politics in post-wa France.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Sassiety

THE ELDERLY Mrs. Huntington Scatt beamed, Young Woody Scatt beamed. The minister beamed. The church choir beamed. Margot Bentree beamed. A sun beamed. Why not? Wasn't Young Woody in the act of being wedded to the lovely Margot? Wasn't it a society wedding? Of course it was.

Outside the Fifth Avenue Church was a canopy. And, outside of the canopy stood the four million. They were waiting for the regal couple to appear.

Stenographers chewed gum nervously and anxiously consulted wrist watches. Lunch hour was nearly up and the bridal couple hadn't appeared yet. The limousines sparkled in the noonday sun. The chauffeurs stood in a group and discussed the bills that their employers owed.

Finally, the Scatts emerged. Margot looked bored, disdainful. So did Woody. They knew that the tabloid photographers were there. They also knew what expressions to wear for society wedding photographs.

Two days later, they posed for more pictures. Margot posed on the rail of a huge liner with her legs crossed. Woody stood by, smiling. The society newlyweds were starting a world tour honeymoon. It was all just too lovely for words . . .

Woody and Margot did the usual things. They came back to Newport in the summer, and went to Nice for the winter. Meanwhile, they kept a beautiful apartment in town on Park avenue. It was a tough life.

Now Woody was a strange guy. Strange, that is, compared with his society fellows.

Somehow, he didn't like Newport. And he got sick of Nice very easily. Woody had a flair for Broadway. He liked shows, and dancing and night clubs where the society folks are usually as synthetic as the gin.

Now Margot was different. She liked the so-called upper strata very well. She enjoyed the formalities, the swanky teas and the delicious items of gossip. She knew nothing whatever of Broadway, and thought that "Abie's Irish Rose" was a horticultural exhibit.

Yet, despite this defference in taste, Margot and Woody had a great love and a greater respect for each other. They both believed in the honor and sancity of the home, and would never think of doing anything which might drag the name of Scatt in the mud.

The only sour note in their mutual existence, was the elder Mrs. Scatt. She, you might say, was the finger in the eye. She liked to make little speeches. Little harmless sermons about marriage and happiness and the horror of divorce.

"Remember," she'd say, wagging a finger at Woody. "You're a Scatt. A Scatt always does the proper thing. Never become involved in any scandal. Never do anything that might hurt your wife. And, above all, never let your name be uttered in a court of divorce."

"Don't worry, mother," Margot would assure her. "Woody and I are very much in love. Neither of us will ever change, I'm sure. Divorce is the farthest thing from our minds."

And it was. These kids took their love very seriously. Which isn't a bad idea. Sometimes...

They were married about two years when Woody met Adele. Adele was a chorus girl. A very pretty chorus girl. There was only one thing wrong with Adele. She had brains. And that's very very unfortunate.

Woody had met chorus girls before. In fact, he knew them all. During one entire season, he was their favorite society play boy. He probably did more to keep those kiddies from freezing to death that winter than any other person.

But somehow, Adele was different. She had a penchant for saying no at the proper time. She didn't get dramatic about it. She didn't prate about honor and lofty ideals. She just said no. Like that.

Well, you can "no" a man like Woody for only so long, and then something happens. In this case, something did. Something terrible. He fell madly in love with Adele.

He didn't think of Margot. He didn't think of divorce. In fact, he was thinking of nothing. Which is probably why he fell in love.

So, unknown to the lovely Adele, he leased a nice duplex apartment on Park avenue not far from his own home. And after he had outfitted the place with costly furniture and drapes, he presented the key to his love.

"Baby," he said. "This key is yours. It entitles you to live in a beautiful apartment on Park avenue. The place is furnished, and you can move in on a moment's notice. All I ask in return is that you smile at me once in a while. Isn't that fair?"

"No," she said quietly. "It isn't. I wouldn't care if you gave me the keys to the city. I'm not the type of person you think I am. Get a wedding license first. Then come to me with the key."

Arguments did no good. Pleading did less. Adele made it plain that it was either wedding bells or curtains. Woody made it plain that he was rapidly going cuckoo.

He was drunk for almost a week before he summoned sufficient courage to talk to his wife about the situation. The thought of what she might do frightened him a great deal. But when he finally found himself talking about it, he was cool and collected.

"Margot," he said simply, "I want a divorce. Now don't get excited. It's best to be calm in a situation such as this. Hysterics will do neither of us any good.

"My mind is definitely made up. I want a divorce. In a case such as this, I would never think of suing you. Accordingly, it would be better all around if you would sue me as quickly as possible. If you'll agree to that, you'll make me very happy."

The wife cried softly. She said she had done her best to make him happy. She had been a good wife. Everyone knew that. She had fulfilled her duties to the best of her ability.

"There must be some reason for this sudden request," she cried. "What is it? Is there another woman? There must be something."

Her husband's reply was most concise.

"I have told you all that I intend to tell," he said. "I'm asking for a divorce. That's all. I think that both of us will be happier that way. I realize that mother will have another nervous breakdown, but that can't be helped. Will you do this thing? For me?"

Margot stood up. She said [illegible]. Then, with her chin held high, she left the room. She wiped her eyes and called the maid.

"Have the car brought around," she ordered. "I have a fearful headache, and the drive might do me good. Tell the chauffeur to be downstairs in five minutes."

Shortly after, she stepped into the car. The limousine slid from the curb and joined the endless line of Park avenue traffic. Margot picked up the speaking tube.

"Big news, Charles," she said. "Mr. Scatt wants a divorce, and he won't say why. Do you think he's wise to us, honey?" . . .

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

BOHLEN, WALSH TO SPEAK FOR DEMOCRATS

Prof. Francis H. Bohlen, who ran as an anti-dry for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in 1930, and Attorney Frank P. Walsh, of Missouri, will be the principal speakers at a Democratic meeting in the Carnegie Music Hall, Schenley Park, Thursday night. Attorney L. K. Porter, brother of the late Congressman Stephen G. Porter, is to be chairman, according to announcement by County Chairman David L. Lawrence.

Walsh, an attorney from Kansas City, joined former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, in appearing before Gov. Rolph of California, seeking a pardon for Tom Mooney. Walsh was named by President Wilson to head the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations, and served as labor's representative with the late Chief Justice Taft on the War Labor Board.

Another Thursday night meeting will be held at West View Junior High School, with Twing Brooks, candidate for Congress; James Murtha, chairman of the North Side Democratic committee, and Attorney James L. O'Toole as speakers. A third Thursday night meeting will be held at Dormont Roosevelt headquarters, West Liberty and Tennessee avenues.

A Saturday night meeting is scheduled for Turtle Creek at the Valley Athletic Club, 623 Penn avenue, with Attorney William N. McNair speaking and William Hill presiding.

Democratic headquarters announced today that A. J. Klinkler Post, 331, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Carnegie, has adopted resolutions indorsing the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

DEMOCRAT OUT FOR ASSEMBLY

There is something new in the Eighth Legislative district, a Democrat making a real campaign for the Legislature. Walter R. Seymour would like to go to Harrisburg to attempt some ideas he believes would be good for his constituents.

He would cut state appropriations 20 per cent, consolidate county and city tax boards, abolish the delinquent tax collector's office, consolidate the county poor district and the city welfare department under the County Commissioners, enact an old-age pension act, repeal the Snyder-Armstrong act, enact a permanent registration law, abolish tax receipts as a vote qualification, limit candidates in a primary to one party only, and enforce home rule with proportional representation.

On taxation he would impose a flat income tax pending revision of the constitution, and work for compulsory automobile liability insurance.

In public utility law he would have Public Service Commissioners confirmed by House and Senate in joint session, permit rate changes only after hearings, more efficient meter inspection, and condemnation by a municipality of a utility which failed to give proper service.

William J. Benoit, of 673 Mifflin road, has been advanced to gunnery sergeant in the Navy, according to an announcement made in Washington today.

THOMAS RAPS HIGH COURT POWER

Urges Congress Get Free Hand For Social Reforms

By MARK SHIELDS

Striking a new note in his campaign, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, declared for easier amendment of the Constitution, grants of larger power to Congress to enact social legislation which cannot be overridden by the Supreme Court, and a federal capital levy to lift the general burden of debt.

The New Yorker last night talked before an audience which filled Carnegie Music Hall and overflowed into Forbes street. Unusual in a political gathering, the audience paid for admission, and by its cheers and enthusiasm appeared to feel it had gotten its money's worth.

Thomas insisted the present attitude of considering the constitution a sacrosant document, and permitting to the Supreme Court authority to veto Congress, blockades "orderly and peaceful revolution." Without these changes, with a desire for change dammed up, the country courts disaster, he warned.

RAPS OPPONENTS

The Socialist candidate jibed at both President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt, declaring that this year the Democratic candidate, not the Socialist, led the party of protest. He ridiculed Gov. Roosevelt's Pittsburgh budget speech, and claimed he had offered nothing constructive here. Thomas said:

"Gov. Roosevelt did not explain his stand on the sales tax. Without a statement on that subject he could say nothing of value as to the budget. He would pay the soldier bonus when there is a balanced budget, which means never. True, he would seek bonus funds through a tax on beer, but more important than beer is the matter of eating.

"We Socialists would pay the bonus to unemployed veterans, as part of a constructive program of unemployment relief, but we would not make the same grant to those veterans who have jobs until the bonus certificates they now have come due in 1945.

"Not 24 hours after Father Cox had quit the race and declared for Roosevelt, the New York Governor betrayed one of the principles of the reverend gentleman, immediate payment of the bonus. Gov. Roosevelt has joined the crowd who think that those who cannot buy bread for their children can drink their way back to prosperity."

NEEDY FIRST CONCERN

A balanced budget, Thomas said, is important, but not so important as feeding the needy, either through work or direct assistance. He outlined a huge housing construction program to better living conditions and to create employment. No government, he said, could balance its budget until there is a new attitude toward war and a reduction in the payments for armaments.

Relief of unemployment he saw as the first duty of any government. He described a visit yesterday through the Pittsburgh district which symbolized "the power of man and the failure of man, a place where financial forces master an area and make a new feudalism."

Expanding his attitude toward the Constitution, he said:

"We Socialists do not want to tear it up. We would expect to revise and rewrite it in the light of experience. One immediate step should be for the direct election of the President and Vice President, the abolition of the electoral college, which makes possible the election of a president with a minority popular vote.

"We should have proportional representation in all our legislatures, to permit minority parties a voice in government."

ASSAILS COURT POWER

The Supreme Court, he said, through invoking the Fourteenth Amendment, designed for the protection of men, but employed for the perpetuating of property rights, aids in "extortionate returns on imaginary utility stocks." He added:

"We should restrict the court to deciding legal questions and stop it from preventing the march of democracy."

Criticising the sales tax, he said it was natural for Senator David A. Reed and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills to favor such legislation, as it was in the interests of their class, spreading the tax on the spendings of small consumers.

DENOUNCES LAWYERS

The worst thing in the United States, he said, was the administration of justice. Law, he declared, had been divorced from justice, and "eminent lawyers" made possible every racketeering adventure, some of which bore the stamp of legality. He poked fun at those who voted for President Hoover in 1928, saying:

"You voted a gamblers' game in 1928. You didn't vote for a principle or an ideal, but thought stocks would continue high and gambling success would be continued. Mr. Hoover didn't cause the depression. He isn't big enough for that. It is the breakdown of the capitalist system which is responsible for the bog in which we have settled.

"To get out we need a Socialist party and a Capitalist party, a clear division between the average man and woman and privilege. The only way to bring about this division is to roll up a big Socialist vote this year."

Dr. W. J. Van Essen, Socialist candidate for the United States Senate, who introduced Thomas, described him as "not our next President, but the man best fitted to be our next President."

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

The best cough remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and saves two-thirds of the money a family usually spends on cough medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

2 SEEK POSTS IN LEGISLATURE

George L. Ewing, Homestead merchant, and Dr. Herbert T. Johnson, Clairton dentist, have announced as candidates for the General Assembly from the Eleventh legislative district. Ewing, for nearly 35 years a Homestead business man, was an adjutant for Father James R. Cox in the jobless march to Washington.

Dr. Johnson has practiced in Clairton for eight years. He is a former resident of Munhall and served overseas with the United States Army. He was wounded in the Meuse offensive. Both men have the indorsement of the Independent Voters League of the Eleventh Legislative District, of Father Cox's Blue Shirts and other organizations.

Both favor lower taxation and progressive legislation, abolition of the slum districts, reduction of public utility rates, payment of the soldier bonus, prohibition repeal and old-age pension.

THE BLACK PANTHER

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the great animal painter, Paul Bransom . . . inspired by the natural ferocity of "Bagheera," the black panther in the famous "Jungle Book." "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild" —and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

Copr., 1933, The American Tobacco Co.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

CONSUL SCORES GERMAN PLEA

Marcel de Verneuil, French consul in Philadelphia, in Pittsburgh today, said Germany's plea for equality in armaments has become one of the most important international problems of the day.

Declaring Germany's claim has no legal foundation, he said:

"Politically, there is need only to look at the people who are now in power in Germany—large agricultural landlords of Eastern Prussia, Junkers, army chiefs, and all the clique responsible for the 1914 war—to decide whether Germany's plea may be granted."

Consul de Verneuil visited many of the consuls of other countries yesterday in company with W. G. McKee, French consular agent here. He was to visit the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company plant today and will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow.

Leases Downtown Lot For Parking Service

Burford B. Epstein has leased from the Koppers Gas and Coke Company property at William Penn and Strawberry ways, adjoining the Koppers Building. The old Iron City Electric Building will be razed to make way for an automobile parking station.

The deal puts Epstein on property adjoining the old Grant street school lot which he leased from the Board of Education for several years. The new lot fronts 112 feet on William Penn way and 65 feet on Strawberry way. The R. J. Omslaer Wrecking Company began today to tear down the building.

COAL FEE ISSUE UP TOMORROW

Organized and independent coal dealers of the city will meet with City Council tomorrow to discuss ordinances proposed to regulate the sale of coal and coke. Organized dealers are in favor of placing a license fee of $100 on each retailer, charging 5 cents on each load of coal delivered, and urge regulations requiring that dealers give purchasers certified weight receipts.

Independent dealers would eliminate the need of a scales and yard, and would not include the house-to-house vendor who delivers loads less than 1,000 pounds. They approve of the 5-cent tax on each load and the issuing of certified weight receipts. Independents say the proposal of the organized dealers would eliminate them from business.

The communications received by Council oppose any tax on the small dealers. They are from the Duquesne Heights Civic Association and the Sheraden Board of Trade.

Additional Funds For Road Granted

An additional appropriation of $38,000 was approved by City Council to carry on the work done by city forces on the Mt. Washington roadway extension. This brings the total appropriation to $248,000 for the work, which includes the cuts and fills. The viaducts and related work is being done under contract.

Councilmen P. J. McArdle and Robert Garland voted against the additional appropriation. They favored letting all the work to contractors.

MIX TO RIDE AGAIN SOON

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Tom Mix has a few more souvenirs of movie stunt riding.

To a shoulder already wired together he has added two broken ribs, a collection of bruises and wrenched leg. The shoulder was injured in a fall from a horse and likewise the ribs.

Attempting to leap his famous horse, Tony, down a five-foot embankment in a running fight with Williams, the motion picture kind, the horse stumbled and fell on Mix Friday near Lone Pine, Cal.

Physicians said Mix would be back in the saddle by the middle of the week to complete his cowboy exploits for the screen.

LAFOLLETTE IN NORRIS' PLACE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Gov. Philip LaFollette, Wisconsin Progressive Republican, last night advocated the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate.

Gov. LaFollette took the place of United States Senator George W. Norris, Progressive Republican of Nebraska, who was taken to a hospital yesterday with a severe cold and throat infection developed during his intensive speaking campaign in behalf of Gov. Roosevelt's election. Gov. LaFollette said:

"There is a fundamental conflict in this campaign. If this were a narrow issue of partisanship I would not be here tonight. We Progressives believe prosperity is founded not on the super-rich but on the working man. The President has been a conservative of the first water. We have a reactionary and a Progressive to choose between and to my mind there is no question of choice."

HOOVER GAINS SEEN BY REED

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, appealed to Erie County voters last night not "to turn the ship of state over to a greenhorn of a pilot" and presented President Hoover as one to whom the tide of public support is flowing in a volume that augurs a possible "stampede."

Senator Reed assailed Gov. Roosevelt on his "paradoxical espousal" of the cause of the forgotten man, denounced the Roosevelt stand for a competitive tariff, lashed the Democratic standard-bearer for "his unworthy, and sneering assaults" upon President Hoover.

He called attention to the state bank failures and what he termed "scandalous conditions" in metropolitan finance circles under Roosevelt's governorship and challenged the sincerity of Gov. Roosevelt's protestations of his intention to preserve the soundness of American currency and promote governmental economy.

GAS COMPANY REFUSES CUT

Pittsburgh consumers receiving gas from the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company can expect no reduction in rates, City Council has been informed.

A letter received from George W. Ratcliffe, president, said the company's gross revenue from all sources in 1931 had declined $3,000,000 below the gross revenue of 1926. He said all possible reductions had been made in the company's operating expenses, and that the company regretted it could make no rate reduction without imperiling the dependability of service.

Ratcliffe pointed out that a small percentage of Pittsburgh residents are served by his company, most of its consumers being scattered through the tri-state district.

Wilkinsburg Spurns Electric Cut Offer

The offer by the Duquesne Light Company of a reduction in municipal electric rates, made last night to Wilkinsburg Council, was refused as unsatisfactory, it was learned following a closed session of the council after a short open meeting.

President of Council John Rhodes said the offer had been made and rejected, but refused to elaborate upon the statement. Other councilmen were non-committal.

Pinchot - Democrat Coalition Reported

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Dependent upon Republican legislators alone, Gov. Pinchot probably will not be able to organize the House of the next General Assembly, as he did in 1931. There were plenty of signs during the special session of last summer that the Governor had lost the majority which enabled him to name a speaker of his own persuasion, C. Jay Goodnough, of Cameron County, and through Mr. Goodnough dominate the various committees.

If the Governor has a utility or election law program which he wishes to put through it will be to his advantage to have the House in shape to give his proposals impetus. They may collide with the Senate, as they did in 1931, but getting over one hurdle removes half the obstacles, anyhow.

Under the expected Republican lineup with the majority pro-organization rather than pro-Pinchot, there are reports that the Governor may attempt a coalition with the Democrats. All indications are that there will be many more Democrats in the lower House than is usually the case. They may easily hold the balance of power between the two contending Republican factions.

* * *

Makes Them Prize Worth Fighting for

This would make them a prize worth fighting for. The Democrats will lack cohesion, they will be of many shades of party belief, as Democrats are in Pennsylvania. It is doubtful if they will follow any one leader. They might, therefore, split up between the Governor and the organization.

If they could be a deliverable quantity through the instrumentality of John Flynn, veteran leader of Elk County, the odds are they would be found in the Pinchot camp. But Mr. Flynn is not regarded as a simon-pure Democrat by many of the Democrats who probably will be elected.

Representative Flynn, a Democrat, is really the Grundy leader in the House, and one of the most astute members, perhaps the ablest member, all things considered. This gives him a strong Republican tingle, made more indelible by the active assistance he has given Republican governors in their legislative program.

* * *

Some Still in House Wary of His Leadership

He once had a band of Democrats of the same cloth following him, but here and there the majority have been retired, and some still in the House are wary of his leadership. With these, and with the new crop, Mr. Pinchot and the organization will have to deal as individuals.

That, however, seems the lone chance of the Governor to retain House control. It would be accomplished by the Democrats voting for the joint choice of themselves and Pinchot as speaker, casting aside whoever may be the Republican caucus choice.

The caucus choice probably will be Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, who will have the support of a large portion of Philadelphia, as the record now stands, as well as his own county unless some other Allegheny County aspirant can make headway.

There is always the chance that the Democrats could be organized into a party bloc, ignoring both Pinchot and the organization, playing first with one and then with the other as expediency and advancement dictated, but the trick there would be to organize the Democrats as a unit. They are so unaccustomed to party responsibility or spotlight in Pennsylvania that they do not well function in teamplay.

* * *

May Want Whip to Defend Revenue Dept.

Another reason Mr. Pinchot may want to control the House is to have a whip which will beat off any attacks on the Department of Revenue. There are organization Republicans who are at odds with that department. They think that the Auditor General's office, which formerly performed most of its functions, can do so again. They believe they have been tricked on figures regarding appropriations.

Wherefore, recalling how they lopped off the Greater Pennsylvania Council and the Aeronautics Commission by simply not appropriating for these agencies, there is discussion of a similar strategy against the Revenue Department. Companion and positive legislation might be required transferring certain duties, or the bull might simply be taken by the horns, the appropriation refused, and the Governor through his authority under the administrative code burdened with the responsibility of seeing that the present functions of the department are carried out.

Perhaps the whole thing may end in talk, but the discussion presents only one more of the many controversies which are looming for the 1933 session.

Throwing Coin Away Fails to Halt Arrest

Angered when she learned her two customers were prohibition agents, Mary Phillips, of 331 Magazine street, Glendale, threw away a 25-cent piece one of them had given her for drinks and poured the rest of the contents of a bottle into a sink yesterday, according to the agents' report. Seizure of two pints of moonshine in the cellar and 35 gallons in a shed was claimed.

2,000 Health Experts Attend Convention In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Miss Gertrude L. Heatley, of Pittsburgh, was the unopposed nominee today for reelection as president of the Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association, meeting in its thirteenth annual convention here.

Other nominees are: Susan B. Francis, this city, and Mrs. Eleanor Faunce, Lock Haven, first vice president; Mary I. Campbell, Pottstown and Jennie A. Manley, Homestead, second vice president, and Jessie T. Turnbull, Pittsburgh, unopposed for third vice president.

The following directors of districts were nominated:

Jean M. Coucheur, Bethlehem, and Mabel Wilson, Easton, for District No. 2; Edith E. Yingst, Harrisburg, No. 4; Mary E. Walton, Pittsburgh, No. 6, and Elsie B. Shaw, Ridgeway, for No. 8.

About 2,000 nurses, hospital executives, physicians and public health officials are in attendance at the convention, which closes Friday.

On Thursday the convention will be in charge of the Pennsylvania League for Nursing Education, with the president of the league, Miss Ruth C. Bower, of Pittsburgh, director of nurses of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, presiding.

CONGRESSIONAL ENTRIES TELL THEIR VIEWS

Majority Support Both Repeal And Sales Tax

Congressional candidates of all parties, asked by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to express their opinions on the sales tax and prohibition, today began to send in replies.

The questions asked were:

"Do you favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment?"

"Do you favor passage of a sales tax such as the one defeated in the last Congress?"

Answers received to date are as follows:

Thirtieth District—Twing Brooks, Democrat, favors both repeal and sales tax; Sarah Z. Limbach, Socialist, favors repeal with government control and sale of liquor, opposes sales tax, as do all other Socialist candidates.

OPINIONS DIFFER

Thirty-third District—Harry A. Estep, Republican, favors both repeal and the sales tax. Henry Ellenbogen, Democrat, favors repeal, but opposes sales tax.

Thirty-fourth District — Matthew A. Dunn, Democrat, favors repeal, and also favors sales tax on condition that money derived is used to relieve unemployment.

Thirty-first District — William C. Widdowson, Socialist, for repeal and against sales tax.

FAVOR SALES TAX

Twenty-sixth District—J. Howard Shreve against repeal, but for Hoover resubmission plan and in favor of sales tax.

Twentieth District—Robert McEldowney, opposes repeal, but favors Hoover resubmission and favors sales tax.

The replies of other congressional candidates will be published as they are received.

EDUCATIONAL FETES PLANNED

Pittsburgh public schools will observe "Educational Week," beginning November 7, in co-operation with the American Legion, National Educational Association and the United States Office of Education, it was announced today by Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools.

Each of the three classes of schools—high school, elementary and vocational—will devote one night during the observance to a special educational program. Parents of the students and the public are invited.

Elementary schools will hold "regular" classes during the evening of November 7, high schools will present special auditorium programs on the night of November 9, and the vocational schools will give demonstrations November 10.

Dread Killer Finally Shot After Buck's Advice Is Accepted

CHAPTER XI.

Johoral had superintended the building of tiger traps before, and it was unnecessary to give him much advice in the matter of construction. I suggested a few improvements on the type of trap he had in mind. We had started back when Gattle came up to join us and expressed his satisfaction.

"Glad to help you out, Bob," I said. "But don't depend too much on those traps. This doesn't sound like a tiger that can be trapped."

I returned to Singapore late that evening, pretty much discouraged by Gattle's obstinacy about what I felt was the only possible way of dealing with this particular demon. I was even sorry that I had consented to select sites for a couple of traps, because I was sure they would accomplish nothing.

I was too busy for the next day or two to think much about the Killer. The third day one of my English friends, who had been out to Kuali for lunch, brought tidings of the fiendish beast's latest accomplishment.

VICTIM DRAGGED AWAY

Two Chinese woodchoppers had been working within ten yards of each other in the jungle a short distance from the spot which I had selected for Johoral's traps. Without warning the Killer appeared out of the tall grass and with a mighty lunge reached one of the choppers. A single slap of the paw sufficed to send the terrified Chinaman sprawling. A few seconds later the man-eater, its jaws gripping its victim's head, was making off through the jungle while the other woodchopper, paralyzed with fear, stood rooted in his tracks. Ironically enough the victim's screams could be heard from inside the tiger's jaws while his friend could make no sound come from his throat. Not that it would have done any good had he been able to yell, for there was no help near at hand.

Johoral and a number of armed natives had taken up the trail a short time after the woodchopper was carried off. All they managed to do was to determine that this was another job by the Killer of Kuali, since the tell-tale three-toed footprint was there. They did not succeed in locating the body of its victim, and the indications were that it had been dragged three or four miles into the jungle and there devoured.

DESPERATE SITUATION

The fact that this killing had taken place almost within a stone's throw of my traps showed me how foolish it had been to waste any time trying to trap this crafty animal. I am sorry I had ever let Gattle persuade me to take any part in the attempt to trap him. The result had been merely to give Gattle a false feeling that something was being done, and another life had been lost.

I determined that I would see Gattle as soon as he came to town again, and renew my argument on behalf of the only way I could see of ending the Killer's career — baiting him with a human body. Law or no law, things were getting desperate.

Gattle didn't come to town that week, but there was more news from the Killer. One of the shooters from an estate just south of Gattle's had been standing near the edge of the jungle waiting for a coolie to bring his supper. Dusk was setting in when he heard the coolie greeting him with a characteristic "Yoo-hoo!" from a point about 150 yards off. It is customary in jungle country for people to make it known that they are approaching as soon as they are within earshot.

The shooter responded with a welcoming shout of his own. The coolie replied. The shooter greeted him again. Again the coolie "yoo-hoo'd" and this time he was so close that the shooter could hear him coming through the heavy brush that bordered the narrow path along which he was walking.

BODY FOUND

Then suddenly there was silence. The footsteps ceased. The shooter loosed another "yoo-hoo!" but there was no reply. Again he yelled. Silence once more.

The shooter became worried. He started beating around in the brush in search of the supper-bearer, but failed to find him. He began to realize something was wrong, and decided to make a dash for the coolie lines and get help. It was growing too dark to investigate much of an area single-handed.

He returned a few minutes later with a crowd of natives, five or six of them bearing lanterns. All were alarmed over the strange disappearance of the

RAID NETS RUM IN GANG DEATH

Alex Rosner, of near Port Vue, was held for court in violation of the Snyder Act at a hearing last night before Alderman A. C. Marckus, of McKeesport, after Constable Albert Marckus and McKeesport police testified they found 110 gallons of moonshine whisky in a raid on his farm Sunday. The raid was staged as an aftermath to the gangland slaying of Tony Sorci, alleged McKeesport racketeer.

Nick Stokan, 50, of Port Vue, arrested by County Detectives James O'Brien and Patrick Trainor after a raid on a building owned by him, is alleged to have netted a 200-gallon still and small quantity of moonshine, was released after he testified he leased the property to a Frank Buono, of Port Vue. Police were unable to locate Buono.

5 STATES SEND DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE

2-Day Session Led by Bishop Leonard to Attack Problems

A two-day regional conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, bringing about 450 religious leaders from parts of five states, opened here today with Bishop Adna W. Leonard presiding. The conference, bringing together the principal planning body of this area, will be climaxed by a mass meeting tomorrow night in Syria Mosque, when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will speak.

Opening the convention this morning, Bishop Leonard sounded the keynote of the conference and outlined the plans for it. He pointed out the changes in the Pittsburgh area made by the General Conference of the church to include the conferences of Pittsburgh, Erie, West Virginia and Genesee. The Buffalo area has been abolished.

Other speakers today are Dr. Corliss P. Hargraves, of the department of missionary education; President G. Bromley Oxnam, of the Depauw University, and Dr. Irving Fisher, political economist of Yale University. Dr. Fisher speaks at 8 p. m. on "Prohibition at Its Worst."

The sessions are being held in the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, Highland avenue.

The mass meeting tomorrow night, opening at 8 o'clock, will be held in the interest of world peace. Other matters to be discussed at the conference are world service, social service, educational interests, prohibition, law enforcement, evangelism and missionary work.

'TERROR' GANG FLOGS 19

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. — (AP.)—The flogging of three persons was reported to police today, bringing to 19 the number who have said they were whipped by terrorists here recently.

Officers said three white men told them they were taken to woods near the outskirts of the city and flogged by a band of men.

One new flogging case was reported yesterday and five last night. Previously, 10 other persons, including five white women, said they had been whipped.

Happy Days When Everyone Prints His Own Money

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Comptroller of New York City has best idea we've heard of in months.

He says he can raise money without going to Wall Street or the bankers.

The bankers are liable to sue him for corrupting the morals of minors.

Mayor Cermak, of Chicago, was in New York last week. If Chicago needs financing we will slip Anton the idea. It's for every man to print his own money.

They did the same thing in Europe about ten years ago and it worked fine. People were rolling in wealth. They had to roll. They were so weak they couldn't stand up.

Everybody had plenty of money. They couldn't spend it. But they had it. Say, the bankers are getting too tough, anyway. We tried to borrow ten dollars last week and the banker felt our pulse and made us stick our tongue out.

We had to do everything you do to get life insurance. And that's the gag. You make over the insurance to your banker. And after that, the only person worrying about your health is yourself.

CITY DENIES HOTEL RATING FOR TENEMENTS

Illegal Features Of Buildings Scanned

The Zoning Board of Appeals refused yesterday to change the classifications of two buildings at 808-10 Second avenue known as the Acme Hotel from tenement house to hotel rating. The owner, D. E. Heckman, has 30 days to appeal.

Heckman is president of the Acme Land and Building Company which owns the buildings, and manager of the National Window and Office Cleaning Company, 47 of whose employes occupy the Acme Hotel.

In both buildings, there are a total of 46 rooms. This does not include an iron-clad garage at the rear of the lot, which according to testimony, is occupied by two men.

The rentals in the building, according to Heckman, are deducted from the pay of the window cleaners. Asked by a reporter if there was usually a surplus after the rent was paid, Heckman said:

"Oh, we never hand out an envelope with nothing in it. Of course, some of the men won't work and that's not our fault. We often get beat out of rent."

The National Window and Office Cleaning Company has an office at 415 Fourth avenue. In an advertisement for workers at the entrance of the office is the slogan, "Good pay. Can draw money every day."

Heckman explained that only about 50 per cent of the employes of the window cleaning company live at the Acme Hotel. He said:

HECKMAN HOUSES . . . ARE THEY TENEMENTS OR A HOTEL?

"Any employe has the right to vacate."

The building at 808 Second avenue is a four-story brick and frame structure containing 30 rooms and four bath rooms. On the top floor in one room, according to testimony at the hearing, there lives a family including husband and wife, and two boys, aged 4 and 7.

Across an angle of the building has been constructed a flimsy platform, known in the neighborhood as the "Crow's Nest," and there the children play. The owner told the board the platform will be removed.

In 810 Second avenue are 11 rooms and one bath room. At present there is less than one room per person in the entire establishment. The total population of 47 persons includes seven families and a number of men and women.

According to one member of the Zoning Board, there are many illegal features in the buildings, including inadequate toilet facilities, no fire escapes, gas jets without flue connections, use of the garage for living quarters, and the "crow's nest," erected without a permit.

Heckman declares that the reason his case got to the Board of Appeals was because of information furnished the Bureau of Building Inspection by a disgruntled employe. He said:

"The man had a false claim for wages and tried to blackmail me."

H. L. Ley, superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection, declared the owner will have to comply with the building regulations for tenements or vacate the property. Inspectors from the City Bureau of Sanitation are checking up.

Brazil ought to belong to the United States. We like to brag about everything "big." We've been flying up its coast line for five solid days and still got another day. If any of you see the Rockefellers kiss 'em for me. There is not a mosquito up this coast. If they just hear of one trying to get a start down here, ten Rockefeller Foundation men get him singing the blues before sundown. No, sir, you got to wait till you get to "God's country" to get eat up by insects. Rio de Janeiro is the prettiest city in the world from the air. We are just circling Para, where we land for the night. It's right at the mouth of the great Amazon River. Up from here is Mr. Ford's rubber plantation, but somebody sold him all male trees and they are having a little trouble getting 'em to bear. I bet they couldn't fool him on carbureters, but he didn't know the forest.

Yours, WILL.

5 More Downtown Fire Suspects on Bail

Five more men were at liberty in $500 bail each in the investigation of a fire Sunday in the I. Robbins & Son Company warehouse at 109 Market street.

The fire was discovered by Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr and his deputies who, on a tip that the warehouse was to be burned, watched the building for 10 days.

Those arrested yesterday were Morris Robbins, 52, of 5295 Forbes street, said to be a member of the firm; Samuel Gordon, 21, of 525 Overhill street; Martin Schwartz, 22, of 1804 Wylie avenue; Joseph Koruth, 45, of Harmarville Station, and Ben Weinerman, 21, of 117 Erin street. Shortly after their arest they were released on bond. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

Three clerks of the company, arrested in their homes Sunday, were also released in $500 bail following a hearing in Central Police Court yesterday. They are Boris Silverman, 31, of 801 Bryn Mawr road; Morris Levine, 44, of 415 Grove street, and Fred Schweitzer, 41, of 311 Carrick avenue.

After collapsing Sunday night from exhaustion, Pfarr returned to his office yesterday to continue the investigation.

WILLS $20,000, SON GETS $5

A $20,000 estate was left by Adam J. Emmerich, 82, of Carrick, victim of an automobile that crushed him and two others against a wall at Brownsville road and Nobles lane October 1.

In his will, probated today, Emmerich left a son, Ernest, $5; a son, John, one-half of the remainder, and Marie Antonie Gaertner, known as Mrs. Adam J. Emmerich, the rest in trust, which upon her death is to be distributed among four other children.

Emmerich was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Helen G. McGowan, of 443 Carl street, who was learning to drive.

Other wills probable today and the amounts of the estates left to relatives were: Charles Kovacs, Duquesne, $16,000; Albert L. Brehm, Kennedy avenue, $13,500; Robert L. Anderson, Sewickley, $24,400; George Brickner, Baldwin Township, $11,300, and Pleasa V. G. Kirk, Ingram, $11,500.

Firemen Save Boy Caught in Elevator

Daniel Larkins, 21, of 2563 Berthoud street, Roosevelt Hotel bellboy, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with a severely lacerated arm and a possible shoulder fracture suffered last night when his arm became caught in the door of an elevator.

Police believe Larkins tried to open the doors as the elevator sped downward. F. R. Weinheimer, 230 Fair Haven road, elevator operator, brought it to a stop and shouted for help. Larkins was suspended inside for 15 minutes before firemen from No. 18 Engine Company and police released him.

Barber Falls Dead At Sight of Knife

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—When a Negro rushed into his barber shop last night and brandishing a long knife threatened to kill a Negro woman using the telephone there, Joseph Demmer, 60-year-old barber, dropped dead.

Funds For Food Relief In County Assured

State Gives Added $300,000; Welfare Drive Mapped

Relief leaders of Allegheny County today were issuing food orders, assured that there is money in Harrisburg to pay them. An allotment of $300,000, announced yesterday, in addition to the original $322,211 for food relief in October in Allegheny County, assured the needy here of food for the rest of the month.

Since early last week, relief organizations had issued food orders here backed only by the anticipation of the added $300,000 to repair a "mistake" made by the Pennsylvania Emergency Relief Board earlier in the month when it gave the county only enough money to finance relief for two-thirds of the month.

Meanwhile, preparations continued for the Welfare Fund campaign for money for social service agencies, slated to start November 9 and run until November 23. The fund seeks approximately $2,500,000 for 1933, less than half the requested total for 1932.

District chairmen of the Employe Division of the Fund campaign organization were to hear Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, talk at their luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce today at noon.

Maxwell was to speak on the uses to which money is put by local relief agencies. James Rae, general chairman of the Employe Division, which last year obtained 85,000 pledges for the fund, was to preside.

The Special Gifts Committee of the campaign is preparing to operate under the general chairmanship of Francis S. Guthrie. An appeal for gifts from large donors equal to those of last year will be made, on the ground that many who gave last year can give nothing this year and that large gifts will be necessary from those still able to give if the curtailed budget is to be met.

FOUR CLEARED IN 'ROBBERY'

When Robert Friske, 58, salesman, of Antinor street, Carrick, strolled into the Albert home at 1022 St. Martin street, Carrick, his intention was to sell the Alberts some cigars. When he awoke today his samples and $22 were missing, he testified in South Side Police Court. Two women and two men were under arrest.

Elmer Albert's daughter, Mrs. Mabel Walsh, 29, admitted she sold liquor there. She explained that she and her parents, and William Divins, 34, of South Seventeenth street, had driven Friske home, that he had left his cigars behind as samples, and had insisted on spending his money at a gas station, ignoring the change.

Friske recalled vaguely a struggle in the car and finding himself in the street near his home.

Mrs. Walsh, who admitted selling the liquor, was fined $50. The others were freed.

Suicide Bequeaths Death Gun to Friend

Hugh M. Rivercomb, 53, street car motorman, killed himself by firing a shotgun charge into his head in his room on the third floor of his home, 142 DeSota street, late yesterday, according to the Coroner's report.

In a note, Rivercomb explained he was "tired of life," and directed that his automobile be given to Charles W. Kaufman and the shotgun to Warren Kord, of Harrisburg.

Thief Gets Purses As 2 Women Chat

A sneak thief entered the home of Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, at 3169 Ashlyn street, Sheraden, stole her purse containing $8 and another belonging to her sister, Mrs. A. W. Kelm, of Woods Run avenue, containing $5 from the living room last night. Mrs. Cunningham and her sister were chatting in an adjoining room when the thefts occurred.

LINK ELECTION IN DRIVE TO KEEP JOBS

That every effort is being made by the city administration to hold the city payroll intact in the 1933 budget, is the report circulating in the City-County Building.

Although payroll slashes have been asked by civic bodies interested in the budget, it is reported that orders have gone out to do whatever reducing is done elsewhere than on the payroll. City Hall observers, however, were not surprised at such a policy in an election year.

The estimate of city department heads are now with Mayor Charles H. Kline. According to William W. McCracken, accountant who is making up the budget, it will not be ready for the printer for approximately 10 days. After that, two to three weeks will elapse before the budget is in print.

Civic organizations are waiting impatiently for an opportunity to study the new budget. Every item will be investigated and studied, it is declared.

J. R. Brady, secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, which organization has been fighting to get a reduction in school tax millage, says the board intends to have a look into every item of the budget.

J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association, said:

"This year there will be no sacred cows. Every appropriation is going to be taken apart."

Special committees of the Civic Club of Allegheny County have started studying the budget, using 1932 figures to find out where the money goes. Economy with the least possible reduction in service will be the aim of the Civic Club, according to Miss H. Marie Dermitt, secretary.

HUNGER HALTS 6 IN FLIGHT

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Six men who said they had escaped from the dreaded "Devil's Island," French penal colony on the Isle de Salut, who arrived here in a sailing canoe, today were provisionally detained by authorities.

The men said they had been send to the colony for various offenses, including murder and robbery, and had escaped early in September.

They arrived in Trinidad September 26 and were held until October 5. Then, having received food and supplies from sympathizers, they put out in their canoe, October 11, headed for South America.

They came into this port because they were out of water and provisions. Their detention was ordered because they lack proper identification papers.

In the party are five Frenchmen, a Spaniard and an Italian who declared he was not a convict, but had been left behind in Trinadad by an Italian steamship.

P. M. I. Recital Series To Open Tonight

A free piano recital tonight at the Pittsburgh Musical Institute marks the opening of a series of five Tuesday evenings of symphonies. The Sixth Symphony of Beethoven will be played on two instruments by Dallmeyer Russell and Marian Clark Bollinger, with explanatory remarks by Charles N. Boyd.

Lost 30 Pounds in Diet, McNamee's Proud Boast

GRAHAM M'NAMEE . . . . . IN PITTSBURGH TO BROADCAST

Partner of Ed Wynn Here for Benefit Broadcast

Graham McNamee has lost his "bay-window."

The modest radio announcer, in Pittsburgh today, couldn't suppress this boast:

"I've lost 30 pounds in three months!"

McNamee weighed 190 in July. Today he barely nudges the indicator at 160. He explains:

"I had to lose it. It was making me uncomfortable. And it's the simplest thing in the world. It does take determination. And that's about all. The best diet in the world is determination and moderation.

"If you're eating two potatoes with your dinner, cut down to one and a half. If you're doing away with a T-bone steak, leave a little for the dog. That's pretty simple."

McNamee came to Pittsburgh to take the air with Ed Wynn tonight in the Fire Chief's broadcast. He likes the Wynn broadcast, one reason being that he has learned much about putting over a show. He'll be back Saturday to broadcast the Pitt-Notre Dame football game.

DESERT MURDER LAID TO GANG

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(INS)—The pretty young red-headed woman who was murdered and whose nude body was thrown on a lonely road in the Mojave Desert near here was the victim of a ruthless gang of rum runners who suspected her of being a "squealer."

That was the theory today of Deputy Sheriff George Contreras following verdict of a Coroner's jury which reported that the woman had met death "from a fractured skull caused by a person or persons unknown."

The girl probably was tortured to death, Contreras said.

Meanwhile, Fred W. Schwarm 30, desert prospector who found the body, was "arrested as a material witness" at San Pedro, Cal., and returned here, according to officers.

Taxi Strike Riot Charges Dropped

Counter charges involving 42 defendants named in 62 indictments growing out of the taxicab strike last year, today were nolle prossed by Judge Frank P. Patterson. The court was informed the differences had been settled between the Parmelee Transportation Company and the striking drivers. One case will be tried, C. W. Eiter charging Tony Pastin with aggravated assault and battery.

Free 'Forgotten Man' Of Election Frauds

Louis Fisher, 25, of 1710 Fifth avenue, "the forgotten man," is free on parole today after spending four months in jail for a political offense. Of a large group sentenced, all had been paroled previously but Fisher. Through Attorney A. W. Coll, yesterday Judge W. H. McNaugher, paroled Fisher for the balance of his year's sentence for voting on a false tax receipt.

Maud Booth Nursery To Hold Flower Day

A "flower day" for the benefit of children at the Maud Booth Day Nursery and for food and clothing to be distributed at the Volunteers' relief station will be held Saturday by the Volunteers of America. It will be the first time in many years the organization has solicited funds in this fashion.

Couple Here Marks 55th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stuart, 2652 Vokel avenue, Dormont, observed their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary yesterday. Stuart, 82, was born in old Allegheny, while his wife, who is 77, came here from Maryland. They have six children, 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

WOMAN'S SIGHT RESTORED ON 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Blind for 3 Years Joins Celebration At Hospital

The gift of sight—perhaps the most precious present ever received by anyone, today made Mr. and Mrs. Max Mansmann, 135 Orchard place, Knoxville, one of the happiest couples in all the land, as they celebrated their fiftieth anniversary.

Married 50 years ago yesterday, the Mansmanns observed the event in the St. Francis Hospital where the wife is recovering from a cataract operation.

Blind for three years, Mrs. Mansmann was able to see dimly again those of her sons, daughters, and grandchildren—she has 19 in all—who could attend. One of her daughters is a sister at the hospital.

Mrs. Mansmann's sight is expected to improve rapidly.

Halloween Party Set To Aid Poor Children

South Side Post, No. 453, American Legion, will hold a benefit Halloween party, October 31, for benefit of needy children of the district. A parade and street dance at the post's headquarters, 86 South Seventeenth street, will be the principal events of the party.

10 Dormont Jobless Get Election Work

From the ranks of the unemployed, James K. K. Smith, Dormont constable, selected 10 men to act as his deputies in Dormont's 10 districts Election Day. The men will receive $5 each for the day's work.

boy who had set out with a pan of rice curry for his friend.

A member of the party tripped over something in the semi-darkness and let out a shriek. He had stumbled over the dead body of the food-bearer. A few feet away lay the dish that had contained the curry, its contents scattered everywhere.

The Killer, perhaps crawling up quietly on its belly in the sly manner of the species when about to make a surprise attack, had lunged so swiftly and surely that its victim didn't have a chance to yell for help. This time the Killer had taken his victim within 50 or 60 feet of a professional hunter who was lying in wait for him.

The body was taken back for burial. It was the least mutilated of the Killer's string. The throat had been ripped open and the animal had lapped up the hot blood that poured out. One of the cheeks and part of the shoulder had been torn off and devoured. Aside from this the body was intact. A careful tracing of the animal's tracks again revealed the three-toed symbol.

NATIVES PANIC-STRICKEN

A few days later I left Singapore on a business errand and spent the night at Senni, about 16 miles from Johore Bahur. Imagine my surprise, while I was eating dinner, to look up and see Johoral standing before me in a respectful salute. He had followed me all the way from Singapore, he said gravely, to seek my advice about the Killer.

Conditions were getting worse at Kuali, he told me. The natives were in such a state of panic that anything might happen. There had been another victim the night before. A Tamil woman and her 12-year-old son had been on their way to the village from their home on one of the rubber estates. The youngster had the terrible experience of seeing the animal attack his mother and drag her off screaming into the jungle.

The Killer's total of deaths was now well beyond the 30 mark. Even Bob Gattle no longer felt safe, Johoral declared. A day or two before as he was returning from a party at a nearby estate with a neighbor and his wife, Gattle's car broke down at 3 o'clock in the morning. Only with great difficulty was Gattle able to get his syce (chauffeur) to climb out and have a look at the motor to see what was wrong. The syce was perfectly frank in stating that he feared an attack by the Killer of Kuali. He pointed out that they were within 200 yards of the spot where one of the animals victims was found.

REMAIN IN MACHINE

When the boy made this announcement the woman in the car turned on poor Gattle and hysterically accused him of exposing them to danger.

They were two miles from their destination, but the woman, assuming command, insisted that they remain where they were until daybreak. The automobile was a touring car. The side curtains were located and the marooned group curtained themselves in. On the whole, it was the most sensible thing they could have done, for at least they managed to keep out of sight. To walk those two miles at night would have been foolhardy.

Before the advent of the Killer, Johoral pointed out, the group would not have dreamed of penning themselves up in that fashion. They would have taken the walk without giving it a second thought.

Johoral wanted my advice as to the best means of tracking down the Killer. The traps, he said, had proved futile.

I found myself getting a bit provoked. "How many times do you people want me to tell you that you'll have to leave a body out before you can hope to get that man-eater?"

Again I heard the same old story about the law that prohibited such a proceeding.

"To hell with that law!" I exploded. "The longer you observe it the more deaths you'll have!"

TIGER FINALLY KILLED

Then I started talking earnestly to this young native. In addition to being extremely likeable he was a fearless lad, and I couldn't help being fond of him. Nothing would have pleased me better than to see him win the government's $750 reward.

"Do you want that money?" I asked.

His eyes glistened. "Yes, master," he said eagerly.

"Well, then, do as I tell you. I hope there'll be no more victims. But I'm afraid that's expecting too much. Keep your eyes wide open for any bodies that may be found. Try to get some other shooters to join you in a secret agreement not to report the next killing. Of course that may not be possible, but see what you can do. If you can manage to leave out a body long enough, there's more than an even change that the man-eater will return to it. That's the only advice I can give you. If you don't want to try it, please don't bother me with your problem any more."

Johoral seemed to get some of my own fervor. "I shall try, master," he said simply but feelingly and went on his way.

About three weeks later I came back to Singapore, arriving about daybreak. I was reading my newspaper at the breakfast table when my eye lit on a headline that immediately captured my attention. The man-eater of Kuali—the Killer of Killers!—was dead! He had been killed by a shooter named Johoral. The dispatch was typical of most British colonial journalism; there were very few details.

BOY EXPLAINS

I was too interested to wait for the town gossips to fill out the picture. I hired a car and drove out to Kuali. And what a kidding Gattle gave me when I arrived!

"You and your traps!" he exclaimed. "Why, the Killer never went anywhere near them! It took my boy Johoral to figure out a way by meeting the situation. Wait, I'll send for him. He'll tell you how he did it."

A few minutes later Johoral appeared. He was wearing a new silk sarong and looked every inch the winner of the greatest reward of its kind the government had ever offered. Gravely he began the story of his triumph. It was all very simple, he said. He had heard one day that a Malay rattan-cutter was missing. Mysteriously missing. Yes, master, the matter called for investigation.

Johoral knew something about the chap. This Malay was in the habit of visiting a girl—his unofficial wife—who lived in the coolie lines. To get there he used a path along the edge of a ravine. Johoral decided to look for him near the path. He did—and came upon the amazing sight of the Killer eating the man's body! Johoral raised his rifle and let the tiger have it. And that was all there was to it.

Gattle was delighted with the boy. "You and your traps!" he said to me once more, completely forgetting that I had never expressed any faith in the darned things. "It took a native to save the day."

Gattle dismissed Johoral and we took a drink. I didn't have much to say. There was something a little fishy about Johoral's story, but I didn't tell Gattle so. Presently I excused myself and went for a little walk. I sought out Johoral for a private conference.

"Now, you damned liar," I greeted him, "tell me how you got the Killer."

First looking around cautiously to make sure no one was listening, the boy told his story.

TOOK BUCK'S ADVICE

"It was like this, master," he said frankly. "One day I happened to notice a rattan-cutter rushing toward the coolie lines screaming for help. I ran to meet him. He had been out cutting rattan with another Malay. While they were working, a tiger suddenly appeared and made off with his friend.

"I swore the rattan-cutter to secrecy. He was not to say a word to anyone about his friend's fate. I agreed to pay him for keeping his mouth shut.

"Then I set out to find the body. With the rattan-cutter as a guide, I found it in three hours. It had been dragged a mile from the place of the killing.

"I felt that the gods were on my side at last, for the dead man had no relations in the district to make a fuss over his disappearance. Also he was a Malay, which made things easier." (It was the Chinese who had caused the passage of the law that made it a crime to use a human body for bait and if the dead man had been a Chinaman, Johoral's risk would have been much greater, for the Chinese have a way of investigating such matters and making trouble.)

"I climbed a tree," Johoral went on. "I had my rifle ready, hour after hour. I did not close my eyes the whole night. Just at dawn, the Killer came to finish his eating. I shot once, twice, three times. The Killer was dead!"

Then the boy tried to get me to accept part of the reward money. Needless to say, I would have none of it.

The boy insisted, however, on giving me a present; and I still wear occasionally the pair of Malay slippers he secretly gave me the next day as I was leaving.

The official record of the Killer of Kuali—35 deaths—will, I hope, never be equalled.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

We Must Fight a Weakness To Get Rid of It

He wants to marry the gal, and she wants to marry him—But he's scared!

And why?

Well, you see he's been in—also out—of love before; and he's afraid that the "out" will happen to him again. Suppose, after he's slipped the platinum shackle on her finger and set up housekeeping, he finds that he's tired of it all—then what?

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I hope you will be able to give me some sound advice, because I sure need it, and I don't know who can give it any better, so here I am. Please help me.

"At the present time I am deeply in love with a girl, and I want to marry her. She wants to marry me, also.

"But, Sally I am afraid. All the other girls I have ever gone with, it has been the same story. I loved them, or thought I did, and then I got tired of them.

"I thought I might outgrow that fault, but I am now over 20, and as yet there seems to be no change in me. So I don't know what to do.

"I love this girl and I want to marry her, but I don't dare. I want her to be happy with me if I do marry her, and I know that if I tire of her that would be impossible.

CONSIDERS WAITING

"Sometimes I think it would be best to try to forget her, and let her go with some fellow who is not so erratic, but I just can't give her up.

"I am quite tall, and am considered good looking. I have no trouble finding girls who will go with me. If I only didn't tire of them!

"Will I ever get over this? What shall I do? I am afraid. Do you think it would be best to wait? Or shall I take a chance and marry this girl? Please, won't you solve this for me?

"EDDIE."

Well, Eddie, you do seem to be in something of a pickle-ment, don't you? But cheer up. It isn't hopeless. You don't have to continue to be a wishy-wobbly just because you have been one!

In the first place, you're hardly dry behind the ears yet, even though you think you're a big, grown-up man. The chances are that you grew tired of the girls you were going with because you were growing yourself; and, as you grew, you changed. People and ideas that seemed worth a million to you one minute, didn't register much the next. You hadn't found either yourself or the right girl. That's the first part of your trouble.

ROOT OUT WEAKNESS

The second part of it is that you didn't really try to be different. You waited for some kind of miracle to come along and change you, with no effort on your part.

Characters don't grow that way, son. We don't "outgrow" our weaknesses. We have to get busy, look 'em in the eye, and root 'em out. Faith and loyalty and constancy don't just happen. We have to work for them. We have to learn judgment and dignity and control. You've probably been going off the deep end over every pretty face you saw, and because there was nothing real about your "love" it evaporated.

Do I think your love for this girl is real? Should you go ahead and marry her. Only you know what your "love" for her really is. Have you fallen for her because she has a smart "line," a pair of melting eyes, sleek ankles and a shock of curly hair? Or do you love her because she's a real kid and a real pal?

Answer that, son, and you'll have the answer to how real your love is, and how long it will last. You have to use your head about love, just as you'd use it about getting a job, or buying a car.

Fay King Looks With Envy Upon Those Who Carry Small Bags

By FAY KING

How I envy girls who can carry small, dainty handbags.

So accustomed am I to lugging around a handbag that weighs as much as an anchor, that once when the boys at the paper mischievously put some heavy lead cuts into it, I didn't discover it for days.

Once I went to a tea with only a small coin purse. To my horror I found myself later a block from the place with a large handbag under my arm. I rushed back, and fortunately its owner had not missed it yet. I had just taken it by force of habit.

Left my handbag in a hotel restaurant the other day. Was my face red when a bellboy, used to juggling five suitcases, came staggering toward me with it?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Stability and Uses of Body Heat—and Why You Shiver

Have you ever wondered how the body maintains its temperature so exactly? In cold weather and hot, in sun and rain, day and night, the temperature remains practically the same. How does this happen?

Dr. Copeland

The things we eat produce certain reactions within the body. One function of food is to supply material to build up the tissues, very important in the young, because it makes it possible for the child to develop physically.

Another purpose of eating is to obtain repair substances. Loss of cells and tissues from natural wear and tear is replaced, and the body thus restored to its perfect state.

There is yet another function which is very important—namely, the production of muscle energy and heat.

Of course there must be some means of regulating the heat production so that it will constantly balance the heat loss. To accomplish this, scientists tell us, the tiny particles within the cells of the body are in constant energetic vibration that is converted into heat, just as hammering a cold anvil will cause the hammer-head to get hot.

So long as the air is at practically the same temperature as the normal heat of the body, no particular effort is needed to maintain body heat. If the temperature of the air falls, however, the skin, which is a sort of thermostat, sends out nerve messages with orders to stimulate and increase the vibrations.

If the temperature continues to fall, your skin feels creepy. The tiny muscles near the surface of the body begin to act, and this causes the skin to shake in those movements known as "shivering."

As a result of this muscular effort the stored food substances are called upon for heat and energy; what scientists call the "metabolism" of the body is increased, and warmth is generated.

You know how warm you feel after a cold bath and a brisk rubbing with a coarse towel. It is increased metabolism that produces this grateful heat in the body.

We could not have heat production without taking plenty of the starchy and fat foods. Meat and other protein foods, too, add to the heat and energy of the body.

Some other time I will speak about perspiration and its relation to heat control. At that time, too, the covering of the body and what it does will be considered.

Answers to Health Queries

Q.—Could anything be done to prevent large hips?

A.—Walking and other exercises would prove helpful. Reducing in general would reduce the hips. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Correct Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to know which is the proper way to have cards printed. I have been a widow for a number of years. I have quite a few cards of my own in my husband's name, Mrs. James M. Garner, also have the plate to have more made. I was informed that it was time I was using my own name, as my husband passed away a number of years ago. Please advise me. My first name is Bella.

READER.

A widow uses for her cards the same plate that she used for her cards when her husband was living. She may, if she wishes, use, especially for a time after her husband's death, cards with a very narrow border of black; but this is not very much done nowadays, when mourning items are not very much adhered to, especially as regards cards. So the same plate, the same cards, the same form of name, are correct.

Don't, please don't, follow the advice of the incorrectly informed friends who urge you to change the form of your name to include your first name. This is in terribly poor form and taste. A married woman, a widow, a divorced woman, should never, if it can be avoided, use her first name in the form of her formal name. And visiting cards should, of course, always carry the formal name.

Of course I'd rather have you not use abbreviations in the name, for abbreviations are, or should be, avoided on visiting cards. But this is a minor detail compared to the use of the first name. Using the form Mrs. James Garner is the important thing. The abbreviation is second in importance. Perhaps when some time you have a new plate, you might either omit the abbreviation or spell out the name for which the initial stands.

Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Could you please tell me what to give as a remembrance from my husband, children and myself as a wedding present to a minister who is only a business associate of my husband.

2—Should I only inclose a small card with the gift, or send a regular wedding greeting also?

3—We cannot attend the wedding as it is in another state. Is it necessary to answer the invitation too? O.

1—A fine book, beautifully bound, would be an excellent and appropriate present. Or a handsome leather portfolio, for the desk or library table. Or a luncheon set. Or a silver or crystal vase. Or a photograph frame. Or a good-looking and useful accessory for the desk.

2—You may inclose a card, or cards, with the gift, with nothing written on them. Usually, with wedding presents, the fact that we are sending a gift at that time carries its own message.

But of course it is just as correct for us to write a message of good wishes and felicitations on the card or cards, if we wish.

Don't send a "ready-made" wedding felicitation card.

3—If the invitation is to the church ceremony only, it is not necessary to answer it. But if the invitation is also to the reception or any other form of post-ceremony festivity, then we must answer it. Formally, in the third person, if the invitation is a formal one.

He Thought He Had Lost "His Punch"

Energy Gone . . . Head Heavy and Dull Most of the Time

How by Doing One Simple Thing, You Can Minimize the After-Effects of Too Much Food—Too Much Tobacco—To a Marked and Amazing Degree

Modern science now throws a new light on the problem of overindulgence—eating too much, smoking too much, drinking unwisely. A way that millions are learning. And millions doing.

What you do is this:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water before bed.

"TAKE—2 tablespoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water with the juice of a WHOLE ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets the same way, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia, for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.

Tomorrow you'll feel great. Science says it is the Quickest, Simplest and Easiest way to overcome the effects of too much smoking, eating, drinking known.

How It Works

Results are quick and sure because this small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to alkalize the system. And an alkalized system is largely impervious to the bad after-effects of too much smoking or other overindulgence.

It sweetens and purifies your stomach. Banishes the acid headache, sour stomach, deadly depression that mark the price of immoderations.

Take Every Night

Every person who smokes excessively should know this. And never go to bed without taking this minute quantity of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia before. And every person who lives too well—overindulges—should never forget it.

Try it—once. Feel how clear your head feels the next day—how free you are from head-dullness and depression. You will be amazed.

When you buy, be sure you get the REAL article—Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Always ask for it by the name Phillips—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike in effect. So take care to see you get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the kind doctors endorse; judged the most powerful neutralizer of stomach acids known.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Neutralizes Food and Tobacco Acids a few minutes after taking.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

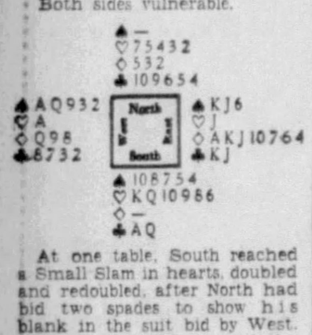
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Diversity of Opinion

Among the outstanding charms of Contract Bridge, which are clearly brought out in Duplicate where a number of players play the same cards, are the different reactions of the players. In Rubber Bridge this is evidenced by the sometimes prolonged post-mortems which follow the bidding or play of a particular hand.

Mrs. Carl S. Uhrig, of Pittsfield, Mass., sent me the hand below, which was played in a Duplicate game there, and certainly presented great diversity in the bidding, and even greater diversity in results, most of it having a reasonable justification.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



At one table, South reached a Small Slam in hearts, doubled and redoubled, after North had bid two spades to show his blank in the suit bid by West. West, at this table, opened the club 8, and South made his contract, losing only the trump Ace. The division of the club suit permitted the discard of losing spades on the established clubs in Dummy.

At the next table, East reached a Small Slam contract in diamonds, which South doubled, and was defeated 1,400 points with the spade Opening.

At the third table, East also bid a Small slam in diamonds, which was doubled, but here East was particularly favored of the gods or of the choice of a poor Opening lead by South, as seven were made against a heart Opening. East, through taking a finesse in spades, being able to discard the two losing clubs on Dummy's spades.

At the fourth table, West undertook a contract of six spades, doubled, and the contract was set 1 trick by the lead of the club 10. South cashing his two clubs before leading hearts.

At the fifth and last table, West played a contract of six spades, doubled, and made seven when North opened a heart in response to his partner's bid.

As Mrs. Uhrig pointed out, the main difficulty seemed to be a correct choice of an Opening lead. However, against a diamond contract, the spade lead surely was indicated, and, while against the spade Slam contract by West the club lead may not have been so clearly shown, the bidding should have indicated to North that if the contract were to be defeated, that lead offered a better chance than any other, except possibly a diamond.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question:

When holding ten trumps in the combined hands, headed by A Q J 10, which is the better way to drop the King, by finessing from Dummy or by leading the Ace?

Answer: The odds are in favor of the finesse.

Household Hints

Ermine furs may be cleaned by rubbing with hot dry Indian meal. Heat two pounds of meal in oven and go over fur until clean.

In stirring a cake or batter of any kind on an enamel table, place a damp towel under the pan and it won't turn as you beat.

Are you annoyed when you are thoroughly enjoying a plate of home made soup to get several small pieces of bone in your mouth? Place the soup bones in a small salt bag and tie with a string. Then place bag in the soup. When the soup is done remove the whole bag of bones. The nutriment will be in the soup but none of the bones. This will enable you to use small bones as well as large ones.

Fat should never be allowed to stay on the top of soup. It is indigestible and not appetizing. If there is just a little fat that is difficult to remove with a spoon, wet a clean cloth with cold water and wipe over the top of the soup with it. The hot fat will adhere to the clean cloth and a few repetitions will remove every particle of fat. A lettuce leaf thrown in the kettle for a moment will also absorb grease.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Sassy and quaint is the new coiffure with curls lifted midway between neck nape and crown. Sort of Grecian; adorable with an evening gown of long slender graceful lines. Incites a girl to carry her head in a queenly manner, throw back her shoulders, look like something that has stepped out of the fashion book. Hair at the back must be two and one-half inches long if ringlets are to be fat and snuggly.

When there is an excess of stored up fat on the body the diet should be fairly free of fat foods. They are the worst offenders in the way of creating the feather-bed shape. Starches and sweets come next. A simple method of weight reducing is to go on a three-day liquid diet once a month. No solid foods, but plenty of buttermilk, clear tea and coffee, fruit juices, tomato juices, clam broth and clear soups.

Tweezing eyebrows so they lift at the far ends isn't a bright idea. The downward line makes the eyes look larger. Strange designs of eyebrows devised by the modernists are not altogether successful, though we must say they attract attention. Especially when they are extended by means of the crayon, and the line wavers. Beading the eyelashes is another beauty misdemeanor.

Beware, plumptitudinous one, of the corset that pushes flesh up into roll on the ribs. Better the foundation garment that lets the flesh distribute itself evenly. Only the slimps can go unharnessed these days, frocks being what they are, dress creators keeping in mind the svelte shape, doing little for the sartorial happiness of the woman who is cursed with the feather-bed shape. A corset should be fitted to the figure if it is to serve graciously.

ROOSEVELT Whiteman, Bernie, Hamp, Bestor Music BROADCASTS

Democrat Nominee's Speech On Air From Baltimore; Wynn Frolics at Nixon

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's final radio address of his current campaign swing through the East, Middle West and South, is broadcast over a coast-to-coast Columbia network, including WJAS, tonight at 8 o'clock. The broadcast, scheduled for 30 minutes, originates in the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

Changing its form of dramatic productions over NBC-WCAE tonight at 10, the Dance Hour inaugurates a series of federal cases, replacing the New York police dramatizations featured for the last two months. Tonight's story, based on records now filed at the United States Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice in Washington, is "The Alaska Killer." Roger Wolfe Kahn's orchestra provides the music.

Mr. Kahn

Before an audience of 2,500 Pittsburghers, Ed Wynn, with Graham McNamee and Don Voorhees, presents his "Fire Chief" program over a coast-to-coast NBC network through the facilities of WCAE tonight at 9:30 from the stage of the Nixon Theater. The supporting orchestra, conducted by Voorhees, is composed of 35 Pittsburgh musicians selected by Zoel Parenteau. Replacing the "Fire Chief" quartet is the KDKA male quartet heard on the Memorial Park and Westinghouse Pioneers programs, composed of Gene Baldrige and J. Dixon Fulton, tenors; Reed Kennedy, baritone, and Russell Mitchell, bass. The quartet is directed and accompanied by Aneurin Bodycombe.

With Marlin Hurt, of the Musical Memories trio, and Carl Hoefle, the trio's arranger, in Chicago hospitals minus their respective appendices, Irma Lyon and Roy LeRoi, well-known radio pianists, present a group of classical and popular two-piano selections as guest artists on the Musical Memories hour over KDKA tonight at 9 o'clock. The orchestral portion of the program, under the direction of Josef Koestner, includes Foster's "Rose in the Bud," "Room with a View," from Coward's "This Year of Grace," and "At Sundown."

* * *

Program Pointers

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit present a program comprised entirely of new stage songs over WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock. Included are Irving Berlin's "How Deep is the Ocean?" Walter Donaldson's "You're Telling Me?" "Goodnight, Vienna," from the film, "One Magic Night," and Herman Hupfeld's "Let's Turn Out the Lights" . . . Dr. Herman N. Bundeson discusses "Exercise in Middle Age" during his dramatized Adventures in Health program on KDKA at 8:30 tonight . . . "Childhood in Song," a recital of folk and art songs by primary and intermediate grade groups from Pittsburgh schools, is listed on KQV tomorrow at 1 p. m.

Miss Sanderson

Because Ben Bernie was in New York last week and worked with George Olsen and his band during his last broadcast, he was unable to present his special number, "What Have They Done to My Love Song?" . . . sooooo the Ol' Maestro and all the lads offer it tonight at 9 on WCAE.

The late Nora Bayes, favorite comedienne, singing her most popular song, "If I Knock the L Out of Kelly," is the subject of Georgie Price's mimicry on WJAS at 7:45.

Listening In

Wimbrow With Mills. Editor as 'Will Rogers.' Society Girl Actress.

Dale Wimbrow, freckle-faced master of negro dialect, has been engaged to introduce those original vocal mimics, the Mills Brothers, in a series of augmented broadcasts with Don Redman's hot Harlem band as a supporting feature. Dale began life as a high-C tenor with an A. B. degree from Western Maryland College . . . After deciding against studying medicine or entering the ministry, he went to war, was gassed at Argonne and came back with a voice somewhere between those of Bert Williams and Sir Harry Lauder . . . Thereafter highway engineering, farming and salesmanship claimed him until he wrote an act of his own and booked both it and himself into vaude.

Mr. Wimbrow

That impersonation of Will Rogers in a recent "March of Time" presentation which roused considerable comment was done by Cal Tinney, a young non-professional from Oologah, Okla., Rogers' native state. Cal, vacationing in New York, did the impersonation just to pick up some extra change. He's owner-editor of Oologah's only newspaper, "Oologah Oozings."

Speaking of "March of Time" and its cast, Marion Hopkinson, who played the part of Rosa Ponselle not long ago, is a New York society girl. Acting in the series is more or less a hobby with her. Her real interests are centered in her studies for an operatic career.

Little Jack Little is vacationing in Bermuda with his wife . . . And now its "Prof." Norman Brokenshire . . . He's been invited by the public speaking department of New York University to deliver a classroom lecture today on radio and broadcasting technique . . . Nancy Garner, on a month's vacation from the network, is in her native Texas . . . Everett Mitchell has received a belated wedding present from one of his fans—a bowl filled with artificial flowers . . . Ev's been married for 12 years.

Lanny Ross had his handwriting analyzed by a graphologist in the studio just before "Show Boat" docked for its premiere performance . . . and learned that he has good taste, ability to keep a secret, is affectionate, impatient, sensitive and ambitious; has too many interests and forgives but doesn't forget . . .

Now that he's settled into his radio work, Georgie Price plans to resume theatrical productions, the first being a play for showing in December . . . Georgie won't appear, however.

Jules Bledsoe, the baritone on "Capt. Henry's Show Boat," returns to the stage "Show Boat" production when it goes on tour next Monday . . . He created the role of Jim in the Ziegfeld show before Paul Robeson took his place.

Bernardine Flynn used to walk tight-rope for the amusement of her school chums . . . and Lucille Long, the contralto, used to entertain on excursion steamers in Montreal . . . Jane Pickens taught a class of neighbors the art of playing the banjo, guitar and other string instruments when she was only 13 years old.

WEINSTOCK'S POWER GOES TO WASTE

AN ANGLE OF Pitt play to attract attention in the last two games against Army and Ohio State was the unwillingness of the Panther strategical department to make use of the driving power of the fullback. Against Duquesne, Izzy Weinstock, husky Wilkes-Barre sophomore, looked like one of the best fullbacks Pitt has had in recent years, but in the Army game one week later he had only a few opportunities to carry the ball. In each case he ripped through for a good gain, and he had enough drive to pierce the hard-charging wall of the Army on the latter's own goal line, chalking up the winning points against the Cadets on the Blue and Gold's last scoring chance.

Izzy Weinstock

The fact that he had been able to do this against the spirited charge of the West Point line caused spectators at last Saturday's game to wonder all the more when they saw Weinstock forced to content himself with blocking and defensive work almost the entire afternoon against Ohio State. Several situations in particular appeared to call for a Weinstock plunge as the logical play, but something else was tried each time.

EXCEPT FOR HIS 15-yard plunge from punt formation in the third quarter, and an instance when he had the ball on one of Ohio State's offside plays near the goal line just before the finish, Weinstock hardly ever was sent into the line on a direct smash. On his attempts to break away on fake reverses he was brought down by a mountainous Ohio line after gaining only two or three yards.

This questionable strategy, the failure to use a dependable battering ram when direct smashes might have brought needed gains, is just another reason why the Pitt team of 1932 has become one of the biggest puzzles in football. The chances are that not even the coaches know how good or how bad the Panthers really are. Saturday's game with Notre Dame probably will answer the riddle.

AMONG THE GREAT running backs, besides Red Grange, starring in the big professional football league this season are Chris Cagle, former Army star, and Shipwreck Kelly, of Kentucky, with the New York Giants; Jack Grossman, of Rutgers, with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Joe Lillard, of Oregon, of the Chicago Cardinals.

Each has a different style of running, and perhaps the most deceptive is Lillard, a Negro. Lillard is not wonderfully fast, nor particularly shifty in appearance. He runs with rare smoothness and a minimum of waste motion, and is shiftier than he appears. He fairly glides away from a tackler, has a great change of pace and direction, and is remarkably durable.

Football fodder: Besides Warren Heller, Pitt halfback, Eastern players receiving all-America mention are Fields, Army halfback; King, Army end; Colehower, Penn tackle, and Hardy, Harvard tackle. Marquette has the fastest water boy in the world in Ralph Metcalfe, Negro Olympic star. Michigan has one of the best all-America backfield bets in Harry Newman. Red Grange repeats that the Notre Dame system is the soundest of all, and that with everything else equal, only the breaks can beat it. Karl Bohren's Hobart team has the lightest college player in Leighton Harvey, 123-pound quarterback. Ever since 1923, Dayton has had one Hawaiian gridder, and this year has a ukulele player at tackle in Hank Meyer. Pop Warner's Stanford team has not even scored in four of the last five years against Southern California.

Dazzy Vance

WHEN A REPORT came out of the East at the close of the baseball season that the Brooklyn club would trade Dazzy Vance, fandom was of the opinion that the Dodger officials were overlooking the fact that it takes two to make a swap. It was hard to picture any wild scramble on the part of other clubs for the veteran pitcher's services.

Developments have borne out the views of the fans. During the last three weeks, Vance has been offered to practically every other club in the National League, but none has been found willing to make a bid for his services. Nobody appears to want Old Daz, who will be 40 next March, one objection being his expected demand for a larger salary than he is judged to be worth. He drew $17,500 last season.

IT IS NOT yet known whether or not major league baseball games will be broadcast from the parks in 1933, according to Bob Quinn, Red Sox president. He denies that any definite action has been taken, and says the two big leagues will ballot separately.

SEVERAL OTHER VETERAN ball players, particularly pitchers, have been on the anxious seat since they read of the unconditional release of Eddie Rommel by the A's. They fear it may be only the first step in a general dropping of old slab timber by major league clubs and that their own heads may be in danger. It won't be surprising if other ageing ballers follow Rommel. The majors plan to continue their retrenchment policy of 1932, and with expenses being slashed and a further lowering of the player limit proposed, there may not be room for some of the oldsters whom the clubs would be glad to carry in normal times.

THE OLD-TIMERS ARE passing out of other sports, too, what with death taking Jimmy DeForest and Dan Hickey from the fight game, Alonzo Stagg being ousted as football coach at Chicago at the age of 70, and Keene Fitzpatrick retiring at 68 after 42 years of service as a college track coach.

Fitzpatrick developed many famous champions, including the only double Olympic sprint winners before Eddie Tolan—Archie Hahn in 1904 and Ralph Craig in 1912. Other stars of his making were Ralph Rose, Charles Dvorak, Coard Taylor, Ralph Hills, Harrison Thomson and Ben Hedges.

STRANGE THAT THE boxing class with a record number of championship claimants should be termed the one in which it is hardest to arrange a title match, but that's the report of Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden boxing boss, makes of the featherweight division.

Roy Worters

Kid Chocolate is recognized as the champion by the New York commission, Tommy Paul wears the N. B. A. crown, Babe Arizmendi is proclaimed the titleholder by the the European champion. Yet Johnston has been unable to get a match, for Chocolate. He tried Arizmendi, but the latter blocked the bout by demanding 20 per cent, instead of the challenger's usual 12½ per cent.

ROY WORTERS, former Pirate hockey star, evidently is going to retain during the coming season his ranking as one of the best goalies in the National League. It had been feared that Worters would be out of stride, for a time, at least, as the result of a recent illness, but since reporting for training with the New York Americans at Oshawa, Ontario, he has rounded into form rapidly and bids fair to show all his old brilliance in the nets. Another old Pirate, Hib Milks, who was to have returned to Pittsburgh if the movement to put this city back in the major ice league had gone through, also has just joined the Americans in practice, the last player on the roster to report. Milks is not listed for first-string duty, as the starting line is to be made up of Martin, Himes and McVeigh. Manager Simpson tips Martin to prove one of the finds of the season.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The races for the class A and class B football championships of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League are tightening up, according to latest figures computed under the point system which governs the two groups.

Ambridge High School, coached by Moe Rubenstein and which has been setting the pace for the class A teams since the season got under way, increased its point total to 125, a gain of seven and one-half, despite the fact it was idle last week.

BRIDGERS HOLD LEAD

The Bridgers hold a five-point lead over Latrobe, which shows one victory in class A competition, having beaten Connellsville two weeks ago. Beaver Falls, Howard Heckathorne's title contenders, shows the most victories, its five class A triumphs giving it 109, a gain of six and one-half points over its total of the previous week.

Springdale High, coached by Herb Ripper, is gaining rapidly on Glassport High, coached by Roy Hickes, in the race for the class B crown. Glassport added a point and one-quarter to its total for a total of 111¼. Springdale is second with an even 110. Edgewood is resting in third place with 108 1-3 points.

CITY LEAGUE FEATURE

Interest in scholastic football this week-end centers on the outcome of the Schenley-Westinghouse duel at Westinghouse. The two teams are running neck-and-neck for the Section I title. A victory on Friday virtually means the Section I championship.

Both teams have played five games so far this season. In league competition, Schenley was tied by Allderdice, but defeated Fifth Avenue, 14-0. Westinghouse, in league warfare, defeated Peabody, 12-6; Fifth Avenue, 41-0, and tied South, 7-7. The records of Schenley and Westinghouse follow:

SCHENLEY

Schenley	6—Langley	0
*Schenley	0—Allderdice	0
*Schenley	14—Fifth Avenue	0
Schenley	9—Johnstown	0
Schenley	13—Steubenville	22

WESTINGHOUSE

Westinghouse	0—Wilkinsburg	7
Westinghouse	0—Allegheny	6
*Westinghouse	12—Peabody	6
*Westinghouse	7—South	7
*Westinghouse	41—Fifth Avenue	0

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE FIRST AMERICAN ELECTION—The first man ever elected to office on the soil of the New World was John Winthrop, first governor of the colony of Massachusetts Bay. This celebrated election took place May 18, 1631, after the royal charter was obtained which created a corporation under the name of "Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England." The first American electee was born in Edwardston, Suffolk, England (1588-1649). The proprietors of the company first elected him governor on October 30, 1629, on British soil. On June 22, 1630, the new governor arrived in command of 11 ships at Salem. After his re-election by the General Court in Boston, on May 18, 1631, a landmark in the history of elections in the New World, he was re-elected to the same office in 1632, 1633, 1634, 1637, 1638, 1639, 1640, 1642, 1643, 1646, 1647, 1648 and 1649, so that, altogether, he was elected governor 16 times, in addition to three terms as deputy governor. Winthrop is the man whose mind is credited with "having arranged the social state of Massachusetts, while Massachusetts in turn has moulded the society of New England."

TOMORROW: A UNIQUE RECOVERY.

ENDS TO FACE TEST AGAINST NOTRE DAME

By JESS CARVER

It begins to look like Warren Heller, Muggsy Skladany and Ted Dailey will have to carry Pitt's big burden against Notre Dame this week, and possibly, lug the hopes of the Pantherns throughout the remainder of the season. The three appear to be about the only ones of the entire Panther cast, a cast that promised so much up to last week, who are playing football. They were the outstanding performers against Army, and the only ones on their toes consistently against Ohio State.

It will take some extra-duty toiling by the Panther ends if a respectable showing is to be made against the Ramblers this week. Pitt's chances of beating Notre Dame are well, they are so slight that Coach Sutherland is going to spend most of his time this week strengthening his defenses in order to keep down the score. You have to see this Notre Dame ball club to really appreciate the task confronting any team it meets. They're too good, those Ramblers.

HELLER BIG HOPE

Heller, a great halfback, probably as good a back as there is in the East, is Pitt's big offensive threat. Warren can run and Warren can pass, and you'd be surprised at the small percentage of passes that are completed over his position on the defense. Given any sort of help by his interference, he'll gain ground, too, but so far, in the two big-league tests against the Cadets and Ohio, his help has been of high school caliber.

The two ends are going to have it tough . . . plenty tough. In the first place, they'll have to cover on the punts better than they ever covered before, because the Pitt punting hasn't been what it should be and all the Notre Dame quarterbacks are expert at bringing the kicks back. Unless the ends are on their toes, or the punters boot the ball out of bounds, they'll be kicking into, rather than out of, danger.

And they'll have their mitts full with the Irish running attack outside the tackles, too.

There are bound to be some shakeups in the Pitt battle array this week. Coach Jock is getting insomnia worrying over his right halfback, center and quarterback posts. Neither Hogan or Cutri have shown anything like the stuff they should have to be the varsity signal-barkers. They haven't been blocking, either, a serious fault. Capt. Paul Reider's injured ankle is proving a great handicap to the Bulldog's work. Besides, the Pitt leader appears to be losing his pep. Maybe he needs the added responsibility of running the team . . . certain it is that such responsibility helped both he and Pitt against Army last year.

Shotwell and Tormey have the center job well balled up. Shotwell lacks experience and Tormey is bruised and battered.

MUNGAS MAY PLAY

If Hogan and Cutri do not show immediate improvement, it would not surprise many on the inside to see Miller Mungas, the Bellaire sophomore, get a crack at the job. Mungas is the equal of either on the defense, and is as able a blocker. He, too, would be lacking in experience, but then, sometimes you'd think the other two quarterbacks were fresh off the farm.

The Tipoff

Charleston alumni of West Virginia University have petitioned the school to remove Coach Greasy Neale and replace him, if possible, with Dr. Clarence Spears, now at Wisconsin, who formerly coached the Mountaineers. The rub is that according to an act of Legislature, they can only pay $4,000 per annum for a football coach, and Doc could not be had for twice that sum. The odd part of it is that Spears would like to return to West Virginia, provided he could get the do-re-mi.

Freddy Schweitzer, veteran tackle, has been named captain of the West Virginia varsity for the remainder of the schedule. Up until now, Coach Neale had appointed a leader for each game, but the plan did not work out so well. Schweitzer was appointed by a board composed of coaches of all sports.

No one section of the United States has a corner of football talent in these days if the roster of the National Professional Football League is any indication. Players in the major circuit come from 34 states and one territory, Hawaii.

Illinois furnishes the greatest number, 20, the two Chicago teams recruiting many of their players from that state. California and Texas each contribute 15, New York and Ohio 14 each, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin 13 each, Kansas and Massachusetts 10 each, while Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington, Michigan and Minnesota have from five to nine representatives each. At least one player comes from Arizona, Kentucky, Florida, Montana, Mississippi, Virginia, Wyoming, Tennessee, Colorado, Connecticut and Hawaii.

Marquette's Golden Avalanche, which meets West Virginia in the homecoming game here Saturday, has lost but two homecoming battles in the last 12 years. Creighton was victorious in 1924, and the Kansas Aggies in '25. What a prospect for the staggering Mountaineers.

They "graduated" Jumbo Morano, star fullback from Sing Sing Prison last week, and Jumbo went about seeking a job playing pro football. But the parole board has so far refused to grant Jumbo permission to capitalize on his prison gridiron record and Morano may have to find other ways of making a living.

One of Dr Maxie Hannum's varsity basketball players at Carnegie Tech is confined to a bed in the Allegheny General Hospital. He is Lou Jagnow, star forward, who underwent an operation on a trick knee last Saturday. Lou had the cartilage removed from the injured member. He'll be confined to the hospital for some time.

Hannum, who succeeds Buzz Hogan as the varsity court mentor at Tech, will give his varsity squad its first workout next week. At present, Dr Maxie is engaged in publicizing the football team and arguing with Red Silverman.

PITT TO HONOR POP, JOCK

The University of Pittsburgh Varsity Letter Club, comprising 700 alumni of the university who received their varsity letters as members of various athletic teams, will hold a dinner in honor of Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, coach of the Stanford University football team, and Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, head coach of the University of Pittsburgh varsity, Friday, evening, November 25, at the Hotel Schenley, the eve of the Pitt-Stanford game.

Definite acceptance from Warner has just been received. The two assistant coaches, who played under Warner at the Pitt, Claude Thornhill and Charley Winterburn, also will be in attendance.

The officers of the Varsity Letter Club include Dr. Homer Roe, president, captain of the football team in 1909; Samuel K. Hunter, first vice president; Dr. George McLaren, second vice president; George I. Carson, secretary, and C. E. (Andy) Hastings, treasurer.

In addition to the officers of the Varsity Letter Club, the executive committee planning the dinner is composed of General Chairman Allen K. Collingwood, student manager of the 1915 football team; Dr. William D. McClelland, Carl Mulert, Floyd Rose, Dr. J. H. Wagner, C. R. Wilson, Jr., Bert H. Smyers, Dr. John Mackrell, Norman MacLeod and Dr. H. C. Carlson.

Floyd Rose, former member of the coaching staff and a quarterback in the early '90s, will be the toastmaster.

YALE STAR INJURED

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 25.—Joe Johnson, Yale varsity center, was removed to the school infirmary last night suffering from a brain concussion received in last Saturday's game with Army. He was released from the hospital Saturday night, but took a turn for the worse yesterday.

SPEARS SEEKS NEW TACKLE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Replacement of Buckets Goldenberg, regular tackle, was the biggest task confronting Coach Clarence Spears as Wisconsin began practice for the Ohio State game yesterday. Berg's ineligibility for cutting classes will be acted upon soon by a faculty committee.

George Thurner, end, was shifted to the position, but Coach Spears may revise most of the line to find a new combination.

Big Ten Briefs

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With renewed confidence as a result of the 18 game they played with Pittsburgh Saturday, the Ohio State University football team yesterday started to prepare for the last half of its 1932 schedule. The players took things easy, but today will start work in earnest for the Wisconsin encounter here Saturday.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Pete Zimmer, Chicago's best offensive weapon in Saturday's victory over Indiana, showed up with a wrenched knee yesterday, and had for company Bill Cassels, who played every minute of the game at tackle. Cassels suffered a severely bruised shoulder.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Coach Dick Hanley has ordered a two-day rest for the Northwestern regulars who helped gain Saturday's tie with Purdue, but will have all hands out for scrimmage tomorrow.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The Illinois varsity was let off with a light signal drill yesterday, but Coach Bob Zuppke and his assistants renewed their search for talent among the reserves.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Minnesota returned to drill yesterday to prepare for the Northwestern game with three regulars, Capt. Walt Hass, Ken Gay and Milton Bruhn, on the side lines resting injuries from the Iowa engagement.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Coach E. C. Hayes told his Indiana University football players yesterday that in losing to Chicago last Saturday they played their worst game since he has coached the Hoosier squad. He sent the varsity through a stiff drill and indicated the first-string lineup may be revamped.

SPORT VIGNETTES

We haven't heard the last (and neither have you) of that goal-line stand of Ohio State against Pitt in their scoreless tie at the Stadium last Saturday . . . Fans are asking if it would have been possible for the Buckeyes to keep charging offside all afternoon, or until time was called, as they did on the second and third plays after Pitt was awarded the ball on the one-yard line for interference on a forward pass, in view of the fact that the defending team could not be penalized over its goal line.

The answer is in the negative . . . The rules cover the situation in two ways . . . All Pitt had to do was to keep on carrying the ball until it got it over the goal line on one of the offside plays and then, once over the line, decline the penalty, and it would have been a touchdown . . . But the situation would not have gone that far . . . Article 8 of Rule 10 says that the Buckeyes were inviting forfeiture of the game by stalling for time with the ball inside the one-yard line.

The rule follows: "If a team on defense commits fouls so near its own goal line that these fouls are punishable only by the halving of the distance to the goal line (the object being, in the opinion of the referee, to delay the game) it shall be regarded as a refusal to allow the game to proceed. The referee shall in such cases warn the offending team once, and if the offense is repeated he shall declare the game forfeited to the opponents."

In the Geneva College-Boston University game at Beaver Falls last Saturday, Geneva scored its first three touchdowns on forward passes thrown by three different tossers . . . The first was the old reliable, from Grahame to Aultman, the second from Aultman to Jones and the third from Troiano to Jones . . . That comes under the head of versatility, or something.

Almost unbelievable things sometimes happen on the gridiron . . . For instance, there are clippings at hand from Buffalo newspapers which reveal that St. Vincent College owes its 13-13 tie with Canisius there a few weeks ago to the fact that the referee inadvertently permitted the home team five downs to carry the ball over the goal line for the tying touchdown in the final quarter . . . St. Vincent protested at the time, but to no avail . . . The following day, the referee said he still thought he was right and there had been only four plays from the three-yard line, where a first down had been made, but the play-by-play stories of the game recorded five downs, and they were backed up in this by Marty Brill, LaSalle coach and former Notre Dame star, who was scouting Canisius; Jack Carberry, Georgetown scout and former Notre Dame player; Mike Reilly, St. Bonaventure coach, and two officials.—HARRY KECK.

BENNY SCHWARTZ WINS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, fighting at 120, took a unanimous decision from Frank De Angelo, of Washington, 124, in an 8-round bout here last night.

MACK BEATS MONTE

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Richie Mack, San Francisco welterweight, outpointed Wildcat Monte, of Oklahoma City, in a 10-round bout last night.

MIDDIES WORK ON OFFENSE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Reasonably satisfied with the defensive work of the Navy gridmen, Coach Rip Miller will spend most of the week in stressing the attack he desires his charges to throw against the University of Pennsylvania eleven next Saturday.

Gordon Chung-Hoon, Navy's powerful back who was hurt early in the Princeton game Saturday, left the hospital yesterday.

Eastern Briefs

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The failure of Penn's kickers in converting points after touchdown against Lehigh last week annoyed Harvey Harman so much that he said the kickers would workout this week until they can "kick placements with their eyes shut."

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Penn State, preparing for undefeated Colgate, went through only a signal drill yesterday, but will settle down to harder work today.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With Lafayette next to be played, Washington and Jefferson went through only a light workout yesterday, but will add to its repertoire of plays before Saturday's battle.

VILLANOVA, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Harry Stuhldreher pulled out a number of new trick plays yesterday for his Villanova outfit to use against Bucknell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The Colgate game demonstrated New York University's line needed practice in charging and blocking, and Coach Howard Cann set about correcting these faults yesterday. The team came out of the Colgate contest without serious injury, and will be at full strength for Purdue.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Princeton's varsity sat around in street clothing yesterday and watched a second team, with assistant coaches Tad Wyman, Earl Martineau and Campbell Dickson in the backfield, run through Michigan plays.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Pretty well battered up, Army's first team was given a holiday yesterday, but the second and third teams put in a pretty full afternoon in preparation for the game with William and Mary, conquerors of the Navy.

SANDLOT, SCHOOL GRID DEATH LIST REMAINS BIG

INJURY TOTAL IN COLLEGES REDUCED

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The new safety code of 1932 has had a tremendous effect in reducing death and injury to college football players, but has failed to eliminate the hazards to prep school and sandlot combinations, chief objectives of the new rules, a survey of gridiron fatalities so far this season has indicated.

Just a year ago, on October 24, at New Haven, Richard Brinsley Sheridan, young Cadet end, was fatally injured trying to make a tackle in the Army-Yale game. That casualty, one of 50 last fall, touched off the storm of inquiry and search for safeguards that resulted in a complete overhauling of the football rules, eliminating the "flying wedge" on kickoffs, flying blocks and tackles, and "rabbit punches" on the necks of linemen.

10 DEATHS TO DATE

But today, with almost half the season completed, 10 deaths already have been attributed to football hurts in the United States and two boys are believed dying. Of the 12 cases, 11 resulted from play on high school and sandlot gridirons, where authorities last fall insisted the supervision, care and training given college men were lacking.

The sole exception, where all the safeguards thrown about college players were in effect, was reported from New Orleans. Hugh Martin Williams, 18-year-old freshman, was kicked in the abdomen in a practice session with the Loyola varsity and died later of internal injuries.

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, gathering national college statistics, has received reports so far on 250 injuries. Most of these were minor character, the bureau said, adding the only serious case was My Ubl, Minnesota backfield star, who barely survived a chest injury.

HEAD INJURIES RIFE

Four high school boys, two sandlot players, two youngsters in neighborhood games, and one Academy player in Honolulu received fatal injuries. In addition to this list, Asa Mohr, 26 year- old, suffered a broken neck in a game between town teams in Central City, Neb., while F. C. Smith, 20, a Muncipal League player, was so badly hurt about the head in a game in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday, that he is not expected to live.

Just as last year's toll came mainly through head injuries, so do the deaths reported so far this season bear out the necessity for protective measures against this type of hurt. Particularly do these injuries seem to haunt high school gridirons.

POLO LEAGUE SETS PLANS

Extensive plans for the advancement of local polo were made at the annual organization meeting of the Pittsburgh Polo League, held yesterday at the Hunt Armory. The South Park Polo Club, which made strides this summer, was admitted to the league, which includes Shady Side Academy, Vangs, 308th Cavalry and 107th Field Artillery.

Although the league season will not get under way until December 3, the new member will test its game Saturday night when it engages the 107th Field Artillery.

Expansion of the league to five teams extends the playing schedule to 20 weeks, from December 3 to April 15. A game will be staged at the Hunt Armory every Saturday evening during that period.

Officers of the league for the season are: George Vang, president; D. I. McCahill, Jr., vice president; Capt. E. J. Voltz, treasurer, and Elliott E. Perritt, Jr., secretary.

The schedule for the first part of the 1932-1933 season follows:

December 3, 107th Field Artillery vs. 308th Cavalry; December 10, Vangs vs. Shady Side Academy; December 17, 308th Cavalry vs. South Park; December 24, 107th Field Artillery vs. Vangs; December 31, Shady Side Academy vs. 308th Cavalry.

Cronin and Sponsor

JOE CRONIN JOE DEVINE

Former Pirate shortstop and the scout who recommended him register joy over the selection of Cronin as the most valuable player in the American League for the 1930 season. He won the same honor the following year. Now, at 26, he's manager of the Nats. Read Charles J. Doyle's interesting story of the player's career below.

The Rise of Joe Cronin

From High School Team to Pirates at 18 —Manager of Washington Senators at 26

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

NO. 2—HELD BACK BY SPONSOR

It is only on rare occasions that a boy just out of high school is invited to "tryout" with a major league baseball club. Stars like Frank Frisch, George Sisler, Eddie Collins and quite a few others were able to go direct from college diamonds to berths in the big show, but, as a rule, a youngster has reached his majority before he moved from the collegiate campus to the big tent. Therefore, he may be said to have attained most of his growth and strength.

Joe Cronin had just passed his 18th birthday on the spring day he presented himself to Manager Bill McKechnie at Paso Robles. Several years later, Sunny Joe was to be a robust athlete of 180 pounds; when he reported to the Buccos he weighed scarcely 140, but, unlike the incomparable Rabbit Maranville, Joe was a "good - feeler" and it was with difficulty that he was made to hold himself in check. He overran with pepper from the moment of his awakening in the early morning until he retired at night, and, as Joe Devine has stated, he even talked baseball in his sleep.

Joe Cronin

HARD TO RESTRAIN

Devine felt that, inasmuch as he was sponsor for the high school athlete, he should give him special instructions. He had prevailed upon Owner Barney Dreyfuss to acquire the gingery kid at such a tender age, so he felt Cronin's welfare would be deeply associated with that of his booster. The sleuth, accordingly, had a heart-to-heart talk with Cronin.

It is well nigh impossible to hold a fighting kid in check when he romps onto a pretty ball park. The park at Paso Robles would do credit to a major league city, and what could be nicer than a gambol on the greensward? Devine, however, had ordered Cronin to "take things easy." He laid down the law to Joe so far as "cutting loose" with his throws was concerned.

VETERANS ARE SKEPTICAL

The kid shortstop found it very, very hard to obey the admonition. He was possessed of a power arm and wanted to let go with both barrels. Devine had seen enough of the power to know it was there, but he actually did prevail upon his protege to "lay low" in this connection. Just the same, it was a hard punishment for the eager kid to lob the ball around while others were letting it fly.

Before the drills at Paso Robles were completed many of the veterans had commented upon Cronin's arm. The bosses regretted that Sunny Joe did not appear to have the desired zip in his throws. The talk got around to Devine, who merely smiled and said everything would be O. K. Manager McKechnie and Coach Ens apparently were a bit dubious, but they seemed to be willing to take Devine's word that Joe would come along. And all the while Cronin could have snapped the ball had he been allowed.

Scout Joe, it seemed, wanted Shortstop Joe to look good as he made his debut in his home town with a major league club against the San Francisco Seals. It was decided to get the youngster into action as quickly as the series opened. On the eve of the big day, Devine remarked to Cronin:

"O. K., now Joe—give the boys everything you've got tomorrow!"

HEADS EAST WITH PIRATES

That was the word Cronin had anxiously awaited. When the native son went to his position with the Pirates he amazed the whole Pirate squad with his rifle-like shots to first base and other spots on the diamond. They yelled in glee:

"Aha, Joe! You've been holding out on us."

And, a few days later, Joe and his buddie, Eddie Montague, saw the light of San Francisco dazzle as they rode across San Francisco Bay on a great adventure. They were on their way east with a major league club.

PETITION ASKS STAGG REMAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Virtually every member of the freshman football squad, who entered the University of Chicago "to play football under the "Old Man," today had signed the petition asking that A. A. Stagg be retained as head football coach.

Along with the 39 yearlings who signed, 31 members of the varsity squad, 198 members of 11 fraternities and 70 from other groups had added their names to the request.

The petition signed by the freshmen reads:

"We, the undersigned freshmen entered the University of Chicago with the hope that we might play football under the "Old man." The ideals for which he stands and the opportunity to come under their influence in associating with him, were deciding factors in making our choice.

"We feel we can gain much from playing under Mr. Stagg and hope the chance will not be taken away.

"Respectfully we ask that the "Old Man" be retained as our coach."

The petition will be presented to President Robert Maynard Hutchins, the board of trustees, Thomas N. Metcalf, who will succeed Stagg as director of athletics when the latter is retired because of the 70-year age limit, next June, and the order of the "C", late this week.

Wilmington Coach Married to Nurse

WILMINGTON, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Dr. Dalton Peelle, 25, football coach at Wilmington College, was married yesterday to Miss Ruby Giseke, head nurse at Hollywood Hospital, Los Angeles.

Dr. Peelle, a physician who served his internship at the hospital, last year, did not return in time for yesterday's football practice.

TROJAN AERIAL ATTACK BEAT STANFORD

By GLENN S. WARNER

Stanford Football Coach.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 25.—Two well-executed forward passes by the University of Southern California spelled defeat for Stanford in their important game here Saturday. One was caught over the goal line and the other on Stanford's nine-yard line, from which point the U. S. C. powerhouse put the ball over.

These passes were rather lucky in that on both occasions Stanford had men on the spot, but they failed to knock the passes down.

Outside of those two plays the game was about even, neither team being able to gain with any consistency. I would say the two teams were about equal offensively and defensively on running plays, but that the Trojan victory was due to better forward passing and a better defense against passes.

Southern California was much superior to Stanford in running back kicks, and its man Warburton is the best open field runner I have seen this year. Stanford was the weaker team physically, being greatly outweighed, and I feel my boys did very well to hold them as well as they did.

I have felt right along that Southern California had not shown its real strength and Saturday's game proved it. Howard Jones has another great team, and, when his boys are steamed up as they were today, they are probably as strong as any team in the country. Stanford has a good team also and this defeat is not going to wreck our season. I am proud of every one of the Stanford team. They gave their best, but were defeated by a better team.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Betty Robinson, women's Olympic 100-meter champion in 1928, who nearly lost her life in an airplane accident 16 months ago, planned to start her second comeback attempt today.

After lying for months in a hospital following the air crash, Betty recovered enough to return to classes in the school of physical education at Northwestern University. Her first comeback try, an attempt to make the 1932 Olympic team, failed because of stiffness in her left arm and leg, broth fractured in the accident.

She spent the summer swimming and taking special exercises, and today was ready to go back to work on the track under the direction of Coach Frank Hill.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden—Tony Herrera defeated Battling Guzzo, 10 rounds; Pee Wee Jarrell defeated Dave Grove, 8 rounds; Sid Silas defeated Matty Ottach, 6 rounds; Charley Burns defeated Andy Kosel, 6 rounds.

At Alexandria, Va.—Benny Schwartz defeated Frank DeAngelo, 8 rounds; Billy Strickler defeated Jimmy DeCapua, 6 rounds; Nick Antonelli and Billy Kissinger drew, 6 rounds; Jess Reil defeated Jack Quigley, 4 rounds; Bob Lewry defeated Joe Rapp, 4 rounds.

At Dallas—Richie Mack defeated Wildcat Monte, 10 rounds; J. D. Kitchens knocked out Oscar Donley, first round; Wilson Dunn defeated Jimmy Klinker, 10 rounds.

At Portsmouth, O.—Johnny Roberts and Frankie DePalmo drew, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—George Godfrey won by a technical knockout over Al Fay, 8 rounds; K. O. Christner defeated Eddie Benson, 6 rounds; Ed Prante knocked out Henry Gerken, 3 rounds; Umberto Arce knocked out Will Mathews, 2 rounds; Cowboy Jack Willis won by a technical knockout over Nick Venore, 4 rounds; Charley Loughran defeated Frankie Carr, 8 rounds.

At St. John, N. B.—Billy Horn knocked out Jack Miller, 3 rounds.

FAY STOPPED BY GODFREY IN EIGHTH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—George Godfrey, giant Philadelphia Negro, was awarded a technical knockout over Al Fay, of Charleroi, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Fay was outweighed 61 pounds by Godfrey.

Referee Joe McGuigan stopped the bout after two minutes and 14 second of the eighth round.

Fay, Jack Kearns' heavyweight hope, was game from start to finish, but could do little against the two-handed slugging of Godfrey. The Philadelphia giant knocked him down twice in the second round with heavy rights, and opened cuts on his face and eyes. Fay bothered Godfrey in the sixth and seventh rounds with a series of short rights to the body.

K. O. Christner, 211, of Akron, O., hammered out a six-round decision over Eddie Benson, 190, of New York, in a hotly-contested semi-windup.

Ed Prante, 206, U. S. Marine Corps, knocked out Henry Gerken, 190, New York, in the third round. Umberto Arce, 190, Puerto Rico, knocked out Will Mathews, 190, Baltimore, in the second round; Cowboy Jack Willis, 160, California, scored a technical knockout over Nick Venore, 156, Philadelphia, in the fourth round, and Charley Loughran, 154, Philadelphia, won a six-round decision over Frankie Carr, 160, of Chester.

LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

The West Penn Basketball League will hold a meeting tonight in its Sixth street headquarters. Rules will be discussed and forfeits posted.

SKIBOS PRIME FOR BATTLE WITH OWLS

Carnegie Tech's football squad, refreshed after an extra day's rest, caused when Coach Waddell called a holiday yesterday, will jump into preparations this afternoon for the Temple game in Philadelphia next Friday night. It will be the first time a Tech team ever played under the lights.

The Owls will be seeking their first triumph over the Plaid, but if they believe they will catch the Skibos "down" after their decisive defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, they are due to be surprised.

The Tartans realize fully that they never had a chance against the Irish. They are perfectly willing to charge the defeat off to experience, painful perhaps, but still valuable.

Practice today will start in Skibo Bowl and end up at Forbes Field under the lights. The boys will report late, and when it gets dark they will be taken to the baseball yard to work out under similar conditions that they will encounter in Philadelphia on Friday.

Jerry O'Toole, Bunny Burzio and Harry McCurdy, the most severely injured last Saturday, are expected to be ready to practice today.

SANDLOT GRID CARD HEAVY

PAULSONS SET FOR STO-ROX TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

A hefty program of sandlot football is on tap for this week, with action slated to get under way under the lights at Greenlee Field tonight as the East Liberty Paulsons and Sto-Rox clash in a non-Conference tussle.

Tomorrow night, two interesting battles will take place. At Olympia Park, McKeesport, the Olympics and Christy Park will battle with the city championship hinging upon the outcome of the game. A hectic struggle is anticipated.

PARKERS FORMIDABLE

Jimmy Gray and his Christy Park gridders have been trying to break into big-time football all season. It is reported the team is a formidable outfit. Manager Evans and Coach Bill Sullivan have scheduled a strenuous workout for the Black and White gridders for this evening.

At Tarentum, the Firemen and the Rox Rangers will swing into action with a night game in the Lightweight Conference. The initial appearance of the Rangers in Tarentum probably will attract a large crowd.

Next Sunday, two games are carded in the West Penn Conference, Managers Art Rooney and Vusky got together and re-scheduled the Rooney-Bellaire contest at Bellaire. This will be the first visit of the crack North Side club to the Ohio Valley.

OLYMPICS FACE TEST

At Olympia Park, the Olympics and the East Liberty Papales will tangle. With a scoreless tie resulting from the first meeting between the teams, the fans should see an interesting game.

Kaiser, former Wash-Jeff star, will start at fullback for the Papales. The East Enders still feel that they can cop the Conference honors.

SHARKEY LAYS DOWN LAW

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey will risk his heavyweight title only in a Boston ring and against an opponent acceptable to him, William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden, was informed yesterday by Johnny Buckley, the Boston titleholder's manager.

Carey came here primarily to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Boston Garden, but during his stay sounded out the Sharkey forces about a return match with Max Schmeling in the Long Island Bowl next summer.

CHOCOLATE BOUT OFF

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Matchmaker Scotty Monteith announced cancellation today of a 10-round bout here October 27 between Kid Chocolate and Harry Blitman because of Chocolate's failure to arrive in Detroit yesterday in conformity with the rules of the State Boxing Commission. Monteith said Chocolate's manager, Luis Gutierrez, advised him in a telephone conversation that they had missed train connections in New York.

Vanderbilt Asks Rule Be Clarified

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Vanderbilt University has disclaimed any ulterior motive in the recent disqualification of Julian Foster for violation of the Southern Conference summer baseball rule and suggested the Conference executive committee issue a clearer interpretation of this regulation.

Football Coach Dan McGugin said there was no foundation to what he termed well-defined rumors that Vanderbilt had some ulterior motive in declaring Foster, a 220-pound end from Madison, Ga., ineligible.

The rule in question, which has proved troublesome for many years, states:

"A student who plays on a summer baseball team which plays more than three games a week while he is a member of it shall not me eligible."

Tecumsehs Secure Gillie, Ice Star

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Farrand Gillie, left winger of the Detroit Olympics for the past five seasons, yesterday was transferred to the London Tecumsehs, also of International Hockey League.

In the same deal, the Detroit management announced, the London club dropped its claim to Gordon Brydson, who jumped from the Tecumsehs to the Chicago Shamrocks of the American League. Brydson now becomes the property of the Detroit club.

Gillie, one of the most persistent puck chasers in professional hockey, made his debut with the Detroit Olympics in 1927 and in the four succeeding campaigns took a regular turn at left flank.

Yale and Fordham May Fire Coaches

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—According to a rumor circulated here today, the entire Yale varsity coaching staff, consisting of Mal Stevens, Adam Walsh, Bucky O'Connor and Church Comerford, will be released at the close of the present football season.

It also was rumored that either Jim Crowley, now at Michigan State, or Slip Madigan, at St. Mary's, in California, would replace Maj. Frank Cavanaugh in 1933.

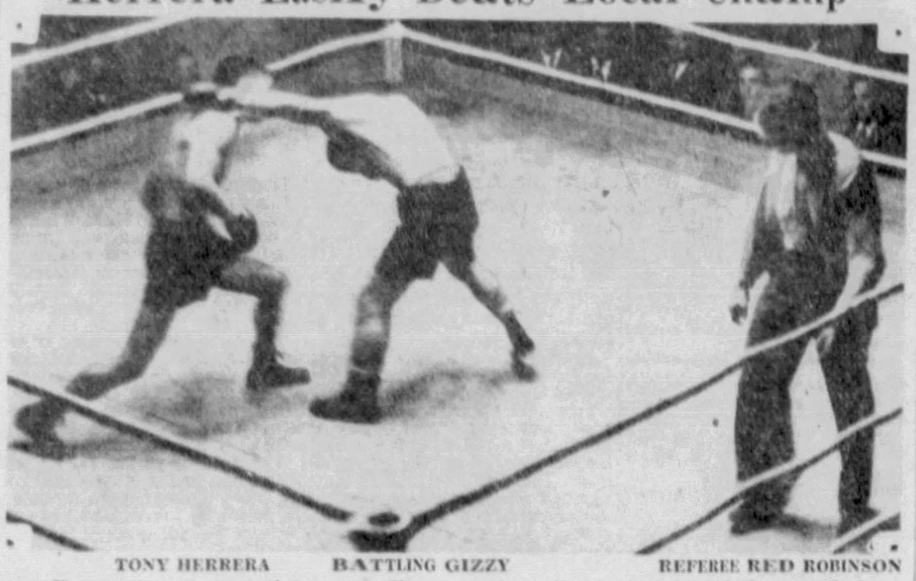
Herrera Easily Beats Local Champ



TONY HERRERA BATTLING GIZZY REFEREE RED ROBINSON

Herrera was an easy winner over Gizzy, local lightweight champion, in their 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night. Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture above shows typical action in the fight, with Herrera slipping inside Gizzy's wild swings to hook the body with his left. The largest crowd of the season so far turned out fo rthe show.

HERRERA TOYS WITH GIZZY

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Battling Gizzy, local lightweight champion, probably will be able to worry his way through life very well if he never meets up with Tony Herrera, of Chicago, again. In fact, he's probably wondering today how he came to be introduced to Herrera in the first place, and why, following their 10-round main bout before a good-sized crowd at Motor Square Garden last night.

The bout was one of the easiest Herrera has had here. A cakewalk. He hit Gizzy at will, softening him up with left hooks to the body at the start and then just breezing along. Several times it appeared as if he could win by a knockout if he cared to exert himself. He used his right sparingly and let up time after time as Gizzy, usually a rip-tearing slugger, went on the defensive and covered or hung on in clinches.

WALKOVER FOR TONY

Gizzy didn't come close to winning a round and was glad to be on his feet at the final bell. It has been a long time since he has missed so many swings, scored so few punches and been hit as often as he was by Herrera, and, at that, Tony, following a layoff of months, was only half trying.

Gizzy weighed 137½ pounds and Herrera 135 at 3 p. m.

All of the preliminaries were better than the main bout for action. The semi-final produced a great crowd-pleaser in the person of Pee Wee Jarrell, a tall, rangy welterweight, of Fort Wayne, Ind., who won the decision of the judges over Davy Grove, of the North Side, in eight rounds, after both had been on the verge of a knockout. Jarrell, a fast-moving, clowning cut-up, who constantly talked to and smiled at his opponent and directed him to his corner at the end of the rounds after having him dizzy from the maneuvering, went over big with the crowd.

JARRELL PLEASES FANS

With a right chop to the jaw, Pee Wee dropped Grove for a count of two at the start of the second round, Davy getting up in a daze, his arms down, and turning his back on his opponent and walking blindly to his own corner. Before the referee, Joe Zivic, could intervene, Jarrell was upon his man and punching him again, with Grove virtually walking in his sleep. The shock of these blows brought Davy partly out of his stupor, and Jarrell nursed him along until the middle of the round, when he smiled sweetly and asked, "All right now, kid?" before landing another damaging punch.

In the next round, Grove turned the tables when he finally caught up with Pee Wee and dropped him for no count in his own corner with a right to the jaw. Then he dug home one of his best left hooks to the body and Jarrell went down and rolled with the count, getting up at eight, only to run into another similar hook and go down again, to be saved this time by the bell at five. He came back to win all of the remaining rounds except the seventh.

SILAS, BURNS WIN

A wise-crackin' Hoosier, Jarrel can return here any time, for he certainly sold himself as a showman in his first appearance. He fights again tomorrow night in Grand Rapids, meeting Ray Petosky.

Sid Silas floored Matty Oldach, of Erie, for counts of nine, nine and eight in the fifth round, but Popeye weathered the storm to go the limit in the six-round second bout, losing the decision. Silas had a good night and dropped only one round, the fourth.

Charley Burns, of St. Michaels, did a good two-fisted job in beating Andy Kosel, of Turtle Creek, in the six-round opener, Kosel winning only the third round, in which he scored a knockdown for a count of three.

Between Rounds

Both Johnny Datto and Joe Marcus are balking at the choice of opponents for their scheduled double windup at the Arena, Friday night of next week. Datto is listed to box Tony Faico and Marcus to meet Phil Zwick. That's pretty tough opposition for both at double windup percentages.

Buck McTiernan and Jimmy Belmont are going quietly about their preparations for their main bout at the Arena, Friday night. It is their third meeting, and their partisan rooters likely will turn out in full force to see them settle their grudge once and for all.

There is talk of trouble in Bunny Buntach's camp centering about George Panka, the heavyweight, with the possibility that he will be asked to take on Lloyd Clements, his stablemate, with the winner remaining and the loser dropping out.

GRINS From the GRID

—By O. W. (Red) Severence—

NO. 13.

Back in 1930, the University of North Carolina Tarheels were playing their ancient and deadly rival, the North Carolina State Wolfpack.

This game always is fought to the last minute, no matter what the odds.

The university team this year, with superior numbers and more experienced players, was having little difficulty gaining ground and had scored a few touchdowns before the end of the first half.

The Wolfpack ball carriers could do little gaining through the Tarheel line, with the exception of their fullback, an Indian named Guerno. This redskin was poison to the university eleven and made gain after gain in terrific plunges.

Capt. Nash, of the Tarheels, backing up the line, continued to spur his linemen to hold this plunging attack, but with no noticeable results. Finally Guerno tore off about eight yards, dragging four or five linemen with him before he was stopped.

Capt. Nash, very much disgusted, rushed up and cried out:

"What's the matter with you birds, can't you stop that Indian?"

Guerno, up on one knee, looked at Nash and made the reply himself:

"Capt. Nash, if all the Indians had been as tough as I am you folks wouldn't be across the Mississippi River yet."

Arizmendi Rejects Terms, Irks Garden

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Unless Baby Arizmendi, the California featherweight, comes to terms within 48 hours, Madison Square Garden will turn elsewhere for new talent.

Jimmy Johnston, boxing director of the Garden, said today he would quit trying to sign the Californian to box Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, and attempt to arrange a match between Nel Tarleton, of England, and Chocolate for next month.

Chocolate is recognized as champion in New York.

Johnston said Arizmendi has refused to take the short end of the purse in meeting Chocolate.

Johnston has offered Barney Ross, Chicago, $5,000 to meet Sammy Fuller, Boston lightweight, here next month, he said.

Luppanacci Wins Over Bill Hamrick

George Luppanacci, of the Willow Club, a 170-pounder, punched out a victory over Billy Hamrick, of the Thomas Club, in three rounds in the main bout of the benefit amateur boxing show staged at the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, the proceeds of which went to the Ninth Ward Relief Association.

There were six bouts on the card, all going the limit. The summary:

112-pound class—J. Burke, Linwood Club, defeated Chuck Gallo, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, 3 rounds.

115-pound class—Joe Suek, Willow Club, defeated Frank Flavin, Willow Club, 3 rounds.

126-pound class—J. Rickard, Linwood Club, defeated Bill Call, Boys' Club, 3 rounds.

135-pound class—Leo Schrider, Boys' Club, defeated Joe Mazzetti, Thomas Club, 3 rounds.

145-pound class—Regis Golden, Thomas Club, defeated J. Gons, Boys' Club, 3 rounds.

170-pound class—George Luppanacci, Willow Club, defeated Billy Hamrick, Thomas Club, 3 rounds.

Cohen as Actor Exits Poorly, Kisses Well

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—An error was charged against Andy Cohen, second baseman for the Minneapolis Millers, champions of the American Association, by dramatic critics yesterday as they passed judgment on his debut as an actor, made with a local stock company.

They accused him of failing to find the proper exit at one point in the play, "Elmer the Great," a comedy by Ring Lardner. But they credited him with a perfect batting average in the play's big moment for Cohen, when he kisses Ruth Lee, an actress cast opposite him.

Coaches for years have realized the value of an accurate long-distance kicker.

W. A. Alexander

Recently newspapermen and through them the public have learned that, everything else being equal, the team with the superior kicker will win.

Why, then, doesn't every coach have his whole squad practice kicking until a good kicker is discovered or developed? Because, notwithstanding much contrary opinion, good kickers are born, not made.

Kickers in football are like pitchers in baseball. A good prospect will punt the ball fairly well or throw the ball well the first time he tries to kick or throw.

It is perfectly possible that a college squad that may contain 20 players capable in other respects may not contain one single man with a natural aptitude for punting. If that is the case, said team is out of luck and cannot hope to escape defeat in games where the other team has equal ability plus a natural punter.

Very often such a team will attempt to play a man who can kick well, but who is not a high class tackler or blocker. This is apt to prove disastrous, as they are forced to play with 10 men defensively and lose one man in the interference offensively.

HURRYING KICKER HELPS

The best thing a coach can do when he knows that his punter will lose 10 to 15 yards on every exchange of punts is to work his team hard in rushing the other kicker and in catching and running back punts. If his team can block a punt, or rush the kicker to the point where he has to hurry, then three to four punts may be poor ones and will tend to equalize the difference. If his safety man can bring back three or four kicks from 10 to 20 yards during the afternoon, then the sum total of the rushing and running back will just about offset the advantage of the good kicker over the poor kicker.

Last year in the Southern Conference race Vanderbilt was rated by many of us as the team that had the most powerful offense and defense in the Conference. Yet this team lost four games to Tulane, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. The Vanderbilt team played excellent football in at least three of these four games. The answer to these defects was punting.

Felts, of Tulane; Chandler, of Georgia; Feathers, of Tennessee, and Cain, of Alabama, were excellent players who could kick that football 50 yards past the scrimmage line. Henderson, of Vanderbilt, while an excellent player, probably did not average much better than 30 yards with his kicks. The handicap was too great.

COACH HANDICAPPED

For years Coach McGugan has been noted as a kicking coach and knows as much about punters and the use of the punt as any coach in the country. Give old Dan a boy with some natural aptitude for punting and Vandy will have a kicker, but give Vandy 30 good players with no natural kicker in the lot and McGugin nor anyone else will do much better than 30 yards past the scrimmage line.

Nebraska School Gridder Dies

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Leland McIrvin, 16-year-old Minatare High School football player, died in a hospital here yesterday the result, physicians said, of a general infection which followed a bruise received in practice more than a week ago.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McIrvin, had not been feeling well for several months and was suffering from boils at the time his arm was bruised.

His death was the second of the season in Nebraska to be blamed on football.

Pressure on Copper Market Continuing

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Pressure to sell copper metal both here and abroad continues. The red metal is available for domestic shipment to the end of the year at 5.50c a pound and for the first quarter shipment in 1933 at 5.75c and second quarter 6c. European destinations are at levels corresponding, with 5.35c to 5.40c c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Considerable second-hand copper is available at 5¼c a pound delivered to the end of 1932.

Commission Scores Duplicated Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today scored the situation in some eastern cities where railroads maintain rival terminals for buying and selling produce.

The commission has made no general investigation because of the expense, but did have a survey in Buffalo, N. Y., where the Erie and Nickel Plate maintain one produce terminal and the New York Central another.

Washington Glass Company Dissolved

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 25.—Formal notice has been given of the dissolution of the Highland Glass Company of this city, long an operating company here. The firm first merged with the Western Company and more recently with the Mississippi Glass Company. Business of the firm will be conducted under the name of the latter.

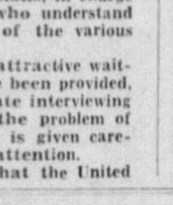
More Efforts To Find Work For Jobless

By B. C. FORBES

FRANCES PERKINS, industrial commissioner of the state of New York, writes:

"I am heartily in accord with the declaration in your column, 'If there is any problem which reaches to the very foundations of our whole social structure, it is that of making it possible for workers to connect with work.'"

COMMISSIONER PERKINS gives interesting information concerning official efforts to place workers. Thus:



Mr. Forbes

The New York State Employment Service now has 10 offices located in large industrial areas, including four in greater New York.

These 10 offices are open to all classes of workers and exact no fees.

Last year they registered 123,340 applicants and made 78,698 placements.

From April 1 to September 30 this year aplicants totalled 73,452 and 29,046 were actually placed in employment.

COMMISSIONER PERKINS adds:

"Within the last two years-and-a-half—since unemployment became again a major social problem—the state employment service (a branch of the State Department of Labor) has been enlarged and strengthened, and its primary purpose—which is to connect men with jobs—extended to permit greater attention to individual applicants, and a more careful selection of the right man for the job.

"Its combined staff now numbers 105 competent workers, trained in the selection of qualified applicants, and familiar with local industrial and employment problems.

"As its applicants include highly trained and professional workers as well as clerical, factory and mercantile workers, domestic servants and day laborers, its local offices have occupational and industrial divisions, in charge of specialists who understand the problems of the various groups.

"Clean and attractive waiting rooms have been provided, as well as private interviewing rooms, where the problem of each applicant is given careful individual attention.

"It is true that the United States has made less progress than have most European countries toward providing an adequate public employment service. I believe, however, if you will pay a visit to the New York State Employment Service—its main office is at 124 East Twenty-eighth street, Manhattan—you will realize that a very good beginning has been made toward a more efficient and humane method of assisting the worker in his quest for a job, and a permanent system inaugurated which may eventually contribute to a solution of the unemployment problem itself."

ONE CANNOT help asking why, in view of these facts, such enormous crowds daily besiege the scores of privately-run labor agencies in New York City.

Is it that too few concerns needing help communicate with the state placement agencies?

THIS COLUMN is receiving letters from different parts of the country complaining that "rackets" are connected with the hiring of workers, that there are instances of collusion between those doing the hiring and operators of labor agencies. If this be true, it would, of course, explain why requests for workers are sent to agencies run for profit rather than to official employment bureaus.

Few "rackets" could be more despicable than penalizing and victimizing unfortunates desperately in search of a chance to earn an honest living.

JESS H. HOPKINS, of the public employment center of Rochester, N. Y., writes that, thanks to funds from certain foundations and local employes in addition to the amount allocated by the state, "a demonstration center has been set up in Rochester for the very purpose of working out new and better standards of administrating public employment offices," and that "for nearly two years, great improvements have been taking place."

STATE AND municipal employment offices throughout the country should advertise prominently in local newspapers so that every job-seeker may know where to go.

The man or woman thrown idle by economic conditions should not be left ignorant and helpless, but should be universally regarded by public officials and by every responsible citizen as meriting the most profound consideration at this time.

BEAR COVERING HALTS DROP IN POUND

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—The headlong drop of the pound sterling was abruptly stemmed this afternoon after the British unit of currency had reached $3.28, the lowest mark for the year.

As suddenly as it had fallen, the pound began to rise, and at 3:30 p. m. had mounted to $3.30. Bear speculators chiefly responsible for pushing the pound down retreated in haste as the upward spurt began.

Financial circles professed to see no cause for alarm, and cited the forthcoming 8,000,000 pound sterling loan for South Africa as proof that confidence of the gilt-edged securities market in sterling remains undiminished.

BEARS SPREAD RUMORS

The main reason for the slump, according to high authorities, is that heavy French withdrawals are being made in London in view of forthcoming French internal loans. The British government is refraining from making use of the exchange equalization fund to support sterling while the French movement is under way.

The bears were spreading a crop of rumors, charging that the British government's exchange equalization fund was exhausted and that the treasury was short of American dollars for the December war debt payment. All were vigorously denied by well-informed financial authorities.

At $3.28, the pound stood within 5 cents of the all-time low mark established in December, 1931. Today was the first time the pound had dropped below $3.30 since Great Britain went off the gold standard in September, 1931.

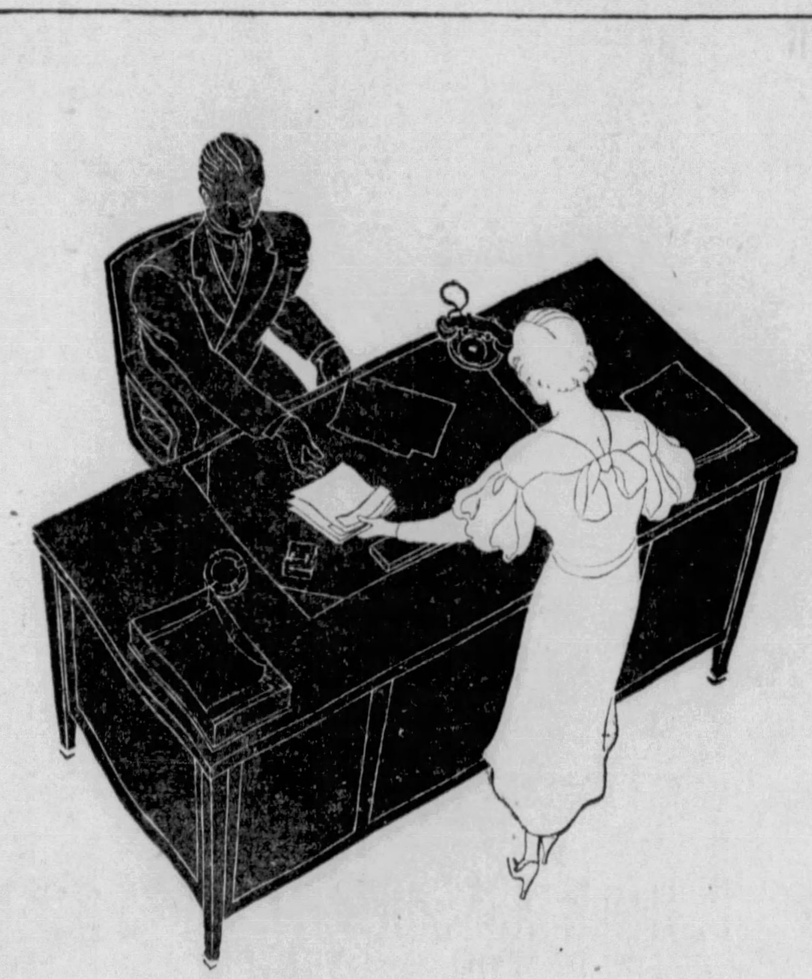
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—The Standard Oil Company of California announced it will anticipate 1933 supply needs with immediate orders in California territory aggregating about $3,000,000 to assist in employment and business rehabilitation.

Daily Oil Output Takes Sharp Jump

TULSA, Oct. 25.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended October 22 totaled 2,151,289 barrels, an increase of 32,846 barrels daily over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.



HAVE YOU
A FINANCIAL SECRETARY

Few there are who require the full-time services of a financial secretary. But there are many whose security holdings require more time and attention than the average business man can spare for such details. To these we offer a convenient and dependable "safe keeping" service. In the performance of this service, we accept securities for safe keeping, collect dividends and interest, and principal when due or when the securities are called for redemption. In short, the Bank performs the principal duties of a financial secretary at a fraction of the cost.

MELLON NATIONAL BANK

STOCKS HEAVY IN FEEBLE TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Stock traders all but suspended operations in today's market, awaiting the action of the United States Steel directors on that company's preferred dividend after the close of the trading session.

The list moved narrowly in one of the dullest sessions of the year, but developed a somewhat heavy tone as the session wore on. Prices stiffened a little in the first hour, but such scant gains as were recorded were quickly lost, and by early afternoon several issues had slipped a point or more below yesterday's final prices.

Wall street was reconciled to an unsatisfactory quarterly earnings statement from United States Steel, as statisticians calculated that the rate of operations indicated another large deficit. Opinion as to probable action on the preferred dividend was decidedly mixed, but brokerage quarters were inclined to lean to the view that the regular $7 dividend rate would be maintained, or that it would be cut to $5.

Selling of Drug, Inc., evidently reflected the possible reorganization of one of its principal subsidiaries, the Louis K. Liggett Company, should it be unable to get revisions of its leases for the more than 500 stores which it operates. The Liggett Company, Inc., was incorporated in Massachusetts yesterday, with the Louis K. Liggett Company consenting to the use of its name. It was assumed in Wall street that this might be a successor to the present Liggett Company.

A slump in the wheat market was also a depressing factor in shares. Commodity price indices indicate that the trend has been downward for about six weeks, and it had been the improvement in commodities that provided one of the principal bullish arguments in stocks during the July to September rally. Wall street was particularly concerned as to the possible effect of the slump in the pound sterling upon world commodity levels. Chicago wheat was depressed by a sharp break at Winnipeg.

Selling of the biscuit stocks may have been partly in response to Loose-Wiles quarterly earnings report, showing net of 23 cents a share, or less than half the current quarterly dividend of 50 cents. National Biscuit, reporting several days ago, showed 55 cents of its quarterly dividend of 70 cents earned.

GINNED COTTON TOTAL DOWN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Census Bureau reports cotton ginned from growth of 1932 prior to October 18 amounted to 7,311,208 running bales, and compares with 9,496,965 bales ginned during the like period a year previous.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Cotton carried over on August 1, last, was equally as good in grade and slightly longer in staple than either last year's crop or last year's carry-over, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today.

According to Census Bureau figures, 9,682,316 bales were carried over on August 1, and of this 9,564,899 bales were American upland; 16,532 bales were American-Egyptian, and 100,885 bales foreign cotton.

Tobacco Dividends Likely to Be Paid

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—No change is likely in the regular $1.25 quarterly dividends on the common and the common "B" stocks of American Tobacco Company at the meeting tomorrow.

At each of the past two January meetings the regular quarterly disbursement was supplemented by $1 extra, and it is likely similar action will be taken this coming January.

N. Y. Curb Suspends Morison Electric

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The New York Curb Exchange today suspended dealings in the common stock of the Morison Electrical Supply Company, Inc. This action was taken because of the company's failure to maintain a stock transfer office in New York in accordance with the rules of the curb exchange.

FOREIGN BOND HOLDERS FORM COUNCIL

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Already thoroughly spanked during the past year by an irate public opinion, the originators of billions of depreciated securities, who assembled here yesterday as delegates for the opening of the twenty-first annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, were in a candid, fact-facing mood.

Mr. Rukeyser

Emphasis was placed on methods for relief of the American investor at home and abroad. After emphasizing the desirability of tax relief through reduction of public expenditures and through new forms of taxation, including a federal sales tax and a federal tax on beer, which, it was estimated, might yield up to $754,000,000 per year, or about three-fourths of the yield of the entire federal income tax in the last fiscal year, the convention learned of undercover plans for the launching in New York of a council of foreign bondholders, similar to the one in successful operation in London.

SEEKING SUPPORT

The movement to protect private American investors in the bonds of foreign governments, many of whom are in default, was initiated by the administration at Washington last winter when it summoned representative financiers to the national capital for secret meetings with Secretaries Stimson and Mills. Pierre Jay, of New York, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, Princeton economist, have played a leading part in lining up the new organization. In alluding to the project, Nevil Ford, of the First of Boston Corporation and acting chairman of the foreign securities committee of the association, divulged that the sponsors had reached a stage where they were drawing up the bylaws and selecting personnel. Ford expressed the opinion that the new protective council would take over the work of the present Institute of Foreign Finance, jointly sponsored by the Investment Bankers' Association and New York University.

It is understood that the organizers are now seeking financial support for the council. They are first approaching such impartial agencies as the Rockefeller Foundation and the Carnegie Fund. The British council was originally endowed by London banking houses and by British chambers of commerce. Its endowment fund is estimated at a billion pounds sterling.

FAVORS BEER TAX

The importance of this projected protective work lies in the fact that of the $7,500,000,000 of foreign dollar bonds outstanding, 19.4 per cent are now in default.

Edward Hopkinson, Jr., partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Drexel & Co., as chairman of the committee on federal taxation, rendered a report of nationwide interest. Though not officially advocating legalization of beer, Hopkinson held out the promise of large amounts of comparatively painless public revenues from an impost on beer.

The remarks, which were indorsed by the convention, are of extraordinary significance because members of this association are the chief appraisers of public credit, and are the main distributors of state and municipal bonds, and also have at least a sentimental effect on the market for federal issues.

HEART ATTACK KILLS DOCTOR

After attending patients and performing a major operation yesterday, Dr. W. B. Denslow, 60, died of a heart attack early today at his home, 3652 California avenue.

Born in Wellsville, O., he was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, serving his internship in Mercy Hospital. He began practice in 1895.

In the World War, Dr. Denslow was attached to the 103rd Base Hospital in France.

He was a member of the American Legion, Bellevue Lodge of Masons, Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, the Allegheny County Medical Society and was on the staff of the Suburban General Hospital.

He leaves his wife, a son, Joseph A., and three brothers, Winfield S., of Cleveland; William C., of Miami, Fla., and J. Carl Denslow, of Bellevue.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Despite a slightly larger volume of trading in the forenoon the Curb today continued a sleepy and dull affair, with prices reflecting by their very narrow movements an almost entire absence of outside interest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

THREE WOMEN

A Story of the Conflicting Natures Of Different Generations

By FAITH BALDWIN

Domineering Mother Always Near to Guide Lennox's Course Through Life

CHAPTER V.

Dinner was at 2. Cousin Henrietta, red-rimmed about the eyes, sat between his mother and himself. There were many heavy courses. The man servant stepped softly, passing silver dishes to them. His mother talked, leading the conversation.

"A pity you could not have been with us this morning, Henrietta. I thought the sermon particularly fine. Did it impress you, Lennox?"

Lennox looked up from his plate, blushed in the helpless fashion he had when spoken to suddenly and which he hated. He muttered something, and fell to stirring his mashed potato with a fork, watching the yellow chicken-gravy discolor it, until his mother spoke sharply to him. A moment later and she was repeating the essence of the minister's words to Henrietta.

Cousin Henrietta. Lennox watched her, a little embarrassed. Her obvious poverty, her piteous leanness, her ugliness always disconcerted him. He would have liked her, he thought, really liked her if he had ever had an opportunity to know her. She was like the skeleton of a bird. Her eyes were dulled beads, her sharp chin and nose would meet one day; she picked at her food with an exaggerated delicacy. She was a wraith, unreal, not wholly human.

PITIED RELATIVE

Yet once, long ago, he remembered he had seen her weeping bitterly. He had been quite small at the time, he had put his arms about her and had tried to console her. It was something his mother had said to her—what, he could not recall. Henrietta had held him to her flat breast, to her frightened, unrevealed heart. He had remained there, a very gallant little boy, terrified at the sound of the sobs which shook him as well as her, hating the musty odor of her clothes, the unpleasant fever of her breath. Then his mother had taken him away, had set him apart upon his two small feet, had taken his hand without a word and led him into her room.

She had said nothing to him, he remembered, but her hands had passed lightly, ceaselessly over his little, velvet-clad body, as though erasing from it the hot clutch of Henrietta's empty arms.

Much later he had heard his father talking to Henrietta, as if he, too, were trying to comfort her. He had not seen her again until the next morning when she had crept to the breakfast table, terribly nervous, her eyes rimmed with red, as they now were. His father had said to him later, when they were alone, "Be nice to Cousin Henrietta, Lennox—she has a bad time, poor old thing." Then he'd added something about cold charity and old maids, which Lennox hadn't understood.

With a start Lennox came back to the present and discovered that his mother was speaking to him. The butler stood beside him with the dessert dish.

"Lennox! The dinner table is no time for day-dreaming. Help yourself to cream."

He took more of the ice cream than he wished, than he could eat.

After dinner Cousin Henrietta scurried up the stairs like an escaping thing. Louisa had disappeared, she always took a nap at this time. Lennox went to his room, according to the unvarying ritual. There he was expected to sit quietly until half past four o'clock when his mother would call him and he would go into her, next door, and she would talk to him about God and purity and the battle of living and the traditions of his family. She talked to him, in this way, every Sabbath afternoon. She read to him from Sesame and Lilies, from the New Testament. Then, they would separate to get ready to go to Morgan's.

MOTHER TOO REMOTE

How old was his mother? Had she ever been a girl? Did she miss his father?

He speculated upon her, tirelessly. He did not wish to, but she colored, she permeated his mind. She was everywhere, even when he was alone. He had the unformulated thought that she drew him down, absorbed him, that he was nothing, a drop in the infinite ocean of her being.

He did not love her—had not, since the babyhood which had loved every one. She was too remote for loving, and too close. He did not know what it was that he felt for her. It was not what he had felt for his father, still felt for his dimming memory. He could not measure it with anything, not even his settled affection for Nanna, who was still so much a part of his life. He had seen Fred Van Alstyne and his younger brothers with their plump, laughing mother—a mother who dealt smiles and frowns, slaps and kisses, quite impartially, who said, "Run along, you bad little things," who sat rocking in a fat chair with a tidy behind her graying head and received her sons into her arms and lap. They clamberd on her like puppies, and when she tired she smote them lightly, chuckled, and pushed them away.

VISITS SALLY'S HOME

He tried to imagine—himself—his mother. His imagination failed.

At half past four he heard her voice. He went into her room and sat down upon the hassock. The curious, significant hour had begun. He could no more escape it than he could escape her.

At the end of it she said, "You may get dressed now. We are going to Mrs. Morgan's for supper."

She said it like that, carelessly, as if it were of no importance.

Supper at Sally's was fun. A big table, a dozen people, talking, laughing. They had hot biscuits and cocoa with whipped cream, beef sliced to a curly thinness, potato salad, preserves and cream. And Sally sat beside him, amazing, so adult and self-contained, only a year his senior, but seeming decades older. Afterwards when her parents, her numerous relatives and the guests had gone to the informal, upstairs sitting room, where they would sit and talk until 10 o'clock, she followed with Lennox and led him to the cozy corner and made him sit down on cushions, under a draped tent of Indian stuff which smelled exotic and sweet and sharp. A lamp with glass jewels studding its metal depended from the framework of this entrancing affair, and there were gilded and silvered shields on the walls.

Lennox was distressed to think that Sally knew there was no cozy corner in his house. His mother had set her face against such fashionable innovations. She said they caught the dust and were untidy.

Sally was whispering.

"Mother will let us go to the day nursery and play the graphophone." Suddenly she had darted from his side, ruffles flying.

"Mayn't we, mother? Mayn't we?"

"May you—what?"

"Play on the graphophone?"

Mrs. Sheldon raised her eyebrows. She said, "Lennox—" briefly, and he came to stand beside her.

"My boy, you must not tease Sally." Her voice trailed away in his ears, he heard nothing further until she said, "It is the Sabbath?"

Mrs. Morgan, dark, slender, modish, her hair pulled high above her forehead and heaped over a structure of mysterious origin, said gently, "Oh, but really, Louisa, I can't see that it would hurt them. They grow so restless down here with their elders."

Mrs. Sheldon yielded, disapprovingly. "Very well," she said.

Synopsis

New York in the middle 80's, a sumptuously furnished home on Washington square, and Mrs. Louisa Lennox Sheldon, the first of "Three Women." She is aristocratic, aloof, even cool towards her husband, George, and almost jealous of him over their infant son, Lennox, her "god." She realizes that George's first choice was her sister; the latter had led him on coquetishly and then—married the other man. Louisa accepted George as a husband, ignoring his flirtatious ways with frigid disdain for 10 years, when he died, leaving her a sorrowing widow but inwardly happy that she alone could now mold her 9-year-old "god." Louisa decides not to let her son go to Harvard as his father had planned. She reproves him for reading poetry on the Sabbath. Lennox day-dreams of Sally Martin, his first fancy.

Heart of a Wife

Dr. Jim Paige Tells Plan of Buying Magazine

"We can go out on the veranda," I told Dr. Paige, in answer to his request for an opportunity to ask me something.

He turned with me and we made our way unobtrusively through the nearest door and on to the side veranda.

"It's about Edie," he said, "and a plan I have for getting her away from—that city and—that work that is robbing her of her beautiful, sweet youth and—I fear of happiness."

I sat silent, unable to answer him, stunned by the unexpected appeal to me, for such I knew it to be. He was too delicately chivalrous, of course, to say crudely to me. "The woman I love is in love with your husband, and I want to get her away from him," but I knew that he meant just that. I knew also that he was aware of my knowledge of the situation.

"You know her very well," he went on. "Tell me, do you think she is happy?"

"No, I do not think she is happy," I said, "but I cannot tell you why I think so."

"I am not asking you that," he said quickly—too quickly. "Perhaps it is given me to see more than you think. But that is not important. Do you think your husband would sell the magazine—his share in it?"

"To you?" I asked.

"I should not appear as the purchaser," he replied quietly. "Be assured I never shall mention your name in connection with the affair," I told him.

A POINTED QUESTION

"My husband has his profession, you know, as a major interest, Edith's work—and income—are limited to the magazine, and she has done wonderful work for it. I think Dicky would feel that it would not be quite chivalrous to sell his holdings unless Edith were also willing to dispose of hers."

"I—see," he said slowly. "Now, I am going to ask you an unpardonable question, but I fancy you know what is in my heart for Edie—what has been there since our childhood—and since I have been here this time I feel that something drastic must be done. So if I offend you, please consider my question unasked."

"I may not be able to answer your question," I answered, "but you never could offend me."

"Thank you," he said gravely. "What I wish to know is whether the magazine is making a good deal of money, or is losing ground. I assure you," he interpolated hastily, "I am not asking in order to make my offer fit your answer. I should buy at their price, no matter what the financial condition of the magazine. I have put aside a certain part of my patrimony to insure the happiness of the woman I love, if that can be done. But perhaps, if it is losing ground, they might more readily consider selling."

"Of course, almost no enterprise in these times is doing particularly well," I told him ambiguously, "but I do not think they have any particular reason to be discouraged. I imagine they are hopeful of ultimate recovery."

WARNS ABOUT EDITH

"Would you advise me to have your husband approached upon the subject of selling his interest?"

"It would do no harm, but—be very sure that your interest in the matter is not disclosed. I am afraid Edith would consider any such attempt to interfere with her work unpardonable."

"Thank you," he said fervently. "Now may I take you back to the dancing floor?"

"If you don't mind, I think I shall stay out here and rest for a few minutes. If I should be missed, please tell them where I am."

"Let us hope no one asks," he said, as he turned away. "You need rest, I am sure, although there is no slightest outward evidence of fatigue about you. I can see that you are one of those women who can travel indefinitely upon their will power."

He was gone then, and I leaned back in my chair pondering the surprising thing he had just told me.

It was perhaps five minutes later that I heard footsteps in the hall from which the little veranda opened, then a tall figure came out into the dimly lighted space. As he spoke my name I recognized him with astonishment, tinged with both apprehension and excitement.

Hugh Grantland had halted just inside the door.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

After the usual ceremonies and the special entertainment given at the regular meetings of the 16 chapters of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club Saturday, the managers told of the plans and the various stunts and prizes that the members could compete for next Saturday when all of the theaters are going to have special Halloween parties for the youngsters who attend these meetings.

At the Enright, Manager Bill Zeilor announced that his would be an old-fashioned Halloween party, including such stunts as an apple ducking contest, a shoe scramble, pie-eating contest and a prize for the best costume.

Each theater will have something out of the ordinary for this day, so, boys and girls, get out your costumes, false faces and masks and attend the meetings and you'll have loads of fun.

AMBRIDGE CONTEST.

Last Saturday the members of the Ambridge Theater Chapter staged a talent hunt for the best singer in the chapter and it resulted in Doris Seyboth and Jean Dixon being judged the winners.

Those taking part in this search and the songs they sang were:

Sophia Luke and Mary Firsch, "Bunch of Pins."

Anna Lazorisak, "All of Me."

Rose Deep, "A Shanty in Old Shanty Town."

Philominia Jones, "I Don't Know Why."

Mary Ella Poland, "Paradise."

Doris Seyboth and Jean Dixon, "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone."

Following the hunt for the most talented singer a trio composed of Charles Matthews, Charles Butler and John Curtis, members of the Ambridge Chapter and known as the "Three Flats," sang "Say It Isn't So."

Kelly Minor, a clever youngster, closed the stage show with a very fast and snappy tap dance.

CAMERAPHONE CHAPTER

Betty Niedhammer "Official Reporter" of the Cameraphone Chapter, asked many of the members of that chapter Saturday what their favorite food was and received the following answers:

John Tauro likes cream puffs and apples.

John Congello, apple pie.

Jack Kastrantas is crazy about cocoanut pie.

Eddie Riffle likes pancakes for breakfast.

George Katsos thinks "hot dogs" are great.

Sam Samsbury likes hamburgers and eats one every day.

Edward Bettilyn likes peanuts better than candy.

Dicky Weber prefers ice cream and cake.

Jack Shaeffer wishes that the watermelon season would continue for 12 months.

Mercedes Brinker likes to follow the exploits of "Popeye" daily and Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph, so she eats spinach every day like "Popeye."

Mildred Niedhammer likes popcorn.

Junior Steiner is another "Popeye" fan. He also likes spinach.

Vincent Boylan is crazy about pumpkin pie.

John McGinley likes his pork chops and his brother Eddie likes corn on the cob.

Donald Kennedy likes only the white meat of the chicken.

Congratulations to all the boys and girls who are members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club and who are celebrating their birthdays today.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

FOOT IRRITATION HEALED AS IF BY MAGIC

"I suffered for a long time with perspiring and cracked feet—often called "athlete's foot"—and all the treatments I tried brought no relief. We keep Resinol on hand, having used it with wonderful results for boils, burns, etc., and one night I decided to try it for my feet. The next morning, as if by magic, the cracks seemed to be healing. For a week I continued the treatment and the cracks completely healed and there was no sign of perspiration." (Signed)—

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

The boiler at the steam laundry went on the blink Monday, and Al Paubion, the proprietor, had to order a new one. Now you can't get a boiler in a day, so it looked as if Lamar would have to do for a week or so without any laundry. But old Al is too enterprising for that. Tuesday he got a threshing engine backed her in behind the laundry and fired her up. She was soon furnishing plenty of steam to wash the clothes.

Lave until 8 of the clock, which is the hour I am resolved to rise at, and then to tub, where loll like an inconsequentibus, singing "Was That Croquet?" and it please me to see how tenderly I sing the sad part, which goeth in this fashion:

Mallet and balls unheeded lay,
As maid and youth side by side sat they,
And I thought to myself,
Was that croquet?
He held her close in a loving way,
But I knew by her blushes she said not nay,
Was that croquet?
Was that croquet?

West Virginia Ratifies

Probable Adoption of the "Lame Duck" Amendment Will Be Due to the Force of Public Sentiment.

West Virginia has become the seventeenth state of the Union to ratify the twentieth amendment to the Federal Constitution—the amendment which will abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

Nineteen more states must assent before ratification is completed. But when it is considered that 17 states have ratified in eight months—the amendment did not pass the House until last March—there is ample reason to believe that the process will be expedited in other Legislatures, and ratification will be completed before Roosevelt and Garner are inaugurated as President and Vice President next March.

The purpose of the amendment is to make Congress more responsive to the people. It does this by convening each new Congress in January next after its election, instead of 13 months after. This abolishes the December short sessions, in which Senators and Representatives defeated in November return to Washington after their defeat to vote upon important measures without risk of chastisement at the polls. Presidents and Vice Presidents will also take office in January.

The amendment was passed by the Senate years ago. It was smothered year after year in House committees by the Republican bosses. This year it was finally carried against administration opposition. As Senator Norris said in his Philadelphia speech:

"The closest political friends of President Hoover in the House voted to the bitter end to prevent this change, which practically all American citizens were demanding, but the political machines were fighting. Much of the credit for passing the resolution in the House must be given to Speaker John N. Garner, who from beginning to end did everything he could in the interest of the amendment."

The rapidity with which the proposed amendment is receiving the legislative assent of the states is proof of the popular demand for the changes it ushers in.

Its probable final adoption, as the Hoover administration ends a discredited tenure, will be due to the force of public sentiment which the Hoover administration resisted, but could not defeat.

Distinguished Judges

Important Men and Women Are to Pass on the Better Traffic Essays, as Is Fitting.

The 30 judges chosen to pass on the merits of the essays submitted by Pittsburgh school children in the Better Traffic Committee's contest include the presidents of five colleges, the superintendents of the city's public and parochial schools, the Mayor and four other city officials, the presidents of the principal civic and trade bodies, presidents of women's clubs and other important persons.

It is appropriate that distinguished citizens should be included among the judges. The contest deserves careful attention. Eighty thousand children are competing. They have given earnest study to the problem of preventing automobile accidents, the general subject of the essays, and their efforts are worthy of the examination of the city's outstanding citizens and civic leaders.

The value of these annual essay contests can be gathered from the fact that child traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh have dropped from 68 in 1924 to 36 last year, while adult fatalities increased in the same period from 95 to 136.

Relief Overhead

The Counties Are Asked to Do No Unreasonable Thing In Paying the Cost of Administration.

The State Emergency Relief Board has imposed no unwarranted hardship on the counties in demanding that they pay the expenses of administering unemployment relief.

Westmoreland and Fayette Counties asked permission to use part of the federal and state funds allotted them for the care of the destitute to meet the cost of disbursing the funds. It was in connection with a negative answer to the request that the ruling was made.

There are, of course, legitimate expenses in the administration of relief. Investigations have to be made, field and office workers have to be employed, stationery and transportation costs must be met. But it is not asking too much to insist that the counties shoulder this burden themselves, thus leaving every cent of the federal and state funds available for the unemployed.

A Forest Monument

A Tract of Primeval Woods, Such as Gave the State Its Name, Is a Suitable Penn Memorial.

In commemoration of the 250th anniversary of William Penn's landing in Pennsylvania, it is announced an effort will be made to acquire, for presentation to the state, a tract of forest "never touched by fire or the ax." The tract that the sponsors of the plan have in mind is a 252-acre area in Warren County, along Tionesta Creek, not far from Sheffield.

The plan, announced at Bristol, Pa., in connection with the presentation to the Commonwealth of part of "Pennsbury," Penn's county estate, for use as a national shrine, has much to commend it.

It was the primeval forest of Pennsylvania that gave the state its name. Aside from the majestic white pines of Cook's Forest nearly all of the original trees have passed. It is proper that the few remaining tracts of the primeval wilderness should be preserved as forest monuments, and no assurance can be had that they will be preserved unless they pass to the ownership of the state.

Local Goods Superior

But a Campaign of Education Must Be Conducted to Convince Some of the People.

Harry W. Smith, of Beaver, Pa., writes to the Sun-Telegraph that he was puzzled over the fact that certain foreign products are sold in the Pittsburgh district more extensively than local goods which are superior.

He mentions as among the district's products, which are the finest in the world, china and semi-porcelain table ware, enameled kitchen ware, glass, ceramic tile, aluminum, and, of course, iron and steel products. He could have added many more articles to the list.

Well, Mr. Smith says he found out that some of our merchants are handling foreign goods instead of local products because their customers ask for the foreign articles, not being familiar with the home products.

A vigorous campaign of education by Pittsburgh manufacturers is the remedy for this situation.

October Blasts!

The wind now rises to a gale,
The gusts come thick and fast!
See how the forest bends before
The power of the blast!

And is this wind an icy one,
And snow-flecked? It is not,
It's puffs of rather sultry air;
In fact, it's mostly hot.

AT SEA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, Oct. 25.—Early today we slipped out of the diminuendo of fog into a sun glaring red from the fleckless sky. (One can't shut up about weather aboard ship.) There are staccato trit-trots from the promenade, the whine of clean breeze and accented echoes reverberating through every ship.

Everybody in yawning fatigue last night seems merrily buoyant today. Spirits lift with the sulphurous pall. My own exuberance was so abundant that in the bath—and here it is only Tuesday—I tried to work up a lather with the "savon pour l'eau de mer." But, Lot-like, I emerged a pillar of salt.

Breakfast tabletalk was the usual chatter of returning voyagers—the beauty of the Jungfrau, moonlight on Lake Como and significant winks over journeys to 32 rue Blondell. From the passenger list before me, I glean the baron business is not holding up. Two are in third class.

A table away, two lacquered and indolent beauties, made for cafe luxury and trying out fresh Paris gowns, are assigned with two elderly gentlemen, one cascading a luxurious flow of white whiskers. The ladies, continental fashion, ordered onion soup. Eating soup is a grand way to arch fingers heavily corseted with jewels.

"I hope you don't mind," cooed one, ladling up a fragrant spoonful. "I adore onion soup," and in coy giggle, "also whiskers!" I discerned a twinge of vanity through affected indifference, but His Whiskers was taking no chances. He began hurriedly to talk of his wife and two beautiful daughters at Lucerne.

* * *

The world's littleness is as ever trite as interesting. From a deck chair to my left, a salesman tells me he visits Gallipolis, O., yearly. On the right is a sweet-faced lady of timid fastidiousness who daily sat in Lafayette Park, Los Angeles, every sundown with her mother. My wife and I used to pass them walking Billy, and fell into casual acquaintance. We remembered their singularly beautiful devotion, the daughter having never been parted from her mother for even a day. In the interim the mother passed on. The daughter roams the world, trying to forget.

* * *

Another stunning figure, a May Christy in widow weeds and keyed to a fixed sadness, walks deck in neatly styled mourning costume, now and then brushing away a tear. A psychiatrist, with beard in pedantic point, discussed her plight in the lounge. He declared widows succumbing to such grief, scientific data showed, always married within the year. "A tribute," he mollified, "to the husbands they lost."

* * *

Engaging frankness comes out of the world blight. At tea a lady called to a flashy number flitting through the salon, "My dear, I had no idea you were on board. Where have you been keeping yourself?" The maid, unabashed, replied: "O, I'm in tourist and just sneaked up." And as she darted off, her questioner nodded to her neighbor and murmured: "Once disgustingly rich, yachts and things."

Across corridor a gout-ridden gentleman, with one foot cradled in mountains of cotton, addresses his cabin steward as "gawr-sawn" when he answers his ring. It occurs to me no French word is given so many pronunciations as garcon. My version is "gaz-ong," which lacks proper nasal juggling, but it's near enough for a yap.

* * *

Harry Silvey, who seems all over his touches of lady trouble, came in at 3 p. m., just up. A trifle white, he sat on the edge of the chair, swallowing. Finally: "Have you noticed much roll to the ship?" I replied, "No indeedy," and beamed. "By the way, I've ordered a platter of goose livers and a glass of thick cream. Join me?" He greened around the gills, looked about wildly, and, muttering "You rat!" fled.

* * *

In puttering around trying to squeeze out a column before the ship flowers into what Floyd Gibbons calls "a bit of what-a" I found this on a mirror: "Please ask your steward to show you your life belt, to put it on, and to show the way to your life boat." They'll never show me, they'll carry me in an old-fashioned parlor swoon, feet up.

* * *

They dragged me into a bridge game this afternoon. My partner suggested Marie Dressler in a violent rage. My playing didn't sweeten her temper. Between rubbers an opponent inquired my native state. "I was born in Missouri and brought up in Ohio!" I replied. Trilled the Countess Sourpuss: "Is it necessary to mention both?"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I came across this in "Ramona," by Helen Jackson.

"What men usually ask for when they pray to God is that 'two and two may not make four'."

Perhaps that's why YOUR prayers aren't answered.

You've often wondered why they weren't; haven't you?

For of course you, too, pray. Everyone prays, in some way. You may not belong to a church, nor accept any religion. You may not believe in God; may, in fact, deny HIS existence. Yet constantly a prayer goes up from your heart—and sometimes that prayer rises to a cry of agony.

To whom do you pray? You don't know. To the Mystery that made you, that gave you strength, that gives all men whatever they have of strength and wisdom, wealth and health. And now you turn to some source which gave you all you have, and ask for more; for more power, more joy, more peace.

Why shouldn't you have these things? You need them. Other men have them. Then why shouldn't you have them? Day and night, year after year, your heart asks that question of Life—of God. Your heart sends that prayer to Life—to God.

WHY ISN'T YOUR PRAYER ANSWERED?

BECAUSE NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN YOU, YOURSELF, HAVE ALREADY PREVENTED THE ANSWER YOU SEEK.

"What men usually ask for when they pray to God is that 'two and two may not make four.'"

Two and two must always make four. That's a law of mathematics. That's a law of life. Lives add up, like a sum in arithmetic. AND WE, AS WE LIVE, MAKE OUR OWN SUMS; DO OUR OWN ADDITION AND SUBTRACTION.

Two and two make four—and there's no getting away from it.

Hate and envy make tragedy.

Silliness and conceit make contempt.

Laziness and stupidity make misery.

Cowardice and greed make shame.

Waste and silliness make disaster.

Two and two make four. You know that when you see it on paper, but you won't admit it when you see it in life. You know that sums on paper go by rules, but you think that human life should be run by miracles.

And so you ask God for miracles. You ask God to let two and two make six!

Your life is miserable. You don't want to be miserable. You want to be happy and proud and safe. You want people to like you. You want your plans to succeed. Yet everything goes wrong.

And so you turn, clamoring to Life, to God—

"Make things right!" you cry. "Give me what I need, what I want!"

And all the time you, yourself, are making things wrong. All the time you, yourself, are keeping yourself from getting what you need and want.

You can't add two and two and get more than four. You can't add laziness, conceit, silliness, stupidity and extravagance and get more than misery. You can't add hate, envy, suspicion, anger and fear and get more than tragedy.

Why aren't your prayers answered? You, yourself, are why. If your life isn't adding up right, look in yourself for the reason for that failure

TWO AND TWO WILL ALWAYS MAKE FOUR.

GOD HIMSELF, WHO MADE THAT RULE, WON'T BREAK IT.

Text For Today Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.—Revelation, xxii:14.

New York Now Safely Democratic

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"Dear old England, here I come,
"Back where I started from."

Andrew Mellon, whom history will hold responsible for the 12 years of crass materialism and unlicensed privilege which has ended in the collapse of business, has taken the stump for " 'Erbert 'Oover" in England. He journeyed down from the American Embassy to make a " 'Oover" speech in dear old Manchester.

At first blush, one may conclude it a rather brazen, unprecedented piece of impudence, for ambassadors do not customarily make political speeches in the countries to which they are accredited. But after all was not London the place of residence of Mr. Hoover during the major part of his mature manhood? Were not all his business connections and associations under the Union Jack? And so Andrew Mellon makes a partisan appeal for Mr. Hoover to his old countrymen in Manchester.

Now when Montagu Norman, head of the Bank of England, was here for secret conferences with the administration, he slipped in like an immigrant without his proper papers and he made no political speech. But Mr. Mellon is different. Mr. Mellon always has been different. That is one of the reasons conditions in America today are so different from what they have been in the past. Conditions in banking matters are different in Pittsburgh—largely on account of Mr. Mellon. But we are glad he spoke for Mr. 'Oover in England, and we like to think that there was merry chat that night in the Hoover offices in London that are still maintained, and that cheery lights burned in the old London residence where Mr. Hoover lived most of his life, remote from the vulgarities of crude America.

Mr. Mellon has spoken—but what of it? He recommends Mr. Hoover—but who, in heaven's name, recommends Mr. Mellon now? Who even in Pittsburgh?

And So Will New York

But even though the Union Jack waves all over merry England for 'Erbert 'Oover it will not matter in America where "the hogs eyes are sot." That was a marvelous scene in Indianapolis the other day with 100,000 cheering people packed into her famous circle to hear Roosevelt. Indiana will give her electoral vote to him.

And so will New York.

From Boston to San Francisco they are interested in the New York situation. They will be interested to know that there is a complete unification of the forces and a common determination to deliver the electoral vote to her Governor. Al Smith is in the field, and "one blast upon his bugle horn is worth a million men." The Democratic organization in New York City is on its toes for the entire ticket from top to bottom. And the local nominees are men of such popularity and high character and fine achievement that their election is as certain as the opening of the polls.

Senator Wag[illegible]'s Great Record

Thus Mr. Roosevelt has the advantage of the senatorial candidacy of Senator Wagner, who has made the finest record of constructive statesmanship made by any Senator from the Empire State in generations. It is the greatest humanitarian record of any member of the Senate. He could make a fortune in his profession in a short time, but he prefers the public service—at a heavy monetary loss. Within a year of his entrance to the Senate he had won the admiration, affection, confidence of his colleagues on both sides the chamber. Within two years thinkers from coast to coast had hailed him as a constructive mind. He is one of the few public men who appears to have a grasp on the meaning of the times. And no member of the Senate has taken his duties more seriously or given himself more unstintingly.

Whatever has been done for the 11,000,000 jobless men is due to him. He had to fight the Hoover administration three years to accomplish anything. And throughout these dark years he has never given utterance to a word of demagogy. Nor wasted a moment's time in mere partisan wrangling.

Al Smith is right when he says that if such rare service and rare devotion as this means nothing to the people there can be no possible incentive to men for entering public service at all. Senator Wagner's campaign is bound up with that of Mr. Roosevelt.

A Great Pillar Of Strength

The gubernatorial nominee, Col. Herbert H. Lehman, is a great pillar of strength to the entire ticket. A man of fine ability, universally conceded executive capacity, of unquestioned personal and business integrity, with the very highest ideals of citizenship, and with a record in office that looms like a lighthouse in the sea, he is admittedly one of the great human assets of a great community.

And now Smith and Roosevelt have summoned Lehman to continue the Smith traditions. His defeat would be the triumph of reaction, a loss to humanity, the scrapping of the Smith and Roosevelt policies—and the people are in no mood for that.

Urging the Election Of Roosevelt

Herbert Lehman is a great, and it is not maudlin to add, a beautiful character. I am quite sure the most rabid political opponent will not question it. He was literally dragged into politics by Smith because of his rare qualifications for public service. He had his choice between piling up a great fortune, and at a great personal sacrifice, serving the public. He chose the latter.

If ever there was a time when the State needed a competent businessman rather than a morbidly ambitious professional politician at the head of the government, this is the time.

And Lehman, speaking for himself, is urging the election of Roosevelt.

O'Brien Is Able And Industrious

Then there is a mayoralty election this fall; and John P. O'Brien, for 10 years Surrogate, is the nominee. Clean as a hound's tooth, able and industrious, with a long public record of militant championship in office in the public interest, he is a source of great strength to the national ticket. No one is more intimately acquainted with the problems of a great municipality. No one has fought more brilliantly or effectively for the protection of the people in the matter of utilities. And the things Smith, Roosevelt, Wagner, Lehman have done for humanity he did when in charge of putting into operation the Tenement House law.

There is one golden thread that runs through the careers of these five men—a passionate devotion to the public interest, and a genuine feeling for human rights.

And these men are shoulder to shoulder in the determination to carry the state for the national, state and city tickets; and the organization behind them has never been more unified on a purpose, and never more effective.

Five weeks ago I should have said New York was doubtful; today it may safely be counted in the Roosevelt column.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Demands

Age asks, nodding by the fire:
"Give he peace and ease.
Rest from toil is my desire;
Mellow memories!"

Middle Age says: "Give to me
Greater tasks each year;
Ever mounting energy,
Plan and purpose clear!"

Youth cries: "What for peace care I?
Ease I would disdain;
All unbound by memory,
Unafraid of pain!

"Give me only dreams and love;
These, and these alone!
Out of these my worth to prove,
Each day greater grown.

"Dreams, my wine; and love, my bread;
These are all Youth needs—
These, and stardust overhead—
For a life's great deeds!"
